'No One Safe:' Cernik

PRAGUE (AP) — Premier Oldrich Cernik today warned Czechoslovakia's intellectuals to "get out while they can."

The premier told a private briefing he could not vouch for his own safety let alone the safety of the thousands who backed the country's liberalization program.

He was quoted by Reuters news agency as saying that Soviet occupation commanders threatened to take over the country "with brutal force, if necessary."

It was not immediately clear whether this was a new threat or one made during the first days of the occupation. However, similar threats were made to Czechoslovak leaders during their gruelling four days of talks with the Kremlin's leaders in Moscow.

Cernik called on the officials to "go away and urge the best brains of the country to get out while they can."

He said the Russians compiled a list of thousands of names of people to be picked up and transported from the country.

Cernik was asked at the meeting about the personal safety of members of the state government and party.

He replied: "No one now can guarantee this. I am not sure of my own safety."

Canada earlier this week brought a resolution before the UN Security Council calling on Secretary-General U Thant to send a representative to Czechoslovakia to seek the safety and release of detained officials. But Czechoslovakia asked that the council stop all debate on the crisis after the signing of agreements with Moscow on the Czech capitulation.

CERNIK WAS ARRESTED

The premier was one of the leaders of the Czechoslovak government who were arrested on the first day of the invasion and later flown to Moscow for negotiations with the Kremlin.

The negotiations were reported to be gruelling. The Russians threatened to divide Czechoslovakia, placing the Czech area under military rule and making Slovakia part of the Soviet Union.

Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda resisted this plan and refused to negotiate until Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek, Cernik and other government leaders were present in the talks. They were then brought under military guard to Moscow.

Czechoslovak sources said Cernik disclosed more details about pressures to which the Prague leaders were subjected after the occupation when they were taken to Moscow.

They were told nothing about the situation in Czecsoslovakia. The first time they heard that people were killed was at Prague airport when they returned earlier this week.

There was no physical violence agains the Czechoslovaks in Moscow itself. Svoboda displayed great courage at the Moscow negotiations and it was he who saved the country from utter disaster.

At one point during the talks the Russians said that they would destroy the country if need be, and they were entitled to occupy it up to the Western border.

SPARK THAT IGNITED tears and singing at Democratic national convention was film tribute to assassinated Sen. Robert Kennedy introduced by closed circuit TV by his widow, Ethel, and brother Edward.

Tribute to R. Kennedy Becomes Battle Hymn

By RICHARD PURSER
Times Washington Bureau

CHICAGO — There had to be a moment during the sad and miserable national convention of the Democratic Party when the emotions seething below its surface — and often bubbling above it — would be given a brief free rein.

It came unexpectedly Thursday evening at the end of a showing to the convention of a powerful film of tribute to the late Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Delegates, many of whom were crying openly by the time the film ended, burst into extended applause and chanting in the name of their dead hero, and then into the noblest of American songs of arousal, The Battle Hymn of the Republic.

The spontaneous demonstration proved unstoppable despite the efforts of the convention's ineffectual chairman, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma.

It soon became evident that it was something more than an expression of tribute. The demonstration became a gesture of defiance against the whole party establishment epitomized by Rep. Albert and represented here by such outmoded party factotums as Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago and Gov. John Connally of Texas.

Those who represented what the dead senator stood for — the Kennedy constituency, as it was called during his last days, the constituency of the political, social and economic have-nots in American society —were on their feet singing and clapping and they stayed on their feet.

They were making noise in opposition to the old forces which, probably for the last time, dominated this convention; and the two leading representatives of the old forces showed that they knew what was happening. Only the delegations of Illinois and Texas sat in stony silence as the Kennedy tribute moved into its second phase.

Muskie May Quiet Anti-War Critics

By RICHARD S. LYONS
The Washington Post

CHICAGO — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey's choice, was nominated for vice-president by the Democratic national convention Thursday night, despite a final symbolic effort by peace delegates to put up Negro Julian Bond.

Bond, who promptly withdrew because at 28 he falls seven years below the constitutional age requirement, was nominated by the McCarthy delegation from Wisconsin.

Before he withdrew, the convention fell into another hassle over a request to make a seconding speech which the chair ruled came too late.

Muskie, 54, is a quiet, able 10-year senator and a very mild dove whose "inclination to actively pursue the possibility of a bombing halt" if there were a lull in Vietnam fighting might help quiet the criticism of Humphrey as an advocate of administration war policy. Sen. George McGovern (D—S. Dak.), who had tried to pick up the banner of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, said he was pleased with Muskie's selection. Humphrey said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D—Mass.) was also very high on Muskie.

SECOND SPOT

Muskie won second spot on the ticket with 1,944½ votes. Bond received 48½ votes and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who lost the presidential nomination to Humphrey, won three.

Muskie's name was placed in nomination by Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma and seconded by New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, both of whom were also considered for the position.

Alabama, which Wednesday cast a couple of votes for football coach Bear Bryant for president, cast 3½ vice-presidential votes for Chicago's embattled mayor, Richard J. Daley. The mayor, who has been booed for his policemen's strongarm tactics downtown, was cheered by a claque of placard-waving faithful. But on the convention floor, the votes for Daley brought more boos.

McCarthy Defiantly Fights On

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN
The Washington Post

CHICAGO — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy called on his dispirited supporters Thursday to continue working for reform within the Democratic party and then ruled out support for Hubert H. Humphrey this fall.

In a poignant speech to his sad-eyed followers, McCarthy promised to support senate candidates who share his views, but then in an unusually defiant declaration said: "We've forgotten the convention. We've forgotten the vice-president. We've forgotten the platform."

After that speech in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, McCarthy crossed Michigan Avenue to Grant Park, where he addressed a more radical gathering where Wednesday night's battle with police was fought.

In a reference to both Humphrey and the Republican nominee, McCarthy said flatly. "I do not endorse either of them."

He told them he had set out last year to encourage people to "make a judgment" against the war in Vietnam.

"We did accomplish that," he said. "It's only that the judgment could not be put through the procedures of politics in 1968."

Kidnapper Caught After Gun Battle; Child Safe

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — FBI agents rescued four-year-old Stanley Stalford Jr. from a kidnapper today after the abductor tried to use the boy as a shield following a gun battle during a high-speed car chase. The ransom money was reported recovered.

Curly-haired Stanley and his abductor, identified by the FBI as Robert L. Dacy of Lakewood, Calif., were taken to hospital.

One report said the boy, son of a banker, was treated for a gash in his leg.

The FBI in Washington said, however, that the boy escaped injury. Agents said Dacy, 39, was wounded in the right arm, and the ransom money—$250,000 had been requested—was recovered.

FBI agents chased Dacy at breakneck speed through city streets, exchanging shots.

One of the agents rammed Dacy's auto with his pursuit car.

Dacy was trapped, agents said, as they converged on the area to corner him.

They said he tried to shield himself with the youngster, but they were able to make the arrest.

Agents didn't immediately say how.

The boy was rescued two days after he was taken from the family's $90,000 home in a secluded area of Beverly Hills by a man posing as an electrician.

HIT BY BULLET

One of the agents involved in the rescue was reported to have suffered a minor bullet wound.

One report said Dacy might have suffered a broken leg when his bullet-riddled car was rammed by the pursuit vehicle.

Stalford, 49, is chairman of the board of the $100,000,000 Fidelity Bank of Beverly Hills.

He and his wife spent anguished hours after the abduction waiting for a promised call from the kidnapper—and making what police said were earnest efforts to pay the ransom

"The parents can well afford to pay," said Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson.

Winter Work Plan Killed by Ottawa

Protests By B.C. Leaders

The federal government announced today it has killed the winter works program to save money.

The decision was immediately protested by provincial and municipal leaders in British Columbia and Greater Victoria.

These were the first reactions:

"I'm most disappointed"—Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

"A great disappointment"—Oak Bay Mayor Fred Hawes.

"Alarm and complete wonderment"—Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

"Very bad news for our municipalities"—Union of B.C. Municipalities president Mayor Peter Wing of Kamloops.

"Not unexpected"—Esquimalt Mayor Ray Bryant.

Premier Bennett just shook his head.

Victoria city manager Dennis Young responded differently.

"From a local point of view, or rather from a parochial local point of view, the loss of revenue will naturally be felt," he said.

INEFFICIENT

"But from the point of view of the federal and provincial governments the winter works program as a way of stabilizing employment was a most costly and inefficient way of spending public funds.

"It is hoped that before too long the senior governments will come up with a more satisfactory method, a better approach to the problem."

Prime Minister Trudeau said because of the need for "the greatest possible restraint with respect to expenditures by all levels of government . . . the government has decided not to provide incentives for municipal works in the winter of 1968-69."

He said the government has been re-examining its expenditure program. Financial and budgetary circumstances were such that it was essential to cut spending.

WORKED WELL

Mayor Curtis said while the winter works program has created difficulties and possibly has been misused in some parts of the country, it worked very well here and particularly in municipalities like Saanich "where we have not simply thrown anything into winter works.

"It is unfortunate the prime minister and his advisers haven't recognized the social implications of killing this program.

"We have succeeded in Saanich in taking men off welfare, given them work, they have done it well and it has given them faith to do a job and do it well.

"To say that winter works must be dropped because it uses federal and provincial dollars is short-sighted in the extreme. Those same government dollars will be paid through increased welfare costs with no useful work being accomplished.

Youth Pelt Guards

CHICAGO (AP)—Youths throwing bottles and glasses down on Illinois National Guard troops patrolling the street in front of the Conrad Hilton Hotel today brought police to the 15th floor, where they quickly ordered 50 of the young people to the lobby.

The guardsmen were stationed on Michigan Ave. guarding the Democratic national convention headquarters hotel against singing, chanting anti-war demonstrators across the street.

Thursday night they fired tear gas on some 3,000 anti-war demonstrators and a number of convention delegates, and 79 persons, including eight convention delegates or alternates and two reporters, were arrested several blocks south of the Conrad Hilton.

Today, helmeted police swept through Hilton rooms facing Michigan Ave.—many adorned with the blue and white flower symbol of Senator Eugene McCarthy—and ordered about 50 youthful occupants downstairs to the main lobby.

The youths filed into elevators, some pushed by police, and the hallway of the 15th floor was cleared within minutes.

Down in the lobby area, some 30 of the youths sat on the floor in an elevator area singing, We Shall Overcome.

There were no arrests.

Police said the majority of those ordered to the lobby were not hotel occupants.

PROTEST WAR POLICIES

In the confrontation Thursday night, the demonstrators—from varied backgrounds—protested administration war policies, the conduct of the convention and alleged police brutality.

The demonstrators, many wearing delegate identification tags and buttons supporting the candidacy of McCarthy, were stopped in their attempt to march to the International Amphitheatre, site of the security-tightened convention five miles away.

Mass arrests came later in a confrontation between Guardsmen and a mile-long line of marchers, led by Dick Gregory, Negro civil rights activist who had invited the demonstrators to his South Side home.

The marchers were told at 18th Street and South Michigan Ave. that any further advance would be met with arrests.

Gregory and Thomas Day Frasier, a paraplegic and a Democratic county chairman from Tulsa, Okla., ignored the order and were immediately arrested. Frasier was in a wheel chair.

Rock-throwing followed as guardsmen fired tear gas and used rifle butts to disperse the crowd. More tear gas cannisters were fired and the crowd dispersed to regroup at Grant Park, across from the Conrad Hilton Hotel, hub of downtown convention activity.

There the demonstrators sat peacefully on the littered grass of Chicago's lakefront as the odor of the gas lingered in the night-time air. Convention delegates returned to the Hilton under the armed security of 1,400 guardsmen, six lines deep in front of the hotel.

'War Policy Can Change'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

CHICAGO (AP)—Presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey, moving swiftly to unify a sorely-split Democratic party, said Thursday night Vietnam policy can be changed if he is elected and pleaded openly for support from disgruntled anti-war factions.

He lashed out at both "mob violence" and "police brutality" but also warned that "rioting, burning, looting, mugging . . . are the advance guard of anarchy and must and will be stopped."

Humphrey closed the four-day national convention with his acceptance speech—a convention that featured tumult and dissent within the tightly-guarded convention hall and bitter, bloody clashes between police and thousands of anti-war demonstrators outside.

President Johnson decided at the last minute not to attend the final session of the convention. At the Texas White House his press secretary restated Johnson's distaste for violence.

A brave show of unity was displayed at the finale but the party faces an uphill struggle in the next 10 weeks to retain power.

MORE MACE IN FACE THIS TIME U.K. MP

WINNIPEG (CP) — A British woman Labor member of Parliament said today she was sprayed with Mace, roughed up by police and thrown in jail Wednesday night during demonstrations in Chicago.

"The whole thing was a nightmare," said Mrs. Anne Kerr, 43.

Speaking in an interview from her hotel room bed, Mrs. Kerr said she is demanding a personal apology from Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, the man she said was responsible for "the whole wretched situation" in Chicago during the Democratic convention.

She and her MP husband Russell, stopped here during a Western Canada visit.

Mrs. Kerr, her eyes swollen almost shut, described the experience and the "atmosphere of tension" in in Chicago.

She said she had been staying at the Hilton Hotel and was talking to some young people outside during the disturbances when police told them to move along.

"The next thing I knew I was thrown into a van," she said.

"I joined in singing "We Shall Overcome" and the next thing . . . I was sprayed in the face. I thought I had been blinded."

●

Mrs. Kerr said she was taken to a police station but couldn't recall all that was said.

"I don't know exactly what was said . . . somebody grabbed me and threw me into a cell."

She said she asked to see a lawyer or the British consul without success and was kept in the cell for "about five hours".

She said she showed her identification card to the police before she was thrown in the cell and later was told she could go after paying a $25 fine.

"I still don't know what the charge was. I was in a pretty shocked condition."

42,000 Pupils On the Mark

By DON VIPOND

More than 42,000 youngsters in the capital region will answer the school bell next Tuesday.

And while the 92 schools in the Greater Victoria, Saanich Peninsula and Sooke school districts will be bulging, administrators are crossing their fingers and hoping no shift classes will be necessary.

There will be crowding everywhere with makeshift classrooms in lunchrooms, auditoriums and basements. But not until pupils arrive Tuesday will the greatest pressure points be known.

Greater Victoria schools are expected to enrol close to 32,000, up 800 from last year. Teachers will number 1,260.

In the Sooke school district an estimated 5,735 children will be at school, including 815 in the Belmont Park area. Opening of the districts's first kindergatens will account for much of the 700 increase over last year.

USE LIBRARIANS

Schools on the Saanich Peninsula will be as crowded as any and more crowded than most with libraries at five elementary schools usurped as classrooms. About 4,800 pupils are expected in the district.

Two new schools will open in the Greater Victoria district and they appear likely to end an era in school construction.

They are Shoreline elementary-junior high school at the Blanshard elementary on Kings Road in the heart of the Rose-Blanshard urban renewal project.

Together they are worth $1,500,000 and each is a separate and specifically designed structure, like all schools locally to date.

But the international trend in school building is to construction utilizing standard modules and fixtures. This will mean schools still of different shapes and sizes but built from prefabricated parts for economy and speed.

UNIFORM DESIGN

The Greater Victoria school board in a policy stand announced in July said it will advocate the use of structural systems and modular components and will adopt uniform designs for fixtures.

For all schools districts in the province there remains the problem of the provincial government clampdown on borrowing for building.

Blanshard school will replace ancient and decrepit North Ward School and will boast the district's first designed open teaching area.

The size of four ordinary classrooms and centred around a library and resource material centre, the open area an essential part of modern teaching techniques which employ teams of teachers and mobile pupil groups.

The Shoreline School will enrol pupils in Grades 7 to 10, will have about 400 pupils initially and about 500 eventually.

It incorporates some modern and expensive science equipment which won't be seen again while the government's classroom cost ceiling remains.

Cadets Given Awards At CFB School Review

Swords, boots and buttons glittered under a hot summer sun Thursday afternoon as 104 first and second-year officer cadets marched in review at CFB Esquimalt.

Reviewing the parade was Brigadier General A. J. Tedley, chief of training staff, Winnipeg.

The event marked the culmination of a year's work for the cadets—both in class and at sea. They returned Thursday morning aboard three destroyer escorts from a trip to Pearl Harbor, San Diego and San Francisco.

During the ceremony three cadets received awards.

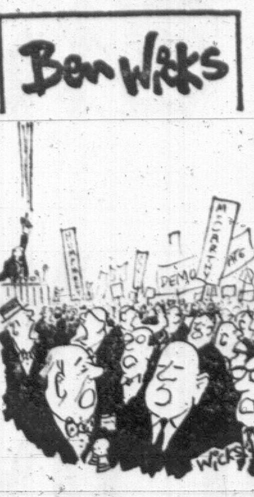
Second-year cadet Richard Bowers took the Queen's Canadian Sword, awarded annually to the cadet who displays the best "officerlike qualities, professional standing, athletic ability and sportsmanship." The award was presented by Brigadier General Tedley.

The Officer of the Watch Telescope was presented to second-year cadet David Green by Col. Jacques Chouinard. The award is presented to the cadet attaining the highest academic standing during the year.

The only first-year award, the Stubbs Memorial Shield, was presented to cadet Patrick Hunt by Brigadier General Tedley. The shield goes to the outstanding cadet in athletics, sportsmanship and academics.

The cadets now will scatter throughout the country to various universities and service colleges to begin the next year.

Most officer cadets face a four-year program.



The windy city.

All Subjects Considered For Adults

When it comes to scheduling evening courses for adults, the Sooke school board's policy is the ultimate in flexibility.

"We're open to ideas," district superintendent Ernest Hyndman said today. "As long as we can get a class of about 15 together, we'll put on anything the people want."

Milton Gibson, a teacher at Sooke elementary school, is the district's director of night school this fall. The adult education program, which conducted a dozen classes over last winter, will likely expand to at least 15 this year.

Among classes likely to start in a month are typing, sewing (beginners and advanced), art, bookkeeping, business machines, cooking and physical education.

All are dependent on enough students registering to pay the class costs.

OPEN TO IDEAS

"We're hoping people will come up with some additional ideas," said Mr. Hyndman.

Length of courses and their costs vary but average $15 to $20 and run weekly for up to six months.

People with questions or course suggestions or who want to register should direct mail to the night school director at the board's office, 2227 Sooke Rd., or phone the office at 478-1781.

TOTEM POLE MINIATURES STOLEN

Four Indian totem poles valued at close to $200 were stolen from a glass show-case in the Blue Boar restaurant, 2852 Douglas late Thursday night.

Police said the poles were taken by someone who pried the lock on the display case. A man was seen running from the scene by a woman in the restaurant shortly after midnight.

. . . POLICY

George Wallace, former Alabama governor heading a third party, adds complications.

The Vietnam war shredded party unity here.

Humphrey pledged to do everything within his power until he takes over Jan. 20, if elected, to "bring a prompt end to this war."

His key phrase: "If there is one thing we have learned, it is that the policies of tomorrow need not be limited by the policies of today.

"If I get to be president, I shall apply that lesson to Vietnam and all the other areas of policy."

SEEKS CO-OPERATION

Humphrey made a special point of soliciting campaign co-operation from both McCarthy, who was not present and who said he would not campaign for the vice-president, and Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, third-ranking aspirant for the presidential nomination.

"I ask your help for America and I ask your help in the difficult campaign that lies ahead," said Humphrey. He praised his "good friends"—McCarthy and McGovern—for giving new hope to the younger generation.

McCarthy's forces represented perhaps the most massive turnout of youth support in American political history.

Humphrey also invoked the name of the two assassinated leaders, Senator Robert Kennedy and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., in an invitation to youth to support him.

"To those who have differences, I say all your hopes, dreams and aspirations will come to naught if we lose this election.

McGovern said he would back the vice-president in the coming election campaign.

CALLS SPEECH 'HOPEFUL'

He described Humphrey's speech as "very hopeful and striking," and a major step in unifying the party.

The vice-president received a thunderous ovation from the party he now leads as he set three guidelines for healing its gaping wounds of dissention, opened up this week:

—The necessity for peace in Vietnam and the world.

—Peace in the cities.

—Unity in the party and the nation.

Even his acknowledged opponents among the delegates—with the exception of about 20 within the Wisconsin delegation who remained seated with folded arms—joined in the cheering as he called for the building of "a cathedral of peace."

He declared: "Let those who believe that our cause in Vietnam has been right—and those who believe it has been wrong—agree here and now: Neither vindication nor repudiation will bring peace or be worthy of our country."

The use of the phrase "New Day" repetitively in his speech seemed to signify the vice-president intended to adopt it as his campaign signal in line with President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "New Deal" and president John F. Kennedy's "New Frontier."

The convention closed after a week of discord on a night marked again in downtown Chicago by police and National Guard troops firing tear gas and swinging clubs to break up demonstrations by anti-Vietnam war protesters.

Groos Among Sixteen Commons Secretaries

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of veteran Toronto MP James Walker as parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau was announced Friday.

Mr. Trudeau also announced at a news conference the names of 15 other Liberal MPs who will assist cabinet ministers both in the Commons and in administering their departments.

Parliamentary secretaries are paid an additional $4,000 over and above their $18,000 yearly salaries as MPs. The post is considered a stepping stone towards membership in the cabinet.

Mr. Walker, 57, MP for the Toronto-area constituency of York Centre, was first elected to the Commons in 1962 and has been in the House ever since.

He is a former party whip and also was parliamentary assistant to then Revenue Minister Chretien in the last parliament.

Other MPs named parliamentary secretaries, with their constituencies and ministers:

Jean-Charles Cantin, 50, Louis-Herbert, to Justice Minister John Turner.

Florian Cote, 39, Richelieu, to Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson.

Yves Forest, 47, Missisquoi, to Privy Council President Donald S. Macdonald.

Rosaire Gendron, 47, Temiscouata, to Health Minister John Munro.

Jean-Pierre Goyer, 36, Montreal Dollard, to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

Herb Gray, 37, Windsor West, to Finance Minister E. J. Benson.

David Groos, 50, Victoria, to Defence Minister Leo Cadieux.

Stanley Haidasz, 45, Toronto Parkdale, to Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford.

Russell C. Honey, 47, Northumberland-Durham, to Rural Development Minister Jean Marchand.

LAING'S ASSISTANT

Paul Langlois, 41, Chicoutimi, to Works Minister Arthur Laing.

Gerard Loiselle, 47, Montreal St. Henri, to Manpower Minister Allan MacEachen.

James McNulty, 50, St. Catharines, to Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey.

Bud Orange, 42, Northwest Territories, to Energy Minister J. J. Greene.

Robert Stanbury, 38, York-Scarborough, to State Secretary Gerard Pelletier.

Eugene Whelan, 44, Essex, to Fisheries Minister Jack Davis.

Group Elects First Board

Seven directors were elected Thursday night at the founding meeting of the Victoria Free School Society.

And more than 60 charter members enlisted in the society at a meeting attended by about 100 at University of Victoria's Student Union Building.

Directors are Rev. L. D. Wallwork, Erica Peavey, Gail Simpson, Jeffrey Schwartz, Mrs. Eric Ericson, Paul Hind and Guy Reicken.

The Warning

TO THE SPECTATOR FROM afar, the frightening thing about the nightmarish brutality that marred the Democratic convention in Chicago was the faceless authority which apparently operated without appeal and without amendment. It was as though robots had been turned on and the key thrown away, so that they automatically continued their clubbing and manhandling—friend, foe, demonstrator, spectator — until no one stood in front of them. The anonymity of the uniforms, the mercilessness of the attacks, the blind adherence to a general order regardless of particular circumstances — the whole episode smacked of 1984. Surely there was a bloodcurdling warning in the Chicago scene. Will it be heeded?

The warning was to be read not only in the savage police reprisals. It lay also in the mobs of thousands who stormed through the streets and for a while stalled the operation of a great metropolis. This was a loosely organized demonstration by a wide spectrum of society — students, dedicated idealists, floating malcontents, riff-raff—but it was a vivid example of what can happen today when a popular cause is set up as the focus of a country-wide rally.

Under such circumstances violence is inescapable. Chicago authorities obviously could not permit the mob to run unchecked and wreck the convention of a national political party. It was the unrestricted fury of the repressive measures, the almost berserk attacks on bystanders, women, working reporters and photographers, even a white-uniformed first aid worker, which showed in fearful clarity the reaction which mob force can elicit.

This was a microcosm of a society in great danger. The heritage of early frontier violence still lives on, the constant threat to organized law which is always presented by a vast criminal underworld remains, and now has been added the obvious hazard of a new generation many of whose members reject traditional customs and discipline, and seek fulfilment or escape in a self-contradictory blend of nonconformity and mass action.

These are not majority aspects of the United States, whose millions of individuals still set an example of freedom, generosity and good citizenship not exceeded anywhere. But the explosive mixture of mob action, street violence, mass demonstrations, and their inevitable concomitants of deployed troops, police, clubbings and Mace, is forming a terrifying pattern in the country. It is a trend which must be diverted into more profitable, more constructive channels if the danger of the ultimate evolution of anarchy or its other extreme, the repressive police state, is to be avoided. It is a vital problem which every nation should consider, for the seeds of both trends are universal.

No New Appeal

MR. T. C. DOUGLAS SAYS that he will accept nomination for the Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands riding, left vacant by the death of the late Colin Cameron, only if no local NDP Party member runs. It will not be surprising if Mr. Douglas receives the call—and if the popularity of Mr. Cameron extends to a party successor, he could be elected. But if Mr. Douglas does win the seat, thereby restoring a voice in Parliament to the NDP leader, the problems of his party will still be far from solved.

In its present state the party enjoys experienced direction. The men at its head have served their movement well. But that service has not equipped the NDP to fashion an appeal that attracts the "new age" voters. The party image remains one of pioneers in social reform, but never that of a body of men and women to whom Canada will entrust the control of its affairs.

Mr. Harold Winch, on the night of the last federal general election, commented on the manner in which other parties have taken CCF and later NDP ideas and made those concepts their own. He added that the NDP could still produce ideas faster than other parties could expropriate them. Perhaps it might start now to produce ideas that coincide more with the wishes of the electors of a new generation. It might also study the economic truism that a country cannot indefinitely spend more, no matter how worthy the social objective, than it produces. The aging leaders of the NDP have developed little appreciation of the old economic realities or the new thoughts of the rising generation.

The Townsite Fiasco

WHILE CONSERVATIONISTS will note with satisfaction the abandonment of plans by Western Mines Ltd., to develop a townsite in Strathcona Park, the history of the controversial proposal does little to reassure people who want our parks to remain inviolate. Nor does the current comment of Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan add anything to public confidence in the protection of such regions.

"We were never really in favor of a townsite in the park," the minister explains. Perhaps not — but when the company sought a parks-use permit to allow such an intrusion, the government and the minister responsible, Mr. Kiernan, agreed to it.

The latest development apparently is not due to Western Mines becoming conservation-conscious and abandoning the townsite plan for that reason. Not at all. The whole scheme has been tossed aside for the simple reason that employees of Western Mines prefer to live in Campbell River — as it was suggested they should do when the controversy first arose over the townsite application.

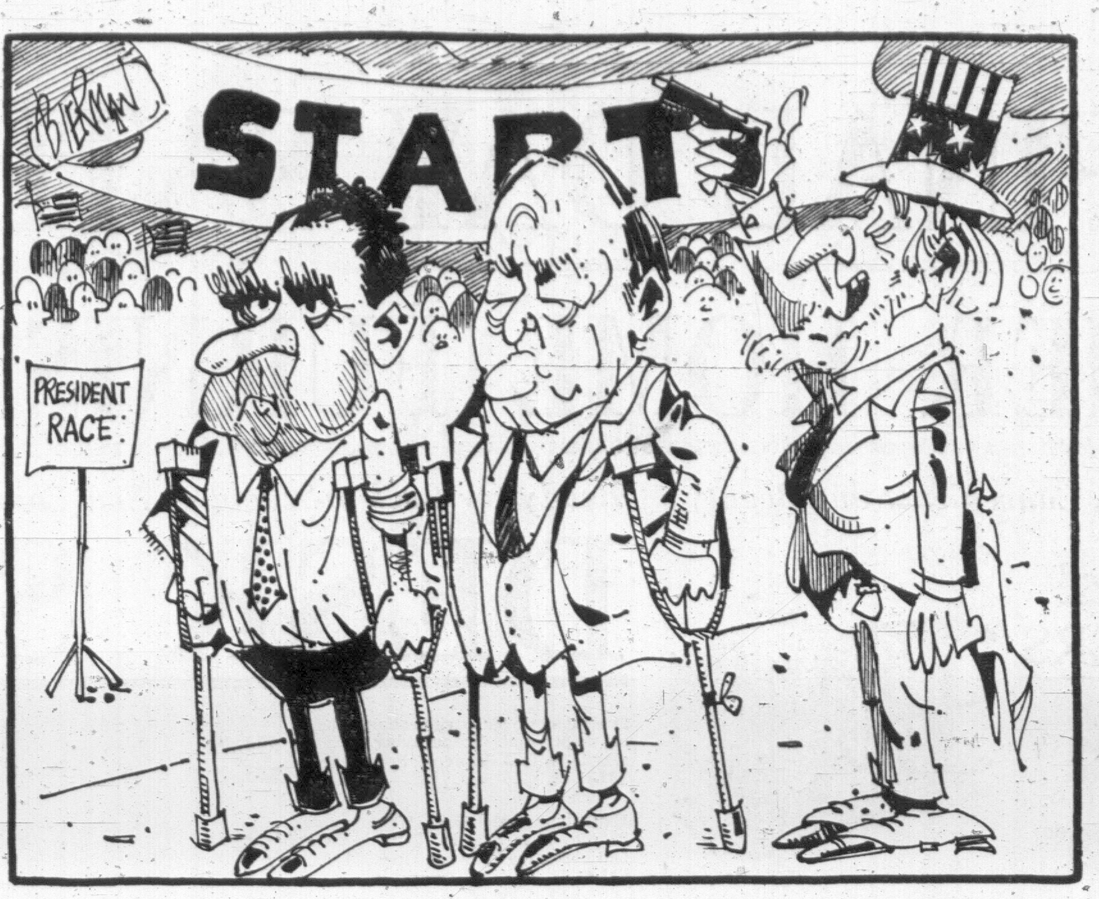
Any inclination to wrap up the issue with a happy ending will be tempered by the knowledge that the Western Mine precedent could be invoked the next time similar interests wish to invade a park. When Western Mines wanted the permit, the government gave it to the company. The government gains no virtue merely because Western Mines no longer wants what it got.

A Call for Narcotic Law Review

THE NARCOTICS ADDICTION Foundation of British Columbia has emphasized an essential need in its statement that "a complete review of legislation and treatment approaches is long overdue if sensible and effective control, treatment, rehabilitation and educational programs are to be achieved" in the continuing struggle against addiction. This is the opinion of a vitally interested and informed group confirming the viewpoint that present approaches to the problem are largely ineffective.

The foundation will find widespread support for its recommendation that prison terms for traffickers be increased, but the point might be made that present heavy sentences for this offence have not eliminated the peddler.

The harsh fact is that the returns from black-market narcotics remain so high that some individuals are prepared to run the risks of being caught. The price paid to the trafficker bears little relationship to the legitimate price paid for the narcotics and is highly inflated because the peddler, taking the risks and selling to compulsive users, charges as much as the traffic will bear. That is a point which a review of legislation might investigate.



"... and may the best man win ..."

FROM CHICAGO

By JOSEPH ALSOP

'Un-Poor, Un-Young and Un-Black'

THE Democratic convention, boiling with hatred, has made an interesting contrast to the Republican rally in Miami, which was dank with resignation. It suggests, in fact, that the composition of the two major parties has changed so much that they are close to a reversal of roles. The profoundest difference between Republicans and Democrats has been for decades on end a difference of political aim. The Republicans have always cared, first, foremost and above all, about giving their pet ideologies, a nice run in the yard. The Democrats have always cared most of all about winning elections.

Alsop

Both parties, as is natural, have always been rent by internal disagreements and distracted by opposing tendencies. But the Republicans, with the exception of the two Eisenhower elections, have always allowed their doctrinal disputes to drag them down to defeat, whereas the Democrats have ended their shouting matches by uniting for victory.

This year, however, it is clearly likely to be the other way around. It seems astonishing that this should be so, if only because of the personalities involved. Only eight years ago, after all, Senator Eugene McCarthy and a good many of his leading leftwing supporters were all out for Hubert H. Humphrey until the latter's withdrawal from the presidential race, and they could find nothing sufficiently nasty to say about John F. Kennedy.

Consistently Vicious

Senator McCarthy has at least been consistent in his viciousness towards all Kennedys, as anyone can see who studies his recent extraordinary interview, which is bilious with bitterness against Senator Robert Kennedy. But the same consistency does not cover the case of Hubert Humphrey. The Humphrey-lovers and Kennedy-haters of the past are all Humphrey-haters and Kennedy-McCarthy lovers today.

To listen to them talk about Humphrey, you might suppose that they were describing an altogether different man from the Humphrey of eight years ago, whereas, of course, he is precisely the same man. It remains to be seen whether this ideological bile of the leftwing Democrats will finally be cured in the morning-after of their big political drunk out here, when they have to face the meaning of a Republican campaign based on the "Southern strategy."

There is a good chance, however, that the reversal of role of the two parties will endure for a long time. In that event, the Republicans will go on winning elections, while the Democrats will go on slanging one another like embittered theologians ready to lay down their lives, or murder their opponents, for the correct computation of the number of angels able to dance on the head of a pin.

There is a good chance that this will happen, because the reversal of role of the two parties in some measure reflects a deeper reversal in the composition of the electorate. When the present Democratic party was invented by Franklin D. Roosevelt, the poor, the unemployed, the disaffected, the disinherited constituted an American majority. Most Southerners were also in these categories, then. And most intellectuals went along contentedly enough, if they had not previously been lured into the Communist trap.

Changing Viewpoints

Today, however, the great majority of American voters is composed of people who are "un-poor, un-young and un-black," as the political statistician, Richard Scammon, bluntly reminded a recent audience. That means that great numbers of formerly faithful Democrats have moved to the suburbs, have begun to experience affluence, and have begun to change their political views and aims.

It is this new American majority of "un-poor, un-young and un-black" that Richard M. Nixon has set out to gather behind him. Even those Republicans who are most unhappy about the Nixon approach have stayed hitched thus far, and for a rather simple reason. Nothing makes politicians less ideologically pig-headed than the happy sense that there really is a majority that really can be gathered together, if only everyone will also pull together.

No Unity for Victory

It was this same sense that used to unite the Democrats for victory. It does so no longer. The dissident Democrats, the real Humphrey-haters, have claimed to speak for the very poor, the very young, and the most discontented part of America's negro minority. In some sense, this claim has been justified, even when put forward by the most self-righteous McCarthyites from the most properous groves of Academe.

Now the question about these people is really rather simple. Are they going to behave like the unhappy minority of the Roosevelt years — the people who were the "un-poor, un-young and un-black?" Are they going to indulge themselves, in short, by shouting unrealistic slogans and reforming unrealistic, leftwing versions of the Liberty League? Or are they going back to the old Democratic business of trying to win? None can tell as yet.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Disconcerting Floating Exchange Rates

THE latest study of the Canadian experiment with floating exchange rates is likely to make disconcerting reading for the New Democratic critics who advocate a return to that system. In November 1967 the national council of the NDP proposed, among other policies: "A floating exchange rate for the Canadian dollar and control of capital movement across borders to meet balance of payments problems and regain control of the Canadian economy."

Western

This was not forgotten during the election campaign. Mr. Douglas, for example, brought it up in the course of the leaders' debate on television. "One of the reasons for our high interest rates," he explained, "is that we have been consistently, as a matter of government policy, keeping our interest rate above the United States'. . . this is due to the fact that we have a fixed exchange rate. We believe that a floating exchange rate would make us less vulnerable to interest rate changes in the United States."

As Mr. Trudeau immediately commented, the argument seemed somewhat confused for Mr. Douglas on the one hand objected to the differential on interest rates while complaining on the other that too much of our capital was flowing out of the country. Anything that reduces the profitability of investment here would naturally tend to stimulate the outflow.

But this is not the point to be noted in the present context. The NDP was, and presumably still is, in favor of a floating rate because it believes that such a policy would increase our economic independence by helping to insulate us against American influences.

Viability Examination

There is no reason to suppose that the American economists, Dr. G. H. Mellish and Dr. Robert G. Hawkins, had the NDP or any particular NDP theory in mind in the study now published by the Institute of Finance of New York University. They examined the Canadian experience of 1950-1962 from the standpoint of the viability and more general applicability of flexible exchange rates. Their general conclusion is that other countries would probably find themselves in difficulties if they resorted to former Canadian practice.

It is obvious from the duration of the experiment that the floating rate was viable for Canada and generally consistent with a stable dollar. But this was so because Canada's position differed from that of many other countries.

According to the very careful Mellish-Hawkins analysis, Canadian dollar stability was due in large measure to Canada's highly developed economic links with the United States. Not only were trading ties close but the business cycles in the two countries tended to coincide both in time and magnitude. Thus our imports from and exports to the largest foreign market tended to rise and fall together, holding cyclical fluctuations in the floating rate within comparatively narrow limits.

Private Capital Influence

Private short-term capital movements also exercised a restraining influence. When the dollar Canadian tended to fall, tight monetary policy — rising interest rates—stimulated capital inflows, exerting upward pressure on the dollar.

Through the operations of the Canadian exchange fund, the Bank of Canada during this period sought to reinforce the stabilizing influences. Dr. Mellish shows, however, that its sales and purchases of exchange were generally small, tending to decline as a trend persisted. They were not of a magnitude to determine the rate. An exception was the 1961-62 period but the experiment in manipulating the Canadian dollar to a lower level led to the re-pegging and foreign exchange crisis of May 1962.

Stability also reflected a third reality. Direct investment in Canada, particularly from the United States, was often associated with an immediate import of capital goods. Thus the rate did not have to shift in the interests of over-all balance.

The NDP is in a rather odd position. In the name of greater economic independence, it advocates a return to a policy that was viable precisely because of Canadian-American inter-dependence. Furthermore, Mr. Douglas now discerns in a floating rate escape from tight money and high interest rates although it was the tight money policy of the 1950s (at the time much vilified) which, according to these two competent and objective analysts, kept our dollar stable enough to make the policy practicable.

From the standpoint of Mr. Douglas the floating rate may by now have an additional weakness, unperceived by the American investigators. Plainly it did very little in the recent election for the NDP. On both economic and political grounds there may be a case for a new look before the party recommits itself in the new Parliament.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"I TALKED TO THE MONSTER AN' HE SAID THERE WOULDN'T BE NO TROUBLE IF I CAME IN HERE FOR THE REST OF THE NIGHT!"

Looking Back

From the Times, Sept. 4, 1908.

Whether David Spencer Limited Stables at the corner of Michigan and Parry Streets constitute a nuisance or a danger to public safetly or health, was the subject which took up much of the council's time last night.

Two inspectors swore that there might be considerable smell from the stable but there was nothing about it that constituted a menace to public health.

The case was remanded for further hearing.

Deformed Minds

Ottawa Journal

The South Pacific atoll of Bikini is famous for giving its name to an article of clothing and as the site of 1946 American nuclear testing. The bikini remains with us, and so does nuclear testing.

Above ground testing — like the first Bikini blast that sent a 200-mile trail of radioactive dust across the Pacific — has been banned by treaty between the Soviet Union and the United States. Red China and France continue with above ground tests.

But only now after 22 years, are the inhabitants of Bikini being allowed to return to their islands. American consultants feel that radiation levels have declined to a safe point.

A 1962 film shot on Bikini showed sea turtles which giving birth to deformed young had wandered inland and died, rather then returning to the sea as they had always done before. Millions of sterile tern eggs littered the island.

Man can rebuild, and the soil may be coaxed back to fertility. But what of our minds? Should not man live in some shame so long as his most imaginative and costly works are devoted to the destruction of his fellowmen?

Matriarchy

Toronto Telegram

On the same night in Toronto, the Public School Men Teachers' Federation was warned against the all-pervading influence of a matriarchal society and the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario was told to beware the prejudice of an all-male establishment.

Jack Fisher, assistant secretary of the men teachers, said the paucity of men on the staff of public schools and the abdication of the father in the home are causing boys to be exposed for the first 14 years of their lives to the undesirable influence of almost exclusive female care.

Mrs. Laura Sabia, a St. Catharines alderman, said women have not yet taken their rightful place in the professions and politics, and that the matriarchal society is a myth.

Mr. Fisher has some grounds for complaint. Even so intense a suffragette as Mrs. Sabia cannot deny that there are more women than men in the elementary teaching profession.

But his is an old complaint. Several generations of youngsters have been reared by schoolmarms. What he really seems to be worried about is the changing role of the family, and he should be directing his adjurations to fathers to spend more time in the home.

Clearing Skies

Ottawa Citizen

City council's decision to remove all overhead signs in areas where wiring has been buried underground will make an enormous difference to the appearance of Ottawa. It's another victory in the never-ending war on ugliness.

Shaky Crutch

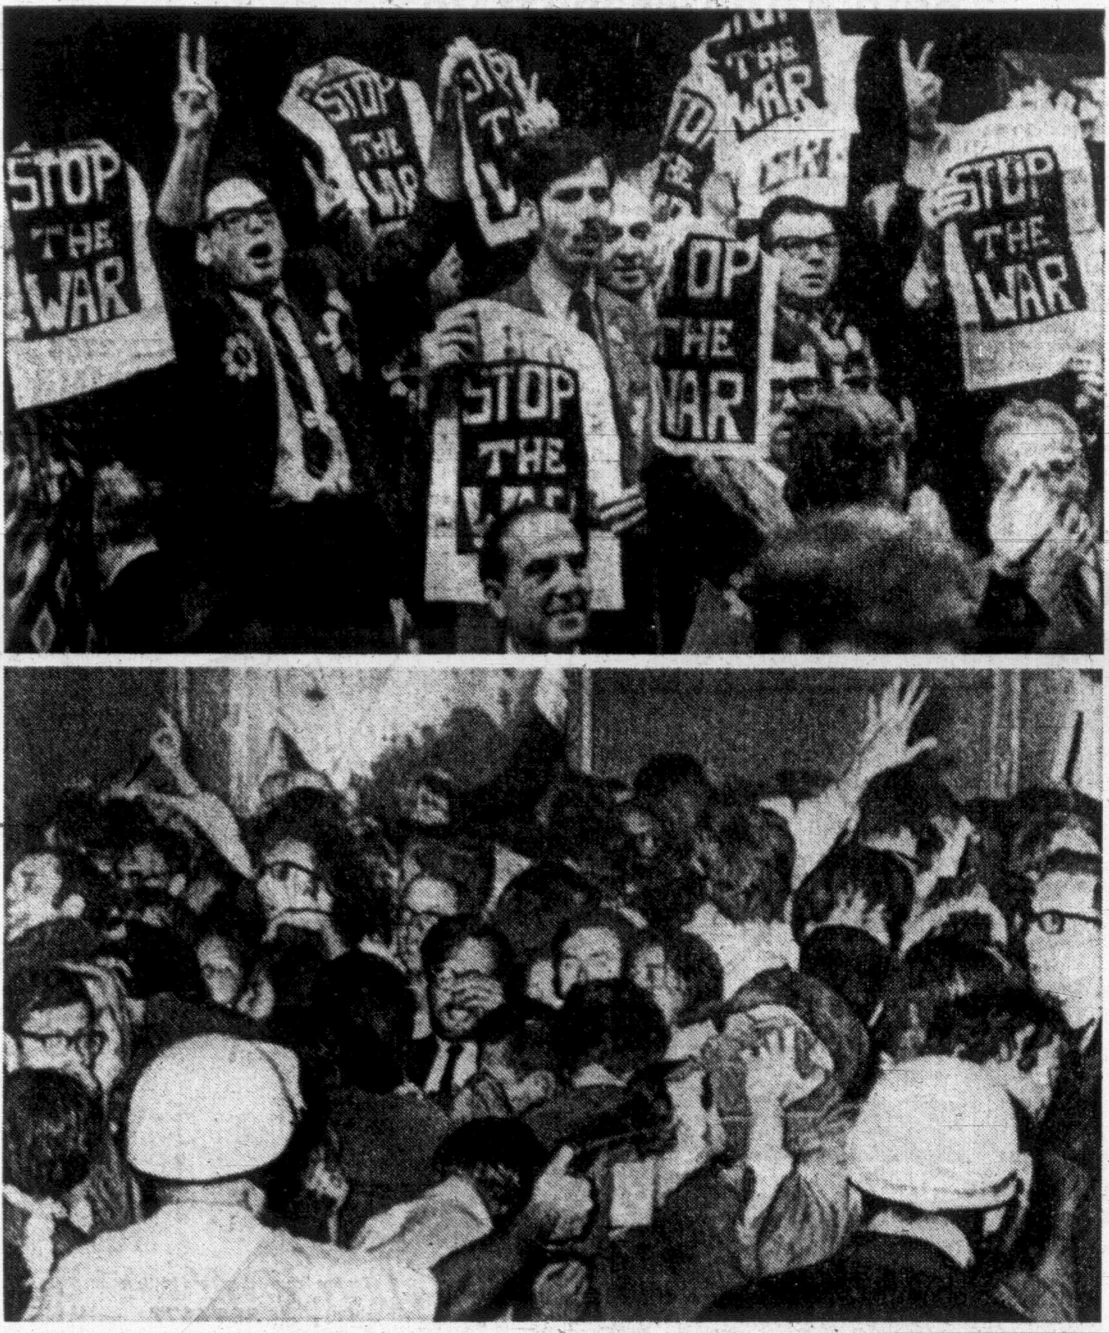
Calgary Albertan

Critics of the government's previously announced intention to review Canada's position in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are taking advantage of the Czechoslovakian situation to say "we told you so." It had been and is argued that it would be folly and unfair for Canada to reduce its level of involvement in NATO. The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia provided the government's critics with a somewhat shaky crutch for an already weak argument.

Indeed, the Czech situation has altered the NATO picture. Prime Minister Trudeau and External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp have admitted as much. But, this does not necessarily mean that the government's critics were or are right about Canada's position in NATO.

What the government initially planned was a calm, objective review of NATO needs in the light of circumstances which have evolved significantly since the end of the Second World War. Military, economic, and social conditions all underwent considerable change in the post-war years. NATO itself changed somewhat with an extension of its concern into European economic matters. It was only sensible that Canada review its role in NATO so as to keep abreast of the times. Such a course is vital for all NATO members if maximum efficiency and relevancy are to be maintained.

A RISING CRESCENDO OF DISSENT



Both inside the convention centre and outside on the streets, the Democratic national convention in Chicago this week has produced scenes of almost unbelievable dissension and violence and — claim many qualified observers — equally unbelievable cynical political manipulation and brutal repression. Top photo shows angry anti-war demonstrators on the convention floor protesting the adoption of the administration plank on Vietnam. Lower photo, a policeman squirts a stream of Mace into a crowd of demonstrators outside the Conrad Hilton Hotel during fracas in which hundreds were injured by savagely-wielded police clubs.

Himalayas Hippie Heaven; Nepal's the Place to Groove

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

KATMANDU, Nepal—For the hippie set, there is no high like getting high in the high Himalayas.

At a time when Laos has grown disenchanted with them and Thailand won't let them in without a bath and a haircut and Japan requires a bond of $250 as proof of financial stability, the tiny kingdom of Nepal looms as the last stronghold of hospitality for the hippie.

Medieval Katmandu, above, capital of the Kingdom of Nepal, has become a haven and refuge for scores of hippies.

Katmandu, the capital of this swinging kingdom at the roof of the world, is an unbelievably medieval city of narrow winding streets and quaint, tiny, tottering brick houses with exquisitely carved wooden balconies, interspersed everywhere with Hindu and Buddhist pagodas. The crowded sidewalk bazaars are a constant clatter of braying goats, changing holy men, bawling merchants, mooing sacred cows, wandering string musicians.

Out of Sight

"It's an out-of-sight place to groove," avowed Richard the Hippie from Iowa, reverently traipsing through a temple courtyard in his saffron Buddhist robes tastefully topped off with Tibetan prayer beads, a lai of poinciettas, a John the Baptist haircut and a way-out Nepalese umbrella ornamented with nearly naked Nubian slave girls.

To groove, in the hippie argot, means simply to wander out the door of one's pad with no avowed purpose or direction and let the world happen to you.

And Katmandu is where it's really happening. On an ordinary, everyday groove, one can encounter a real live vestal virgin with Twiggy-like eyeballs, a guru pushing an impressive array of aphrodisiacs, fortune tellers who use trained parrots to peck out lucky cards from a deck, Gurkha tribesmen down from the high passes with ferocious and bejewelled khukuri knives, blue-haired little-old lady tourists giggling in shock at the erotic carvings on the Hindu temples. . . .

Howling Dogs

Beggars and blind men, lepers and holy men, a bell whose knell is said to be the sound of death and sets all the local dogs to howling, a pagoda presided over by a priesthood of monkeys, Sikhs in turbans and long flowing beards, sari-clad lovelies with precious stones in their nostrils and caste marks on their foreheads. . . .

Rickshaw boys who make their way through the endless stream of humanity by pumping on bulbous klaxon horns, Tibetan refugees flogging off magnificently textured carpets in tiny sidewalk stalls, lamas whirling their prayer wheels and Parsis sucking on their waterpipes.

Since air fares are beyond the means of most hippies, the accepted method of making a pilgrimage to this mecca of marijuana is to form a limited holding company for the purchase of a second-hand car in India, drive the woeful 22-hour ordeal of scorching plain and malaria-ridden jungle from Calcutta, and then sell the car, which should enable everyone to live for at least a year.

A room at the Camp Hotel or the B. C. Lodge, the two favorite crash pads, costs three rupees (about 30 cents) a night. At an occupancy rate of seven in a room, this works out to about $1.25 a month a person.

To keep body and soul together between trips, a hippie for a similar three-rupee investment can obtain a "buff steak" (water buffalo meat), dal (a pea soup made with curry), weak tea and India bread smeared with Tibetan jam that smells and tastes like beer.

The pharmacies of Nepal carry an unbelievable pharmacopia of dream drugs, everything from airplane glue to benzedrine, codeine, morphine and methadrine, all at over-the-counter prices that would put socialized medicine out of business.

All but LSD

"They have everything except LSD," observed Richard, "and I can import enough of that in one airmail envelope from India to blow out every mind from here to Peking."

"Dogs are the worst thing about Katmandu," said Richard, warily sidestepping an ulcer-blotched mongrel sleeping in the middle of the walkway.

"Most of them are rabid and the hospital ran out of serum weeks ago."

Richard's pad, entered by stooping under a low doorway and climbing a winding flight of wooden stairs, was a one-room apartment with slanty floors and magnificently carved window sills in a dangerously listing brick house that must have been at least 700 years old.

"You get marvellous vibrations here," said Richard.

The vibrations were best when the pad was at or near full occupancy; "I never know how many people will crash here for a night; seven, eight, 10, all nationalities. It makes no difference."

Right 'Karma'

Like others in Nepal's international hippie set, which now includes Germans, Danes, Swedes, Japanese, Filipinos, Britons, French, Greeks, Italians and even a few from Poland and Czechoslovakia, Richard has been bumming around the world for five years in search of the right "karma," attitude of mind.

"The Middle East," he said, "has a bad karma. Too much hate. You could feel it, even in Turkey which otherwise is out of sight."

Nepal allows all visitors in on a seven-day visa, but the hippies can obtain endless 30-day extensions by getting "trekking permits" from the foreign office, although the trips they have in mind have nothing to do with the Himalayas.

The hippies' Shangri-La has some drawbacks, particularly where the health of the hippies is concerned.

Harry Wisnowski and Erwin Orchek, two West Berliners heading back to New Delhi, complained that most of the colony was suffering from dysentery, tuberculosis, hepatitis and malnutrition. The medical halls, superbly stacked with freak-out items, are notoriously deficient in common antibiotics.

Recently a German hippie died from a combination of tuberculosis and mind-bending drugs.

"He was on a weird thing," said Olaf, a Swedish hippie. "Speed and LSD, mixed with raksi (the local wine brewed from rice and millet).

"You can't mix alcohol with pep pellets. It confuses your chromosomes and everything."

His death shook the colony.

But winter at last is coming in Nepal, and winter for the local colony is a renewal. The air clears, the curtain of monsoon clouds lift, and Mount Everest and Annapurna stand revealed in all their towering, snowy glory.

"Out of sight, man, out of sight," exulted Richard.

A Deep Mood of Pessimism Imbues U.S. Election Scene

By ARCH McKENZIE

CHICAGO—The emotional blood-letting within the United States Democratic Party here will sorely test the party's reputation for healing divisions quickly to win elections.

In fact, a deep mood of pessimism seems to exist about the presidential contest Nov. 5 between Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey and Republican Richard M. Nixon, with Alabama racist George Wallace mounting a strong third-party threat.

●

A comparison is inevitable with 1964, when the Republicans tore themselves apart at San Francisco in naming conservative Barry Goldwater and then lost disastrously to Lyndon B. Johnson.

The roles could be reversed — not just in the Democrats' election prospects this year but in the tribulations and internal friction that has been indicated here for the party structure.

There is both conflict in ideology and conflict of two generations rocking the whole improbable coalition that Franklin D. Roosevelt pasted together first in 1932—a conservative South, labor, academic-intellectuals, the poor and the black.

The Republican party's convalescence toward unity masterminded by Nixon and so marked three weeks ago at the Miami Beach convention will be harder to duplicate within the Democrats by virtue of party composition and the changes these elements have gone through.

The Republicans have for years been fewer in number and more homogeneous.

Variety, diversity and a talent for consensus or living with basic conflicts have marked Democratic family life.

What happened at Chicago?

The convention was to all appearances controlled by the outgoing President Johnson with an eye on not only continuing but vindicating his Vietnam policy, dissidents say. Those dissidents are among the 40 per cent of the delegates who voted for the so-called peace plank.

Johnson's outriders included Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, last of the powerful political machine bosses. Unprecedented security measures, coupled with the bloody confrontation between Daley's police and antiwar demonstrators Wednesday night, alienated hundreds of convention delegates.

●

How hard they will work for the party, if at all, for November remains to be seen. Their hearts and loyalties were with Senators Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern and with the assassinated Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Labor has been a power in the Democratic machine and its muscle was vital in pushing Vice-President Humphrey into the nomination. But that was the labor hierarchy and today there is no longer the certainty that the blue-collar vote will go Democratic.

This is particularly true of the industrial north where backlash against the Negro, first visible in 1964, has grown as a result of city disturbances. George Wallace's third party is the likely gainer.

The academics and intellectuals who characterized the Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy eras no longer seem at home with the Democrats because of Vietnam.

The broadening Negro vote remains with the Democrats because there is no impetus among Republicans to woo it. But Robert Kennedy's assassination removed the strongest link the party had with Negroes, particularly those in the city slums.

The South? In 1964, Goldwater won only five states, all in the South. That was a Republican breakthrough of a kind in what had been a Democratic preserve.

●

Today, the South is being written off by some observers as Wallace's private holding and whether this hits the Republicans or Democrats harder will be revealed Nov. 5.

The possibility is foreseen of the November election resulting in a nobody-wins decision that the House of Representatives would have to decide.

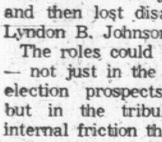
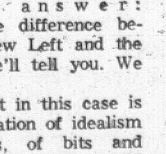
True Believers and the New Left

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE



Fisber



Crowe

The musical, Fiddler on the Roof, has a line which goes like this: "How did the tradition get started? I'll tell you. I don't know."

A contemporary issue in Canadian political science prompts the following question and answer: "What is the difference between the New Left and the Old Left? We'll tell you. We don't know."

The Old left in this case is the agglomeration of idealism and analyses, of bits and pieces of Fabianism, guild socialism, Jeffersonian Democracy, Populism. Progressivism and Utopianism out of which in time came the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation and then the New Democratic Party.

The New Democratic Party represents innumerable other influences, probably several decades of scholarship and experience in many countries ranking as the first influence. Perhaps it could be called the Middle Age Left.

But the New Left is upon "Us" perhaps meaning the Liberal Party as much as the New Democrats. It would appear from the student activists around, who claim the label, that more of them worked for the Liberals than for the New Democrats in the recent election.

★ ★ ★

On university campuses the partisan differences are not reflected in any distinct or different views about what a university should be doing. Liberal or New Democrat, if you press the same button you get the same response.

And what is it? Well, universities should "care." They should take positions on the "great" issues, which are, in order, Vietnam, Indians, Negro rights and Rhodesia. And to get a university declaration of position you must have activists, student and faculty in a position from which they can speak for the institution.

This leads at once to the question of university structure, where generally speaking, the students have an endless store of ideas which make some, and often a lot, of sense.

But it is the new function of the university which dictates the need for the new structure. What if the institution isn't to be reformed? Well, too bad for it. It shouldn't be functioning.

This simplistic statement is no distortion of some of the literature which has made its appearance in the past four or five months. The activist students will tell you that it finds its origin in the writings of Herbert Marcuse, German-born philosopher at the University of California at San Diego.

★ ★ ★

Prof. Marcuse is embroiled at present in a bitter battle with the American Legion in California which has offered to buy up his contract if he will go packing. Distantly, the quasi-nihilistic ideas, the concept of direct action, the belief that any institution is fair game as vehicle for activists if it will allow itself to be used, does come from Herbert Marcuse.

We have plowed through his One-Dimensional Man with great difficulty. It is about the heaviest-going stuff now on the bookstands. As far as ideas which have any political application go, there is nothing new here.

We believe we are not unfair to Marcuse when we say there is nothing in this book which we had not read and rejected by the time we had finished our first year in university, in the writing of the anarcho-syndicalists (remember them?) of Eastern Europe and Czarist Russia.

★ ★ ★

Here is where the New Left joins the Old Left, but it is the American and not the Canadian Left. Canadian socialists were in the British Fabian, and to a lesser extent, guild socialist tradition. American socialism of the early years of this century, centring upon immigrant workers, especially in the needle trades in New York and Chicago, was Marxist, nihilist or anarcho-syndicalist.

It is a philosophy which fits a mood of alienation, a sense of rejection and a counter-desire to do some rejecting.

Maybe students are reading Marcuse. We have still to meet one who is. But they have the gospel from others who have read it. They seem to accept it uncritically, as befits a gospel. It is easier to be a "true believer" if you don't look the true belief in the guts.

Minister Challenges Atheistic Contention

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

DR. PRIOR

A Victoria woman's statement that "all thinking people are atheists" was challenged today by Rev. Dr. Kenneth Prior of Victoria.

"Many leading scientists are Christians and find no conflict between belief in an absolute deity and scientific truth," said Dr. Prior, a former agricultural missionary in Africa.

He was commenting on a statement by Dr. Marion Sherman of Victoria Humanist Society. She said the suffering she saw in India changed her outlook and made her a non-believer.

"This is interesting," said Dr. Prior, "yet this very suffering has been the means of strengthening the faith in others.

"Consider the statement of the Indian Christian leader who said 'I am a Bhil tribesman. All that I am and have I owe to Christ and His Church.'

"The sublimation of human suffering, frequently seen in India and elsewhere, is not accomplished by man's inner resources, but by a power from without."

Dr. Sherman said: "No child was ever born believing in God."

"Quite true," Dr. Prior said, "but conversely no child was born disbelieving in God."

Morals and Ethics

Dr. Sherman said "Humanists believe they can be moral and ethical without believing in a supreme being. They believe it is up to man, not God, to better his lot."

Answered Dr. Prior :

"She means that it is by a tug of one's bootstraps that betterment is obtained. A glance about us is far from heartening in this respect when we see the derelicts of human society in our midst, the violence, the drug addiction, the general aimlessness."

Dr. Prior said Dr. Sherman's statements are both superficial and inaccurate.

"True," he said, "people are searching for a sense of security and have been since the beginning of time. But security has not been found, nor will it be found, in man.

"The idea of God and belief in the power of some deity is world-wide, even among very primitive peoples. Anthropologists all know this and Dr. Sherman should know it, too.

"The idea of the self-sufficiency of man is a relatively new idea and has come in with the increase of scientific knowledge and material possessions.

"Dr. Sherman says she does not believe in God. Yet later in her statement, she says God is love. This is a strange and contradictory admission.

"Dr. Sherman's final thoughts can all be answered, but this would require considerable time and space. These thoughts are not profound and show a real ignorance of the Christian belief and understanding."

Dr. Prior has just returned from the 10th Northwest International Mission Conference in Seattle.

He hopes the 1970 conference will be held in Victoria.

"This is a most important conference," Dr. Prior said, "because it reflects the changing pattern of our worship and will determine how our churches will function in years to come.

"For instance, our theme for the coming year is Toward Understanding China and the Chinese People. We must get beyond the boundaries of our parochial interests.

"There is much argument as to how much should be spent on our home churches and charities abroad. And it has been rightly stated that, if our churches crumble, there will be no source of income.

"But I think we should divide our funds equally between our home charities and charities beyond our boundaries. The old idea that the only way to worship is in church on Sunday morning or evening is outmoded.

"We are challenged to do much more than that. The church's mission must grow and expand. The Pentecostal churches are forging ahead because their people are not giving the least they can afford but the most.

"In our traditional churches—the United and Anglican—many people are giving a dollar a week. And they gave a dollar a week 20 years ago.

"This means that their thinking and their generosity have not kept pace with the times."

Dr. Prior says may United churchgoers don't give anything like a tenth of their income, a tithe, but the Pentecostal churchgoers give a tenth and more.

Greatest Challenge

Dr. Prior believes the greatest challenge to the Christian church is to be found in southeast Asia.

"Because of intense nationalism, many are returning to their old beliefs. They are taught that it is unpatriotic to be a Christian.

"Christianity, they are told, is the white man's religion. Therefore, they should return to Bhuddism or Hinduism—the faiths of their fathers."

Dr. Prior said Victoria was poorly represented at the Seattle conference, held in the Roman Catholic University of Seattle.

He would like to see many more Victoria churches represented at the 1959 conference to be held at Williamette, Oregon.

Before the Magistrate

A 19-year-old youth appearing for trial Thursday on two charges of assaulting city police officers was remanded until Sept. 5 to fix a date for a new trial.

Lawyer John Meyer, appearing for the accused David Harvey, of 427 Hillside, asked for an adjournment on the grounds that he had not had sufficient time to prepare his defence.

However Magistrate J. A. Byers refused the request and ruled the case should proceed. Mr. Meyer, after conferring with Harvey, withdrew from the case and Magistrate Byers then ordered a one-week adjournment to enable Harvey to obtain a new lawyer.

Harvey was charged Aug. 18 with assaulting Const. Michael Mason with the intent to resist arrest for obstructing a police officer, and with assaulting Const. Andre Blaney with the intent to resist the arrest of William Harvey, brother of the accused.

9,000 Deported From U.S.; Lacked Visas

OTTAWA (CP)—The United States embassy has issued a statement warning that Canadians who go to work in the U.S. after entering the country as non-immigrant visitors are breaking American law and are eligible for deportation.

A number of deportations have taken place, a spokesman said.

The statement noted that some non-immigrant visitors from Canada, responding to newspaper advertisements, have entered the U.S. seeking employment—or to buy a business. Under U.S. law, they are required to return to Canada after completing their employment arrangements, and apply for immigrant visas at a U.S. consular office.

THREE MONTHS

With receipt of the visa, which normally takes three months or more, they can enter the U.S. and legally begin to work. "Unfortunately," said the statement, "a number of visitors accept employment and begin to work immediately without first obtaining immigrant visas."

These persons are subject to immediate deportation.

The U.S. spokesman explained that under an American law that went into effect July 1, Canadian workers face increased delays in getting into the United States for work. The new law restricts immigration from Western Hemisphere countries to 120,000 persons a year.

Those certified now for entry U.S. until after Christmas because of the delays brought about by the new immigration law.

The spokesman was not able to give any recent figures on the rate of deportations from the U.S.

However, in the 1966 fiscal year, 138,000 deportable aliens were located in the U.S., of whom 9,000 were Canadians. Roughly 10 per cent of the total were actually deported, the rest allowed to leave on their own responsibility.

Most of the aliens were held deportable because they had illegally accepted employment in the U.S. This problem has apparently grown, the spokesman said.

Long Strike Ends

TORONTO (CP).— Settlement was reached Thursday by negotiators for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Canada, Ltd., and its 2,000 striking employees.

If ratified at a union membership meeting called for Sunday, the agreement will end the 17-week strike by the employees.

MYSTERY surrounds the disposition of some $320,000 of Seafarers' International Union funds, Rod Heinekey, former vice-president (above), told a press conference in Vancouver. The national leadership, he said, refuses to explain the $320,00 difference between being $80,000 in the black in 1966 and now being in the red to the extent of $240,000.

Hippies Called Do-Nothings

VANCOUVER (CP) — Never have so many, who have so much to offer, done so little.

Thus, is a Russian description of Canadian hippies.

Mrs. Valentina Shevchenko, a school teacher from Kiev, is among a group of 22 Russians ending a tour of Canada that began Aug. 13 when they left Moscow for Montreal.

It was their first visit to Canada for all and for many their first trip outside the Soviet Union.

Railways Face Big Pay Demand

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's railroads will face a wage-increase demand of about $1 an hour this fall when 16 unions begin bargaining for new contracts to replace the three-year agreements expiring at the end of this year.

The unions, representing about 90,000 non-operating employees and 15,000 conductors and brakemen, are scheduled to serve their contract demands on the railway companies at the end of October.

Local and regional units now are in the process of writing their demands on wages, working conditions and fringe benefits. These later will be compiled into a national package.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, one of the major non-operating groups, has already received proposals from its five regional conferences. The wage demands range between 90 cents and $1.50 an hour with an average of $1.15.

The so-called "non-ops" are those railway employees who do not actually run the trains. They include clerks, baggage men, section gangs, signalmen, telegraphers and the like. Their average wage now is $2.72 an hour.

MEET IN MONTREAL

The seven other non-op unions outside the CBRT will meet in Montreal next month to set up their demands. Negotiators for seven shopcraft unions have called a meeting at Montreal Sept. 23 to put together their requests.

Only operating union involved in this round of negotiations is the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The BRT likely will deal with the contract issue after its international convention in Miami opening Sept. 9.

These are the same group of unions that staged a one-week national strike in 1966. It was ended after an emergency session of Parliament ordered the men back to work with a compulsory settlement.

Parliament gave the workers an increase of 18 per cent spread over two years beginning Jan. 1, 1966, and ordered the unions back into mediation. This resulted in a three-year contract with an additional wage increase of six per cent for the third year.

The total three-year package of 24 per cent later was extended to locomotive engineers and firemen. In the case of the firemen, they won it only after a threatened strike in June of this year.

Salvation Army Officer Leaving

Major Robert McKerracher, commanding officer of Victoria Salvation Army Citadel for the past five years, is leaving Sunday for St. John, N.B.

He will be in charge of the army's public relations department for New Brunswick.

Major John Wood from Oshawa, Ont., will succeed Major McKerracher in Victoria.

MOLOTOV MEMOIRS GIVE SECRETS OF REVOLUTION

BY HENRY SHAPIRO

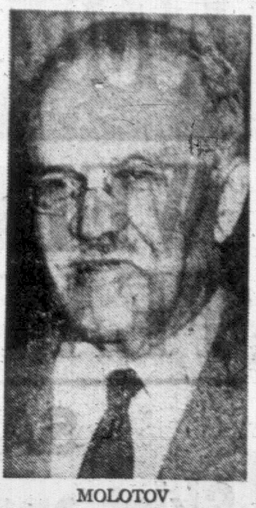
MOSCOW (UPI) — What are probably the world's most interesting and fascinating historical memoirs have been completed, according to authoritative sources.

The writings cover practically everything of significance in the Russian revolutionary movement for six decades and every important secret and public East-West development.

But the exhaustive memoirs, worth a fortune both in terms of capital and scholarship, will probably never be published.

Or at least not in the foreseeable future.

For they were penned by Vyacheslav Molotov, the 78-year-old former Soviet premier and foreign minister, Communist party secretary and Politburo member but now an "unperson."



MOLOTOV
. . . out of favor

Molotov is one of the few surviving old Bolsheviks who, as members of the Revolutionary Committee in Petrograd, played a major role in the communist seizure of power in 1917.

PLAYED MAJOR ROLE

His memoirs, spanning more than half a century, cover the history of Soviet communism since 1906 when Skryabin (Molotov's real-name), a 16-year-old student, joined the Communist Party.

Molotov enjoyed the confidence of Soviet founding father Vladimir Lenin and of his successor, Josef Stalin.

With secret police chief Lavrenti Beria (executed in 1953), former premier Georgi Malenkov (now an electric plant director in far-off Kazakhstan), Molotov formed a power triumvirate after Stalin's death.

One of the three orators at Stalin's funeral, Molotov wept when the premier's body was buried even though his wife, Paulina Zhemchuzhina was in prison then, a victim of Stalin's purges.

Four years later Molotov was engaged in another power play, with the help of a majority of the party presidium (now Politiburo), designed to oust Nikita Khrushchev as party leader.

Khrushchev outwitted the majority and had them all ignominously removed from the central committee as "anti-party" men to assume supreme power for himself.

Although Khrushchev, probably out of respect for Molotov's historic contributions to communism, kept him busy with small assignments, first as ambassador to Mongolia and then as representative to the Vienna International Atomic Commission, eventually he expelled him from the Communist Party and cast him into Limbo.

By a quirk of fate Khrushchev himself was to suffer practically the same fate seven years later to become the world's most famous "unperson." But Khrushchev was never expelled from the party ranks and still considers himself a proper communist.

Molotov's life, like Khrushchev's, is one endless period of sulking.

He refuses to see anyone but immediate members of his family, his daughter and grand-children. He does not answer letters or write anything for publication.

Apparently still in good health, he can often be seen taking his daily walks with his wife, in the neighborhood of the government apartment house near the Kremlin where he has the same dwelling he used during his days of glory.

Unlike the extrovert Khrushchev, who misses the public exposure he once enjoyed so much, Molotov avoids crowds and is never seen at art and industrial exhibitions or making dramatic appearances at local elections where the foreign press is certain to be.

He is reported to have been working on his memoirs since his return from Vienna and disappearance from public life in October, 1962.

PURGES EXPLAINED

In his memoirs alone, one can find hitherto unknown details of the Bolshevik seizure of power, the consolidation of power under Lenin and Stalin and an explanation of the sanguinary purges of the mid-1930s during which he was Stalin's right-hand man.

Molotov alone of the old Bolshevik survivors can tell the world of the secret negotiations preceding the Stalin-Hitler pact, the painful development of Soviet alliance with the western powers, and what went on behind the scenes at the Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam conferences.

But only time will tell whether such an eyewitness document of more than half a century of cataclysmic history as seen from the towering heights of the Kremlin will ever see the light of day.

World Reacts In Horror To Brutality

By AL COLLETTI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Battle of Chicago this week left bitter anti-war youth winning sympathetic support from those who detest official use of club and fist to keep the peace.

DALEY
. . . critical of press

Television and the printed and spoken word dramatized what one writer called the "bitterness" of some Democrats at the national convention leading the party in "hatred for the young."

Chicago's officials didn't like the television camera looking in on the beatings outside the convention as police and the state militia handled thousands of anti-war, anti-establishment protesters—mostly white youths.

It had to be done, Chicago police say, to cope with "terrorists and Communists" who planned to cripple the four-day convention with their demonstrations. As it was, demonstrators didn't get near the site at the huge International Amphitheatre.

While hundreds of protesters were hurt, and 20 or more news men beaten and roughed up, city officials said the viciousness of the demonstrators' attacks caused almost 100 injuries to their own policemen.

The U.S. and foreign press reacted bitterly to what one London newspaper called "police horror in Chicago."

The Daily Express, one of Britain's most conservative newspapers, said the Chicago police "are the same kind of men who eliminated the Jews in Nazi Germany, the same kind of men who kept Stalin's terror alive in the Soviet Union, the same kind of men who shoot down refugees on the Berlin wall."

"All these men have one thing in common," The Express said. "They enjoy their work."

There Was Horror, Revulsion

Television films of the clashes with demonstrators were shown in many countries and almost invariably the reaction was one of horror and revulsion.

Canadian correspondents describe the U.S. as a "police state."

The Toronto Star said "the sickness of the United States was laid bare for the world to see in Chicago."

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley called the demonstrators "terrorists" who had come to "assault, harass and taunt the police into reacting before television cameras."

Daley, the boss of Illinois state Democrats, bitterly criticized the reporting by newspapers, radio and television of the rioting.

"The whole purpose of the city and the law enforcement agencies" had been "distorted and twisted," he asserted.

In defending his use of the National Guard, Daley said he had received reports that "certain people planned to assassinate the three contenders for the presidency—that certain people planned to assassinate many of the leaders, including myself."

When asked about police attacks on news men, the mayor said:

"They're in the crowd. Many of them are hippies themselves, in television and radio and everything else. They're a part of the movement. And some of them are revolutionaries and they want these things to happen."

The Radio-Television News senting more than 1,100 working broadcast news men, sent a telegram to Daley taking strong exception to his statement that television has been used as a "tool" by the demonstrators and "implying that radio and television can carry much of the blame for the sad events of this week."

Broadcasters Demand Probe

The association urged Daley to "press your own police department's investigation into the charges of police beatings of news men and to act upon results of that investigation."

The U.S. justice department ordered the FBI to investigate the disturbances. The department could seek court action against individuals involved.

In some countries the violence in Chicago was compared with the violence in Prague.

In the Soviet bloc, newspapers that have carefully kept readers with minimal information about the bloodier aspects of the Soviet-led occupation of Czechoslovakia, linked the violence in Chicago to U.S. policies in Vietnam.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said "the police authorities have brutally done short work with thousands of Americans coming out against the venture in Vietnam."

Hanoi radio said the U.S. government had been "forced to use tens of thousands of army troops and security forces to protect the United States Democrat party convention from the American people who resolutely oppose the unjust aggressive war against the Vietnamese people."

Hsinhua, the Communist Chinese official news agency, said "Fascist police and troops in full battle gear" clashed with "the American people who defied beatings and arrests to protest the war in Vietnam."

In Canada, newspaper editorial opinion generally abhorred the Chicago police measures used to quiet the demonstrators.

The Toronto Star said: "All this was done in the name of law and order, but it was the negation of any traditional idea of either law or order."

But . . . Old Politics Won

The Montreal Gazette said:

"It must be recognized . . . that the forces which divide America are not alone in Chicago; the forces which hold it together were there, too. The New Politics made violent assault on the Old, but the Old Politics won."

In Montreal about 30 persons, most of them in their late teens, paraded quietly in front of the U.S. consulate Thursday protesting what they called the "death of democracy in U.S. politics." The demonstrators carried placards, the majority of which were aimed at Mayor Daley.

Toronto police arrested two men Thursday night after two paint bombs were thrown at the U.S. consulate during a demonstration against police action in Chicago.

The more than 30 demonstrators said they were members of the Union of American Exiles.

The Regina Leader-Post commented:

"The violence which has brought the Democratic convention to such a sorry conclusion is a direct result of the wilfulness and irresponsibility of the demonstrators. Democracy cannot be taken out of the ballot box and into the streets in open rebellion. But this does not excuse the misuse of force by legitimate law enforcement agencies.

The London Free Press said:

"The speakers paraded to the podium, and inevitably, turned their eloquence toward the problem of violence in the streets, civil disorder. American society in disarray and they boasted that a united Democratic Party could provide the solutions.

"And while they spoke police billies crashed down with force audible to millions of television watchers on the bodies of young people in the streets of Chicago. It was a repulsive display of police brutality."

Democrats 'Help' GOP

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Radio broadcasts of the Democratic national convention in Chicago are being sponsored in this Blue Ridge Mountain city by the local Republican campaign committee.

The broadcasts are liberally interspersed with the sponsor's commercials, the central theme of which is— if you don't like what you're hearing, vote Republican.

Lightning Bolt Fatal For Becky

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UPI) — The only daughter of the governor of Virginia lost her fight for life Thursday.

Becky Godwin, 14, died of lung damage caused by a lightning bolt which struck her Sunday while she was surf bathing.

A silent tribute was paid to Becky by the full Democratic national convention Thursday night.

Delegates standing in memory of Martin Luther King Jr. were asked to remain standing to express their sorrow to the family of Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr.

●

Funeral services were scheduled for Saturday afternoon in the executive mansion in Richmond with burial in Suffolk.

A spokesman for Gov. and Mrs. Godwin said Godwin has asked that flowers be omitted, and that, if friends choose, they may send contributions to a rescue squad of their choice, or to St. Catherine's School.

Becky died at 1:35 p.m. Thursday at Virginia Beach Hospital, without regaining consciousness.

She was struck by lightning about 3 p.m. Sunday on the beach at Camp Pendleton, a Virginia National Guard reservation, where Mrs. Godwin had been recuperating at the Executive Beach cottage from recent surgery.

Humphrey Apology Demanded

CHICAGO (AP) — Rev. Ralph David Abernathy charged Thursday that the Democratic Convention has been conducted with "Fascist brutality" and demanded a personal apology from Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference also threatened to pull black voters out of the Democratic party.

"The convention has been ruthlessly taken over by a giant steamroller," he said.

Dr. Abernathy, arriving in a covered wagon pulled by a mule which he dubbed "Richard Daley," the name of Chicago's mayor, pushed his way through a throng to address about 2,000 peace demonstrators gathered in Grant Park, scene of Wednesday night's violence.

CREDIT CARD JAILS DELEGATE

CHICAGO (AP) — New Hampshire's delegation to the Democratic national convention lost its chairman Thursday night—he was taken into custody by Chicago police.

David C. Hoeh was seized when fellow delegates said he attempted to show that a credit card would actuate the electronic machines which scan the credentials of delegates and others seeking admittance to the International Amphitheatre.

Hoeh first cleared his delegate card in the machine. Then, fellow delegates said he commented: "These things are phoney—any old credit card will work."

They said Hoeh shoved a credit card into the slot, and when the indicator light showed red, an usher called police, who took him away.

The machine shows a green light when it is satisfied with the admittance card.

When New Hampshire was reached in the roll call of states for vice-presidential nominations another delegate took the microphone and said: "Our chairman has been in jail for an hour."

Hoeh was detained by security officers, held by Chicago police, handcuffed and taken to a police station and eventually returned by Mayor Richard Daley's limousine and two Daley bodyguards.

MARKET SUMMARIES

N.Y. Holds Advance

Toronto was fractionally lower in moderate trade near the close of business today while New York showed small gains in late trade.

In Montreal, industrials led the market higher and in Vancouver, the industrials were stronger.

AT TORONTO final volume was 3,286,000 shares compared with 3,410,000 Thursday.

In industrials, Canadian Goldale fell 1⅜ to 28¼, Falconbridge 1¼ to 98¾, Canada Steamship Lines ⅝ to 29¼, Inland Natural Gas ½ to 12½. Seagrams ½ to 46 and Tru-Wall Concrete 60 cents to $2.70.

Emco gained 3⅝ to 25⅝, Consolidated Textile 2¼ to 14¼. Great Northern Capital 2⅛ to 10, Massey-Ferguson 1¾ to 17¾ and Galt Malleable Iron 1¾ to 10¼.

Canadian Homestead was up 40 cents to $8.40 and Triad Oil 15 cents to $3.45. Numac lost 15 cents to $7.35.

AT NEW YORK gains outnumbered losses by a little less than 200 issue.

A variety of blue chips and more speculative issues provided the backbone for the rise. Wall Street was cautious, but there apparently was no pessisism about the course of the market after the Labor Day milestone. Exchanges will close on Monday.

Among active issues, City Investing and Handleman rose about 2 points.

Less active, Phelps Dodge spurted 5 or 6 points. IBM sank 4.

Gains of a point or so were made by Uniroyal, Sperry Rand, Polaroid, Xerox, Lorillard and Southern Pacific.

In Canadians, Massey gained ⅝, Alcan ½, Walker Gooderham ¼, Canadian Pacific ⅛ and Dome Mines ⅛. International Nickel dropped ⅛ and Hudson Bay Mining ⅛.

AT MONTREAL Consolidated Textiles climbed 2 to 14½, Radio Engineering 1⅞ to 39¼. Levy 1⅞ to 29½, Canadian Foundation 1¼ to 8¼, Placer 1½ to 29¾ and United Auto Parts A 1¼ to 25¾.

Massey-Ferguson added 1¼ to 17¼ on 12,030 shares despite a decline in third quarter earnings to 20 cents a share from 41 cents in the corresponding period a year earlier.

In senior mines, Denison fell 2 to 74, Falconbridge 1 to 98½ and Cominco ½ to 26½. Noranda edged up ⅝ to 52 and Inco ⅛ to 41⅝.

Val-Mar picked up 1⅞ to 12⅝ in Canadian Stock Exchange industrials as Canadore added 1 cent to 51 cents on 52,500 shares among speculative mines and oils.

AT LONDON the market generally firmed today, although gilt-edged issues were sasier in reflection of the further foreign exchange weakness of sterling. Dollar stocks made a good showing, despite a slightly easier investment premium, and gains of a point or two were widespread. In Canadians Dome Pete added five points.

Canadian banks also improved, with Bank of Montreal a very firm market.

AT VANCOUVER Great National Lands, a new industrial traded 39,000 shares to noon with late sales at $2.

In the industrial market, B.C. Sugar was up $1 to $44, Field Stores up .37 to $14 and Western Heritage up .40 to $5. Canadian Allied dipped .87 to $11.12.

Mines were fractionally stronger with Copper Ridge up .02 to .49 on 197,900 shares. Calta advanced .25 to $5.25, Highmont .11 to $2.10, Magnum .25 to $3.85 and Oro .10 to $1.05.

Lornex was off .20 to $8.55 and Pacific Asbestos off .12 to $2.18.

In the oil section, Stampede gained .10 to $2.30.

American Motors Halts Loss

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp., has reported a total net loss of $2,561,000 in its third quarter but asserted the firm no longer is losing money on its automotive operations.

AMC, smallest of the four major U.S. automakers, said its third-quarter loss, equalling 14 cents a share, resulted chiefly from absorbing a loss on its books from the recent sale of the Kelvinator appliance division.

The division had a book value of $31,250,000, officials of the firm said. Kelvinator was sold for $24,000,000 to White Consolidated Industries of Cleveland.

The company reported a total profit during the first nine months of its fiscal year of $17,773,000, or 93 cents a share, compared with a net loss in the same period a year ago of $47,986,000, or $2.52 a share.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures declined 2 cents, setting seasonal lows in all six contracts on the Board of Trade.

Other grain futures and soybeans also closed on a mostly lower tone. Trade was fairly active and mixed.

Liquidation in all pits started shortly after the opening. There was a lack of buying incentive and as prices declined more longs sought to get out.

Higher Rents Predicted

MONTREAL (CP)—This year's higher interest rates will force housing developers to increase monthly rents by an average of $10 an apartment next year, a construction executive said Thursday.

Richard A. Siegal, directing one of the largest housing developments in Canada, said the higher borrowing costs must be passed on to someone—and someone in this case is the tenant.

Mr. Siegel, 39, vice-president of Metropolitan Structures of Canada Ltd., said interest charges for the financing of the second phase of the company's $300 million development here will amount to about 8⅞ per cent compared with last year's 7¼ per cent.

"When you're borrowing millions of dollars the higher interest charges can only be met by passing them on to our prospective tenants when the units are ready for occupancy next year."

The company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Metropolitan Structures Inc. of Chicago, is borrowing about $15 million this year to launch the second phase of its development on Nuns' Island in the St. Lawrence River.

Highland-Bell

Highland-Bell Ltd. of Vancouver and its subsidiary Mastodon-Highland Bell Ltd. had an estimated consolidated net profit of $422,384 in the six months ended June 30, president Karl J. Springer said in an interim report.

The company had a $223,220 profit during the same period last year.

Mr. Springer said the company has benefitted from improved silver prices which permitted mining of lower-grade ore.

Revelstoke Thrives

Revelstoke Building Materials, Ltd., reports that its profits soared to $252,913 at 42 cents a share during the first half of 1968, compared to $67,000 at 11 cents in 1967.

A building material and lumber supplier with a large chain of outlets and cement mix operations in the prairies, Revelstoke expects business to be seasonably better during the last half of the year.

Triad Oil Profits

Triad Oil Co. Ltd. of Calgary report net earnings of $1,232,111 for the six months ended June 30, an increase from $598,386 during the same period of 1967.

The increase was mainly from lower interest charges as long-term loans were repaid and increased production revenue.

The earnings represented 7 cents a share and were on an income of $9,411,637, compared with 3 cents a share on a $9,153,607 income in 1967.

Crude oil and natural gas liquid production remained near the 1967 level of 16,000 barrels daily but natural gas production increased 11 per cent to 43,000,000 cubic feet daily and sulphur sales were up 14 per cent at 176 long tons a day.

Metropolitan Gains

Metropolitan Stores of Canada Ltd. reports net earnings for the first six months of this year reached $567,736, compared to $375,390 to July 31, 1967.

Sales of Metropolitan and its subsidiaries, Greenberg Stores Ltd. and Saan Stores Ltd., reached $25,839,211 compared to $17,902,322 for the same period last year.

The Winnipeg-based company said dividends during the period amounted to $175,788 on preferred shares, leaving earnings of $386,948.

Big Oil Hunt Announced

REGINA (CP) — Industry sources say about 20 companies will co-operate in a hunt for oil in a 150-mile-wide strip of the Winnipegosis geological formation running diagonally from northwest to southeast Saskatchewan.

Pheasant Exploration, the group's operating company, plans to drill between 50 and 70 exploratory wells within the next few months in the 22,000,000-acre permit area.

A. C. Cameron, Saskatchewan't mineral resources minister, said the program should provide an effective, broad test of the Winnipegosis formation. He said that if any of the wells are successful, it would mean an entire new exploration oil play for the province.

GOT A DIME, BUDDY?

NEW YORK (AP) — William Zeckendorf, a former real estate tycoon, told a federal court Thursday he owes $79,076,100 and has only $1,885,620 to pay it off.

He asked the court to sanction special arrangements with his creditors under the Bankruptcy Act.

The largest of his debts, $55,480,700, are contingent on a dispute arising out of his relationship to Webb and Knapp, real estate firm he once headed.

He listed among his largest creditors the Bank of Nova Scotia and British Commercial Property Investment Canada Ltd.

Nanaimo Firm Boosts Profits

Great National Land and Investment Corp. Ltd. of Nanaimo increased its net profit 159 per cent to $56,427 in the first quarter of its fiscal year that ends April 30, President Frank Ney said Thursday.

His report said assets were up 23 per cent to $4,945,145 and increased activity in land development, home construction, real estate and insurance sales resulted in a 67 per cent gross income increase to $384,231.

He forecast a $1 million income during the fiscal year from insurance.

The company added three branch offices by merging with Arnett and Wensley Ltd. in Campbell River, Courtenay and Cumberland and opening a fourth in Duncan. All branches are on Vancouver Island.

Lower Bank Rate Anticipated Soon

Falling interest rates in the investment market espcially for short-term funds, are expected to prompt the Bank of Canada to make another cut in its official bank rare of 6½ per cent, probably this weekend.

The central bank's weekly financial statistics showed:

- The average rate for day-to-day loans dropped to 4.15 per cent, from 4.65 last week and 5.58 a week earlier.
- Bids for new 91-day government of Canada treasury bills rose to the point that the effective yield to investors fell to 5.48 per cent from 5.76 last week and 5.85 a week earlier.

This week the Bank of Montreal's prime rate for commercial loans was cut to 6⅝ per cent from 7.

The Bank of Canada's rate was pushed as high as 7½ per cent in March, during the world gold crisis.

ROOFLESSLY, THEY SPEND

By JAMES NELSON
(Third of a series)

OTTAWA (CP) — The flow of money Canadians spend on food, clothing, housing, factories and machinery constitutes by far the most important factor in measuring the health of the economy.

Even in times of the direst depression, people cannot eliminate consumer spending on goods and services, such as food, clothing and shelter, unless they are to go starved, naked and homeless.

When the Economic Council of Canada made its first review of the economy nearly five years ago, consumer spending already was running well. But there was slack in the economy, and the council set goals to bring it up to its full potential by 1970.

It outlined real growth targets of 5.5 per cent a year in the gross national product, 5.1 per cent a year in consumer spending on goods and services, and 10 per cent a year on gross business investment in new construction, machinery and equipment.

It also analysed the population trend, and said Canada would need a higher level of new house construction, leading up to 190,000 dwelling units a year by 1970. In later reports, it revised this need with a 200,000 target for 1970.

●

Gross national product—the total value of all goods and services produced by Canadians—has run slightly ahead and now is almost on target with the council's projections.

How well are the other goals faring?

Consumer spending amounted to $27,487,000,000 in 1963, the base year for most of the council's projections. The council said the major part of the increase in total output to 1970 would be accounted for by higher levels of consumer spending.

"The attainment of potential employment and output would bring the average level of real consumer spending per capita by 1970 to double that of the late 1920s," the council said.

The goal it set for Canada was a 5.1-per-cent annual rate of growth, bringing the total to $38,600,000,000 for 1970.

Converting to the purchasing value of the 1963 dollar, this year's consumer spending is running at $35,250,000,000—very close to the council's projection since it, also, was based on the 1963 dollar.

Canada has not done as well in meeting the housing goals set by the council.

The level of residential construction had been rather low during the five years prior to the council's projections for 1963 to 1970. But the rate of family formation, and the backlog of housing need, was big—and growing.

●

In the early 1960s, family formations averaged about 60,000 a year. This figure is expected to double by the end of the decade as the babies born in the post-war baby boom come to maturity. Added to this is another factor.

"The attainment of potential output would appreciably increase the levels of real income per person and per family. This would tend to generate higher levels of residential construction ... reflecting both an increase in the numbers of units being constructed, and in the average size and value per unit."

Latest indications are that residential construction this year will produce 175,000 units. A figure closer to 185,000 would fit better with the council's projections.

Compared with the $1,707,000,000 spent in 1963 on new residential construction, $2,835,000,000 were spent on new non-residential construction and $3,049,000,000 on new machinery and equipment.

The economic council set out goals for expansion of non-presidential construction and business investment in new machinery and equipment far in advance of either consumer spending or housing. It said business investment would grow vigorously in the last half of the 1960s, dominating the whole picture of capital expenditure.

The council set a goal of increasing gross business fixed investment by 10 per cent a year, in terms of 1963 dollars, over the $5,800,000,000 spent in 1963. This was to encompass a 10.4-per-cent annual increase in non-residential construction, and a 9.6-per-cent annual increase in business expenditure on new machinery and equipment.

In 1963 dollar terms, actual performance has been far ahead of economic council goals until business was hit with its stagnation last year. In real terms, 1967 business investment in new plant and equipment was down more than four per cent from 1963.

On the basis of first-quarter 1968 figures, business investment this year is moving up again, but price inflation is more than offsetting the increase. In 1963 dollar terms, this year's figure is running at $9,140,000,000—virtually unchanged from last year's $9,143,000,000, and now a shade below the council's goal.

Humphrey Running Mate Strong Voice in Senate

MUSKIE

. . . makes acceptance speech

CHICAGO (AP) — In nine years as Democratic senator from tiny Maine, long a Republican party stronghold, Edmund Sixtus Muskie has come a long way.

From Lyndon Johnson's doghouse, the lanky senator has emerged as a masterful legislative tactician—and presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey's choice as vice-presidential mate on the Democratic slate for the Nov. 5 U.S. general election.

Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield calls Muskie, 54, "a senator's senator, a man who eschews publicity, works hard, and has gained a well-deserved reputation among his colleagues for integrity, fair dealing and effectiveness."

When Muskie was picked by President Johnson to shepherd Senate passage of air- and water-pollution legislation and the hotly-disputed model cities program, a former White House aide noted:

"The president regards him as a real powerhouse. He's one of the few liberals who's a match for the Southern legislative craftsmen."

Adds a cabinet officer: "If you have a domestic bill that's really tough and you need advice on how to get it through, Ed Muskie's the best guy up there."

DOES HOMEWORK

The Muskie method is solid homework in legislative detail, a differential diplomacy that avoids personal attacks on legislative opponents, and an understated eloquence.

Paradoxically, Muskie's Senate prominence is due, in part, to an early run-in with the then majority leader, Lyndon Johnson, in 1959. Johnson asked the six-foot-five freshman senator to vote with him in repulsing the perennial move by liberal senators to limit the power of filibuster. Muskie refused.

Johnson then assigned Muskie his fourth, fifth and sixth committee choices: Banking and currency, public works, government operations. Muskie was denied a coveted spot on the foreign relations committee.

Muskie generally avoided national limelight for years, but shifted course last year by accepting chairmanship of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee. The committee helps finance and chart the campaigns of Democratic senatorial candidates.

Further, Muskie is a member of the Democratic Senate leadership and has been widely mentioned as possible successor to Mansfield as majority leader.

BUILT CONTACTS

Muskie began building national contacts after becoming in 1954 the first Polish-American U.S. governor.

Muskie's election as governor ended 20 years of Republican rule in the Maine statehouse. He was re-elected in 1956, and then made his successful U.S. Senate bid in 1958.

Muskie is Maine-born, the son of Stephen Marciszewski, a tailor who emigrated from Poland. The name was later anglicized.

He was graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Bates College and has a law degree from Cornell.

After a Second World War navy stint, Muskie settled in Waterville, and was elected to his first of three terms in the Maine legislature in 1946.

Muskie married the former Jane Gray of Waterville in 1948 and they have five children ranging in age from 7 to 19.

IT'S NIXON, BET ENGLISH

LONDON (Reuters)—British bettors favor Richard M. Nixon to win the U.S. presidential elections, a leading bookmaker said Thursday.

Ladbrokes said Nixon was a 4-to-7 odds-on favorite to win. Just two weeks ago bookies were taking 5-to-4 against him.

Since Nixon was nominated there hasn't been a penny stakes on the Democrats, a Ladbrokes spokesman said. The odds against Vice-President Humphrey winning are 11 to 10.

Speaker Role Under Scrutiny

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Talk about creation of a "permanent" speaker for the House of Commons may be premature.

Independent MP Lucien Lamoureux, former Liberal, is expected to be re-elected Speaker by the Commons Sept. 12, a few hours before the official opening of the new Parliament.

Mr. Lamoureux, 48, ran as an independent in the June 25 general election in the Ontario riding of Stormont-Dundas after the Conservatives as well as the Liberals stepped aside with the understanding that he would continue as Speaker in the new Parliament.

Politically, the situation may remain that way until the next election is held, which may not be until 1972 or 1973.

The Conservatives of Stormont-Dundas agreed to stand aside for one election only. Some Liberals in the riding disapproved of Mr. Lamoureux running as an independent. He easily defeated a New Democrat after the NDP let the local constituency association decide whether the seat should be contested.

There has been talk of creation of a special riding—such as Parliament Hill—for a permanent Speaker.

MUST CHANGE ACT

This wuld require an amendment to the British North America Act, Canada's constitution, which says the Speaker must be an elected MP chosen by the Commons.

Some argue that the Speaker, if designated or appointed instead of elected like other MPs, would become another Ottawa bureaucrat.

There also is this problem: How would the Commons get rid of a "permanent" Speaker who turned out to be a poor one?

What appears most likely is a Canadian adaptation of the British practice of a "continuing" Speaker who serves for some 10 years in that role but is an MP who contests elections.

Some constituents of Stormont-Dundas appear to have the motion that an MP who is Speaker cannot get much done for them. Actually, a Speaker is probably in a better position than any other MP to get things done for his constituency.

Mr. Lamoureux, a native of Ottawa and a lawyer, was first elected to the Commons in 1962. He became Deputy Speaker in 1963 and Speaker in 1965.

CREATES A PROBLEM

The defeat of Liberal MP Herman Batten, 59, in the Newfoundland riding of Humbert-St. George's-St. Barbe has created a problem for the government, which nominates the Speaker and Deputy Speaker. Mr. Batten was Deputy Speaker in the last Parliament.

Depending upon success at the polls, the deputy speakership has often been a stepping stone to the Speaker's chair in the past. General practice has been to elect a new Speaker for each new Parliament, which can last up to five years, and alternate the post between English- and French-speaking MPs.

Also in line with past practice, with the French-speaking Mr. Lamoureux continuing as Speaker, the new Deputy Speaker would have to be English-speaking, preferably with ability in French, and have Commons experience.

Hence the loss of Mr. Batten's experience will be felt.

JOB FOR BALDWIN?

There was a suggestion that the post might be filled by Conservative Gerald Baldwin of Peace River, especially in view of the Conservatives, withdrawal in Stormont-Dundas.

However, Conservative Leader Stanfield is said to feel that he needs Mr. Baldwin, who has been appointed his party's House leader.

The Senate has a speakership problem as well.

Senate Speaker Sydney J. Smith is ill and is believed ready to submit his resignation from the upper house. Moreover, it frequently is the practice to name a new Senate Speaker for each nw Parliament.

The Senate could have another English-speaking Speaker. The Speaker of the upper chamber is usually English-speaking when the Commons Speaker is French-speaking and vice versa. versa.

Whereas the Commons Speaker is elected by the members of the Commons, th Speaker of the Senate is appointed by the government.

Food Firm To Build Own Dairy

BURNABY (CP) — Subsidiaries of two big international companies plan to establish a dairy in this Vancouver suburb.

The Kelly Douglas food firm, partly owned by the George Weston empire, and Foremost Dairies, a branch of Foremost McKesson Inc. of California, are in the final stages of negotiations.

Art Schwatka, head of Foremost Dairies in San Francisco, said in an interview the plan has been in the works for about a year and a half.

He said the president of the new firm will be Victor MacLean, president of Kelly Douglas and Co. Ltd.

He said the dairy is being formed to supply milk products to the Kelly Douglas-owned Super-Valu Stores Ltd., supplied now by the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.

Mr. Schwatka estimated cost of the plant at $2,000,000.

Tibet Refugees Tell Tales of Chaos

By DELIP BOSE

KALIMPONG, India (AP)—Perched at 4,000 feet on the edge of Tibet, this sleepy town used to be a meeting place for Tibetan merchants and Indian mule traders, coming and going between their two countries.

Now the traffic is one way only—out of Tibet. It is made up of Tibetan refugees, telling tales of chaos in the country they have fled.

The 1959 Lhasa uprising against Communist Chinese rule prompted the Chinese to seal escape routes out of Tibet.

Despite increasingly tight Communist border surveillance, a trickle of refugees continues. On the average 10 Tibetans a month manage to escape, joining an estimated 51,000 already in India. Another 15,000 live in Nepal, Bhutan and Sikkim.

The usual fate of Tibetans captured escaping is the firing squad or mysterious deportation, refugee sources say.

What made these people leave their native land and face the dangers of the trek south?

Speaking only Tibetan—and rudimentary Chinese—these highly religious people emphasized that above all they wanted to be with their spiritual and temporal ruler, the Dalai Lama, who lives in exile in Dharmsala, northwestern India.

Also, they said, the wanton and anti-religious crusade of the Chinese Red Guards had bewildered many Tibetans and uprooted them from their traditional groundings, making them feel lost in their own country.

Moreover, the refugees complained, life is hard in Tibet these days, with food inadequate, enforced labor excessive and suspicion everywhere.

Yishey Topgay, 23, had special reasons for fleeing Tibet.

In 1959, he said, his father, a minor government official, was deported to a labor camp as a "feudalistic upper-strata reactionary."

Five years later, Yishey said, his mother was publicly tortured and deported for "anti-national activities," which he said included praying for the health of the Panchen Lama, a Tibetan religious leader then under Communist suspicion.

Refugee reports on internal political situations—whether in Tibet or China—must be taken with some caution, but, according to Yishey, the influx of Chinese Red Guards into Tibet, which first started in 1966, has caused dissension in the Chinese command structure.

The Red Guards, said Yishey, denounced local military and civil officials with the familiar epithet — "reactionaries following the capitalist road." These denunciations split the administration into warring factions.

Racers Fire Variety Into Big Weekend

Victoria's sports followers are looking to a variety of races during the Labor Day weekend.

There's car racing, bike racing and even foot racing for sports fans who won't be using the long weekend to get away from it all.

Biggest event of the holiday will be Western Speedway's Daffodil Cup run for super-modified racing cars Monday evening. The 150-lap event is ranked number two on the Canadian-American Modified Racing Association circuit.

For people who like their racing slower and quieter, there's three days of cycling to provide entertainment.

Cyclists compete Saturday in 15 and five-mile races at Beacon Hill Park, Sunday they race 60 miles on a circuit at Metchosin, and Monday they're off on a 25-mile time trial down the Pat Bay Highway.

And for the purists, there's the Vancouver Island track and field championship at Centennial Stadium on Monday. The track meet features former Canadian cross-country champion John Cliff in one mile and three mile battles with the University of Victoria's Charlie Thorne and Optimist Spartan's Norm Patenaude.

Heywood Avenue Park will be the site of the nine-team B.C. senior men's "C" softball championship tournament. The tournament gets under way Saturday, starting 10-30 a.m.

As well, the juvenile footballers kick off a new season.

Vancouver Island league action sees Hornets tangling with Nanaimo Rams at Glanford Avenue Park at 2 p.m., while Oak Bay invades Duncan for a game with the Timbermen.

Anglers are offered the serene prospect of fishing in the Esquimalt and District Anglers' Association salmon derby for the Handicapped Children's Clinic.

And from Sunday to Monday arrows whistle over three Victoria ranges as 23 clubs and 100 individual entrants battle it out in the B.C. archery championships.

TONGUE-BITING golf shot is studied by British Amateur champion Mike Bonallack in Thursday's second round at United States Amateur. Bonallack scored 73 to finish one stroke behind a pair of co-leading collegians at half-way point of tournament in Columbus, Ohio.

Bonallack Trails Collegiate Stars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bruce Fleisher, a brash junior college student from Hialeah, Fla., and steady Hubie Green, the young amateur champion from Alabama, snared the second-round lead by one stroke Thursday in the 68th U.S. amateur golf championship.

The two collegians romped around the tough par-70, 6,762-yard Scioto Country Club course early and then sat tight while the 148 other challengers in the field sought in vain to catch them.

Fleisher, one of only two players to match par here in two days, added his 70 to an opening 73 for a three-over-par 143. Green, from Birmingham, shot a 71 following a 72 and also stood at 143 through 36 holes.

Eric Hanson of Toronto shot a 75 for a 36-hole total of 151. Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., the 1966 U.S. amateur champion, had 74 for a total of 153. Two back at 155 was Charles Bradshaw of Willowdale, Ont., who had 76 Thursday. Ted Talbot of Sarnia, Ont., shot 80 to combine with his first-round 81.

BONALLACK THIRD

One back of the co-leaders was British amateur titleholder Michael Bonallack, who finished with a 73 after going two over par on the par-3, 235-yard No. 14 hole.

The handsome 33-year-old Englishman had shared the first-round lead with two others at 71.

The field of 150 was trimmed to the low 60 scores and ties for the final two 18-hole tests today and Saturday.

Daniel Team Pro-Am's Best

CALGARY (CP) — Mary Lou Daniel of Louisville, Ky., and her three partners carved out a 14-under-par 57 Thursday to capture the best-ball pro-amateur prelude to the $15,000 Willow Park's invitational professional golf tournament.

Mary Lou, 35th on the list of money winners on the 1968 United States Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, earned $150 for her efforts. Her amateur partners, all from Calgary, were Jess Dutton, George Ray and Jack Barberie.

The women professionals had men among their amateur teammates.

Six teams shared second place with 59s. They were led by pros Carol Mann of Buffalo, N.Y., Beth Stone of North Key Largo, Fla., Sandra Spuzich of Indianapolis, Cynthia Sullivan of Louisville, Sharon Miller of Battle Creek, Mich., and amateur Barb Turnbull of Saskatoon. Miss Turnbull was a replacement for American pro Lucille Wardell who failed to show for the event.

The tournament proper, a 54-hole affair which offers $2,250 for first place, was due to tee off at 11:20 a.m. MST today with an entry of 34 professionals and six amateurs.

Westminster Chills Rocks' Playoff Hopes

(Times News Services)

There's doubt no longer. Victoria Shamrocks will be the innocent bystanders for the National Lacrosse Association's Western Division playoffs.

New Westminster Salmonbellies officially eliminated the Rocks from playoff contention Thursday by clipping Portland Adanacs 14-13.

Ian Bull gave Salmonbellies their win with a lightning backhand shot in the last two minutes before 2,200 fans at New Westminster.

Bull, who had a two-goal evening, picked up a loose ball in a corner and drove a backhanded bounce shot past a surprised Merv Schweitzer in the Portland nets.

Schweitzer had been beaten minutes earlier on a similar play by Ron Flaten.

The Salmonbellies led 7-4 at the end of the first period but Portland narrowed the gap to 10-9 by the end of the second.

New Westminster moved to within four points of the second-place Adanacs. The teams have a rematch Saturday night in Portland.

GOSS GETS THREE

Wayne Goss scored three times to lead the Salmonbellies. Paul Parnell, Larry Henry, Flaten and Bull all scored twice.

At Montreal, Canadiens, defeated Vancouver 12-9.

With their second consecutive win over Vancouver, Montreal now joins the Toronto Maple Leafs in third place in the eastern division.

Both Montreal and Toronto have two games remaining in regular season play and are battling for berths in the playoffs.

Three teams in both the Eastern and Western divisions will participate in the playoffs, with only the last-place team in each division being eliminated.

SIGNED by Montreal Canadiens Thursday were Lorne Worsley (above), Rogatien Vachon, Ernie Wakely and Phil Myre. Goalies all, they give National Hockey League team little or no worries in the net-minding department.

WILF SHOWS IMPROVEMENT IN HOSPITAL

LONGVIEW, Wash. — Wilf Sadler and family continue to show steady improvement following their accident here Sunday while returning from Klamath Falls, Ore., and the Babe Ruth World Series.

Wilf's daughter, Fran, has been released from hospital and Mrs. Sadler is able to use a wheelchair to visit her husband.

Wilf, well-known Victoria minor sports official, is still under constant care in the wake of two operations Tuesday.

Speed Skaters Start Training

Training session for the Esquimalt Speedskating Club will begin Sept. 16 at the Sports Centre.

Men and women, boys and girls interested are invited to join the club in its third year of operation. Further particulars may be obtained from Jim Sheilds at 477-4455.

Old Pros Ousted In First Round

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The first-round elimination of two old pros by a pair of hustling amateurs has buoyed the confidence of the play-for-fun boys in the first United States Open tennis championships.

"I think, with a couple of breaks, I can win this thing," Clark Graebner, one of the regulars on the American Davis Cup team, said today. "I think any one of four amateurs could do it—myself, Arthur Ashe, Charlie Pasarell or Tom Okker."

South Africa's Ray Moore, an amateur, knocked off 10th seeded Andres Gimeno of Spain 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1 to grab one of the early scalps.

Pro Ken Rosewall, seeded third, won over Jim Parker of St. Louis in his first match 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

ANOTHER PRO LOSES

Semi-retired pro Barry MacKay lost to 23-year-old Jim Osborne of Honolulu 8-6, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Rod Laver, winner at Wimbledon and recognized as the No. 1 pro in the world, makes his debut against Tomas Koch of Brazil, in a battle of left-handers Sunday. Both drew opening byes.

Billie Jean King, the Wimbledon queen and favored to take the $6,000 women's first prize, made her debut Thursday by crushing Vija Vuskalns of Port Washington, N.Y., 6-1, 6-0.

Two of her chief amateur foes, Margaret Smith Court of Australia, No. 4, and Maria Bueno of Brazil, No. 5, also won handily. Mrs. Court trounced Emily Fisher of Hamtramck, Mich., 6-0, 6-1. Miss Bueno defeated Stephanie Grant of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-1, 6-4.

Seeded men's players to advance Thursday included Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., No. 6, winner over Chauncey Steel III of Cambridge, Mass., 6-3, 6-0, 6-4, and Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico, the No. 1 ranked U.S. amateur and No. 12 seed, who downed Australia's Karl Coombes 11-9, 8-6, 6-1.

Nanaimo Prepared For Final

NANAIMO (CP) — Nanaimo Luckies have a point to prove at this year's edition of the Mann Cup senior "A" lacrosse championships — and they intend to prove it at the expense of the Brooklin, Ont., Redmen.

"I am sure this team will not be any pushover for Brooklin," Nanaimo coach Al Fearon said Thursday. "We want to win the Mann Cup and prove that Nanaimo is still the centre of lacrosse in Western Canada."

The Western Canadian champions will send a power-packed lineup to Ontario for their best-of-seven series with their Eastern counterparts. The Luckies have an offence that racked up 194 goals in 15 league games and a rugged defence that allowed only 98.

The series opens Tuesday.

The coach rates his squad 50 per cent stronger than the Nanaimo club that captured the 1966 senior "B" championship from Fergus, Ont. Senior "B" clubs took on the senior "A" designation this year when the professional National Lacrosse Association was formed.

Leading the Nanaimo attack will be team captain Bill Russell who is the triggerman on the Luckies' odd-man play. He fired 44 goals and added 21 assists in 12 league games.

Other threats will be Charn Dhillon from Victoria, who scored 30 goals and Brian Van Horne picked up from Port Alberni, who also notched 30 goals.

Nanaimo added more goal-tending strength with the acquisition of Harry Preston from Coquitlam, the team the Luckies defeated in the Western final.

The last Mann Cup victory for a senior "A" Nanaimo team was in 1956 when the Timbermen brought the silverware home.

Orioles' Bid Vetoed by Washington

Lowly Senators Haunt Birds From American League Cellar

By The Associated Press

Washington Senators have had their troubles moving forward, but they overcame them long enough to put Baltimore Orioles in reverse.

The Senators entered Baltimore two days ago buried in the American League basement while the Orioles had climbed within four games of leading Detroit Tigers.

Washington departed Thursday night still locked in the cellar, but left the Orioles moving backward, six games behind the Tigers after losing twice to the Senators.

Frank Howard's home run put the brakes on the Orioles Wednesday night and the king-sized slugger teamed with Ken McMullen and rookie Gary Holman to beat Baltimore 5-4 in 11 innings Thursday night.

That loss came after Detroit rode Mickey Lolich's three-hitter to a 2-0 triumph over California Angels in the afternoon. The Tigers enter a three-game weekend series against Baltimore starting tonight.

In other games, Chicago White Sox slipped by New York Yankees 1-0 and Minnesota Twins tripped Cleveland Indians 3-2 in night contests and Boston Red Sox crumbled Oakland Athletics 11-2 in daylight.

Costly Error Followed by Homer

The Senators played their last-place role for seven innings against rookie Roger Nelson, making his first start of the season. They had only four hits and trailed 3-0. Then came the start of the turnabout.

A walk and shortstop Mark Belanger's error on a potential double play sent McMullen up with two on and one out and he unloaded his 18th homer for a tie game. Howard followed with his 38th blast on the next pitch.

Baltimore got back on the beam temporarily when Brooks Robinson, who doubled in two earlier runs, singled home the tying run in the eighth. But Holman, who pinch hit unsuccessfully in the eighth and stayed in the game, followed Bernie Allen's one-out double off Eddie Watt, 4-5, with a two-out, game-winning single.

Lolich, 13-8, put the pressure on the Orioles earlier after a slow start in which he gave up three hits in the first two innings. But he retired the last 20 hitters he faced, and finished with 12 strike outs and one walk.

Willie Horton supplied the offence with his 31st home run in the fourth inning for the first of two hits given up by George Brunet, 13-13, in his seven innings. Horton drove in the second run in the eighth with a hit.

Speedy Brock Sparks Card Attack

Luis Aparicio followed Tom McCraw's leadoff bunt single and a sacrifice in the seventh with a run-scoring hit against Steve Barber, 6-5, for Chicago's victory.

First Joel Horlen, 9-11, and then Wilbur Wood, who relieved in the ninth, protected the run with a seven-hitter.

Bob Allison's 18th homer with one out in the eighth broke a tie and gave Minnesota its triumph behind Jim Kaat's six-hit pitching. He struck out 10 as he raised his record to 11-10.

Reggie Smith led Boston's bombardment with his first grand slam homer and a run scoring ground out. Joe Foy added two homers for three runs, making it easy for Dick Ellsworth, 12-6, who relieved injured starter Dave Morehead.

In the National League, Lou Brock stole four bases and his teammates whacked four runs and six hits in less than three innings as St. Louis Cardinals overwhelmed Pittsburgh Pirates by 5-0.

Brock, who scored twice, had a single and four walks. The only time he didn't steal was in the third inning, when two runners in front tied him up at first.

The thefts give Brock 41 for the season, just one back of the Pirates Maury Wills, the National leader.

New York Mets shut out Cincinanti Reds 2-0; Atlanta Braves blanked Philadelphia Phillies 6-0, and Houston Astros rapped San Francisco Giants 6-1.

JUNIORS START SEPT. 9 . . . . . . NEW FACES SHOW

Cougars Expect Greater Punch

The best defence is a solid offence, seems to be the strategy behind Doug Anderson's moves to beef-up forward lines with his Victoria Cougars.

The junior hockey club opens training camp at Esquimalt Sports Centre Sept. 9, and if Anderson's negotiations work out Cougars will have two of the B.C. Junior Hockey League's top scorers with three hard-working back-up men.

The Victoria team opens its second season in the league with a home game against New Westminster Oct. 5.

Anderson has landed Bob Mowat from the league-champion Penticton Broncos, who was fifth in scoring last season. Mowat, a winger, netted 34 goals and 36 assists, almost twice the total points scored by any Cougar last season.

Anderson is also waiting for final confirmation on Dave Cousins of Kelowna Buckaroos, ninth in individual scoring with 30 goals and 30 assists. Cousins reportedly has a registration form submitted to the University of Victoria.

Grant Evans from Kamloops Rockets, who improved steadily to finish with 24 goals and 27 assists at the end of the season, is expected to come out along with Penticton's Adrian Blais (19 goals, 10 assists) and Len Barrie (10 goals, 24 assists).

Cougars managed to score only 29 more goals as a team than the sum amassed by these players last season.

Nearly 30 players will try out, Anderson expects. Holdovers include John Van Horlick and goalie Ron Grahame.

Also asked to try out, following special summer sessions, are defenceman Alex Stocks and forwards Bill Karaim and Bruce Cowick of Esquimalt, defenceman Murray Kennett of Victoria and a forward from Portland—Doug Gibson.

Other players on Anderson's list of possibilities include Lonnie Miles of Port Alberni, Shane Webster of Fernie, Gerry Bond of Kamloops and Laurie Moore of Kimberley.

A confirmation of attendance at the training camp has also been received from goalkeeper Freddy Wright of Williams Lake.

FISHING REPORT

Coho Outlook Appears Bright

By STEWART LANG

If bucktailing for coho salmon is your forte, there may be a wealth of pleasure awaiting around most salt water spots on Vancouver Island over the long weekend.

Waters in and around Pedder and Becher Bays as well as Sooke Basin have been producing coho up to 11 pounds with fairly good consistency recently.

Pedder's kelp bed on the right side seems a good bet while the Beechey Head vicinity also is a favorite haunt. The hot-spot in Sooke centres mainly around Secretary Island.

★ ★ ★

In Saanich Inlet, the Bamberton shoreline, Deep Cove, Pat and Cole Bays have been reported as good choices for coho in the seven to 10-pound class. A coho run also shows around Goldstream Island.

A smaller number of jack springs are being taken in the same areas.

Coho anglers have had success on the Willows Beach side of Jimmy Chicken Island off Oak Bay.

One word can describe fishing in Cowichan Bay—"sad." Bigger fish are still up in the river and seals have been keeping them there. Coho are still being taken down toward Whiskey Point or the Narrows but for springs a better bet would be out toward Active and Porlier passes.

Grilse have been giving fishermen around Nanaimo a tough time but a few coho from five to seven pounds are being picked up near the white buoy and around Five-Fingers.

★ ★ ★

Tyee are still biting in the Alberni Inlet from San Mateo Bay up to Nahmint. One interesting story concerns a fisherman who battled a fish for four hours and only landed the front section. Something, probably a cod or sea-lion, had gnawed off the rear half while fighting the fisherman for its possession, leaving a 32-pound piece on the line.

★ ★ ★

Pink and white or pink, white and green bucktails have been a popular lure for coho near Denman and Hornby islands south of Courtenay, while grilse have been hogging a few lines in this area too.

Tyee returns off the Campbell River mouth remain steady while coho in the Butler and Shelter Point vicinities run around nine to 10 pounds.

★ ★ ★

The wet, cooler weather has improved trout chances in most Island lakes and streams. Prospect and Durrance are rated by Stan Williams as the best for trout while Elk Lake enjoys improved bass returns.

Sea-run in the San Juan and steelhead in Harris Creek might make a trip to the West Coast worthwhile.

★ ★ ★

NIBBLES: Fishermen with the yen for winning something with the fish they catch have a wide selection of derbies to choose from over the weekend. Over 15,000 to Chase Derby's $25,000 Prize

VANCOUVER (CP) — A flood of eager sports fishermen clutching $10 entry tickets head out Saturday in quest of $52,000 in cash and goods in the "world's biggest" fishing derby.

By yacht, runabout and rowboat, an estimated 15,000 fishermen—many of them Americans from as far south as Louisiana and Florida—are expected for the three-day derby.

A 30-to-50 pound spring salmon, caught somewhere in the fishing area of offshore Howe Sound or English Bay, is expected to win the top prize of $25,000.

Finley Anthony, executive of an advertising agency who conceived the idea, said he is not certain of the probable profit in the commercial venture. But revenue is expected to be about $150,000, bases on sales of 15,000 $10 tickets.

That amount, less $52,000 in prizes and at least another $50,000 in organization, promotion and other expenses, would mean a tidy profit for the syndicate of Vancouver businessmen who put up the money.

Even commercial fishermen, who have often complained about the large numbers of salmon taken in the area by sports fishermen, are getting into the act.

A number were hired by derby officials to patrol the area in advance to watch for traps in which large fish are force-fed, ready for a "catch" on derby weekend.

Anthony sticks to his claim that the derby is the world's largest, whether measured in terms of prize money or number of participants.

The largest annual derby here has been the Vancouver Sun's free salmon derby, which drew 10,000 fishermen on a bleak, rainy Aug. 25 Sunday. A 32-pound, seven-ounce salmon won top prize of a 17-foot boat.

In 1958, the provincial centennial fishing derby attracted 12,700 fishermen who each paid a $2 fee to cover expenses. That event was run by Anthony.

Frostbiters Emerge as Cruisers Dock

Hewett

Labor Day Weekend is the end and the beginning. Generally, it signals the end of the cruising season, and the beginning of boating fun. Sunday fishermen and weekend frostbiters dig out wet weather gear and sou'-wester hats.

Many also equip themselves with notebook and pencil for a little self-improvement during the long winter nights. Acquiring knowledge of water and wind is not only prudent, but can be fun.

The Adult Education Program of the Victoria Night Schools commences in another month, and offers several courses of interest to boaters.

Those who know everything about tides, weather, seamanship and navigation can brush up on their fishing techniques with Brentwood pundit Jim Gilbert. Those who don't would be well advised to consider the Power Squadron's Basic Piloting and Seamanship Course.

Don't be misled by the "power" part of the title. The fundamentals in this excellent course apply equally for the owner of the kayak, cabin cruiser, runabout, sailboat, or even houseboat.

Considerable time is spent working with charts: setting courses, working out variation and deviation, and learning the symbols of pilotage. Three Sunday cruises, one on a B.C. government ferry, give the student practice in using the compass, dividers, and parallel rule.

Power Squadron Training programs are standardized across Canada and the U.S.A. Once he has passed the basic piloting course, the student is eligible to elect more advanced courses in navigation, seamanship, engine maintenance, and others. Instructors are members of local squadrons, who volunteer their services.

Would-be sailors electing the course in basic sailing for beginners will receive a solid grounding from one of Victoria's most experienced yachtsmen. Humphrey Golby is a product of the era when small open dinghies were the standard boat for a young chap to cruise the Gulf Islands, or race a PIYA Regattat in Seattle. (You sailed your own boat down and back, of course.)

Classroom instruction covers elements of boat handling, as well as the factors influencing the sailboat; tide, winds, and wather. There will also be discussion on the design, cost, sails, suitability, and maintenance of various types of boat.

Practical sessions will be given on weekends, when the beginners will have the opportunity to sail in several types of boat, including both centreboard and keel boats.

One of Victoria's outstanding Junior Yachtsmen, Chris Anstey, has been selected to attend the CYA sponsored Youth Olympic Training Seminar at the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club.

New this year, the program parallels the sailing symposiums in the United States. These clinics are designed to raise the standards of proficiency in the sport. And develop the Olympic and International competitors of the future.

The week-long session which commences September 2 will feature an intensive program in tactics and techniques. Topics covered will include how and why sails are cut; the characteristics of different boats; and elements of match racing.

The seminar will utilize 20 O.K. Dinghies, 10 Fireballs, and 10 Flying Juniors. Participants must be between 16 and 20 years old.

Allocation of entries to YOTS is regional. British Columbia's nine berths include one coaching expert. Chris will specialize in single-handed work in the O.K. dinghies.

Nancy Honored

TORONTO (CP) — Nancy Greene, Canada's sweetheart of the ski slopes, was inducted Thursday into the Canadian Sports Hall of Fame.

Nancy was winner of a gold and a silver medal at the 1968 Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, and twice winner of the World Cup in skiing.

Vancouver Fighting For Royals' Control

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Royals of the North American Soccer League Wednesday launched a campaign aimed at assuming full local ownership of the club "or else cease operations."

Shasta Sports, a subsidiary of the California-based Shasta Co., owns 55 per cent of Western Professional Soccer Ltd., operators of the Royals. Local interests hold the remaining 45 per cent.

Details of the campaign were announced by Brig. E. G. Eakins, Royals president, and lawyer Charles H. Wills, who, along with businessman John Davidson represents industrialist Frank McMahon of Vancouver.

Local interests have until Sept. 11 to effect the share control transfer.

Vancouver officials said that unless the local fund-raising campaign is successful, professional soccer will likely cease to exist in the area.

Adhesion Discovery

A University of Victoria chemistry professor will tell an American conference of chemists next month of his research into adhesion of organic polymers to cellulosic substrate.

Dr. Robert O'Brien concedes this is academic jargon for paint sticking to wood.

The latest renewal of his $4,000 federal research grant was announced Wednesday. With assistant Karel Hartman, Dr. O'Brien has been investigating the chemistry which goes on between epoxy resin and wood.

"We know epoxies and cellulose stick like crazy but we haven't known why. If you know why you can make them stick better."

What Dr. O'Brien will tell a meeting of the American Chemcial Society at Atlantic City, N.J., is "we thingk we've discovered the first really convincing evidence of a chemical bond between epoxy and cellulosic substrate."

From such knowledge could come better glue and paint which would mean better protection for wood and therefore longer use from it.

Once the kind of chemical bond formed is known, formulas could be changed to produce greater adhesion.

SCHOOL BUS INFORMATION AND SCHEDULES

for the School Year 1968-69

School Board Policy—Pupil Transportation

School bus transportation, subject to available seating space, will be provided for:

Grade 1- 3	pupils who live more than two miles from the nearest Elementary School.
Grade 4- 7	pupils who live more than two and one half miles from the nearest Elementary School.
Grade 8-12	students who live more than three miles from the nearest Secondary School.

Mileage distances are calculated by the most direct route on established roads or walk areas. The distance is computed from the home property access at the road to the entry at the school site.

All occupational students, except those who have been advised to attend North Saanich Junior Secondary School, will attend at Mount Newton Junior Secondary School.

Special classes have been established at Brentwood, Cordova Bay, McTavish Road, Prospect Lake and Sansbury Elementary Schools. All pupils who will attend these classes have been advised.

The bus schedules for the morning runs are attached. The afternoon runs in general will be the reverse of the morning runs. The schedules are subject to changes if circumstances require. All times given are approximate.

Junior Secondary Students to Royal Oak

Those students living in the general area of Patricia Bay Highway and Sayward Road, and are more than three miles from the School, will be issued commuter tickets to travel by the Coach Lines bus which arrives at Patricia Bay Highway and Sayward Road approximately 7:35 a.m.

ECONOMY AXE FELLS TELESCOPE

Construction of a huge telescope on Mount Kobau in British Columbia will be discontinued for reasons of economy, the federal government announced Thursday.

Victoria astronomers who campaigned for the $22,000,000 Queen Elizabeth telescope said the move will make it impossible for Canadian scientists to face their international contemporaries.

"It will open another brain drain to the United States," one said.

However, Dr. K. O. Wright, director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Little Saanich Mountain, said:

"We are not giving up entirely. There are one or two avenues still open to us if we can get support from other sources."

The federal government said expenditures on the telescope would not be justified in a period of retrenchment and financial priorities.

The 157-inch reflecting telescope was to have been built on Mount Kobau overlooking the Okanagan Valley in southern British Columbia.

The federal government said it would maintain at Mount Kobau certain astronomical facilities for the use of government and universities.

But the Victoria scientists said these would be inadequate for Canadian needs.

Water Ski Marathon Set

The second international water ski race from Port Angeles to Esquimalt's Saxe Point Park and back is scheduled for Monday starting at 8:30 p.m.

The race, an annual event, is sponsored by Lions Clubs in Port Angeles, Victoria and Esquimalt.

Race officials expect at least 10 skiers entered in the gruelling 36-mile marathon.

The only Victoria team entered to date is W. D. Pollard skiing with M. R. Fife at the controls.

Skiers will race in two divisions, one over 35 m.p.h. and one under. Entry fee is $10 for boat and skier. Trophies and prize money will be awarded at the Port Angeles finish line.

JOSEPH EGOYAN
EVENING CLASSES IN INTERIOR DECORATING

The fascinating study of Interior Decoration will be introduced to you by theoretical and practical analysis of form, color, texture, dimension and values. These lectures will be held above the store and also supplemented by on-location studies, in selected homes, concluding the final class by a visit at the residence of Mr. Egoyan to discuss the problems arising in furniture arrangement, color schemes, lighting effects, drapery and carpet selection, and proper use of pictures and accessories.

Classes will be held on Monday or Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9, starting on Sept. 9th or 11th, at Ego Interiors. Total cost of 8 lectures, once a week, $20.00.

Mr. Joseph Egoyan, B.A.E., your instructor, is well qualified, with extensive theoretical and practical knowledge. He is a graduate of the Art Institute of Chicago and the California College of Arts and Crafts; has taught at Oakland Tech High, Calif., the American College in Cairo and at the Evening Adult Education program in Victoria. In addition, he has a wealth of practical experience in the retail field as proprietor of Ego Arts Gallery in Cairo for 5 years, and Ego Interiors in Victoria for 6 years.

OLD THEATRE PADLOCKED

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) It's letterheads still read: "America's foremost college of theatre arts," but padlocks are on the doors of Pasadena Playhouse, and the legendary old theatre soon may be on the auction block.

Local Musicians Excel In Conservatory Exams

Eleven music students in the Victoria area were recently awarded coveted Toronto Conservatory Silver Medals for achieving the highest marks in their class across the province.

Four piano students of Miss Noel Smith, who has long been one of Victoria's outstanding piano teachers, won medals in competitive classes. They are Stephen Calder (Grade 8), William Patterson (Grade 4), Susan Patterson (Grade 3) and Benjamin Wood (Grade 1).

In Grade 9 piano Ainslee MacQuarrie, a pupil of Mrs. Doris Crofton, brought a medal to Ganges, and in Grade 8 Wendy Stofer, taught by Mrs. Gertrude Bates, and Mrs. J. Butler's Grade 2 student, Annabelle Burrows, were also successful.

Mary Chard, a student of Richard Proudman, won a medal for her Grade 8 organ mark; Penelope Beavan (Grade 8) and Robin Powell (Grade 4), both students of Miss Gladys Pearcy, won medals for singing.

A Speech Arts medal was gained by Nona Avren, a Grade 3 student of Mrs. Opal Campbell.

Eleven of the 36 medals awarded in B.C. came to Victoria.

Frederick Harris Scholarships available to piano and string-instrument students with the highest marks were won by six local students. Susan de Burgh of Ganges, a Grade 9 pupil of Robin Wood, won $40.

Wendy Stofer, William and Susan Patterson and Benjamin Wood were awarded $25 each and Annabelle Burrows gained $12.50.

All scholarships are applicable to the student's music lessons.

Meetings Calendar

The meeting for the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society has been cancelled for the coming weekend, owing to the holiday and Saanichton Fair.

EUROPE FETES TORONTO DANCER

TORONTO (CP) — Veronica Tennant of Toronto, at 22 the youngest ballerina in the National Ballet Company, has no intention of deserting Canada despite the attractive offers received on a just-completed European tour.

Instead of accepting the offers from European directors to join companies she visited while touring for six weeks on a Canada Council grant, Miss Tennant tentatively arranged guest performances in Europe this season and next.

"After every class the teacher would come up to me and ask where I was from," she said in an interview.

"I couldn't think of leaving here permanently," she said. "Every ballerina needs a home base. You can't go flitting around the world."

She feels the National Ballet School's advantage over other schools is its "very fine melding" of all approaches to dance.

Arthur Mayse

One day this week, a caller told me about a young man — she didn't know his name—who has completed his freshman year at the University of Victoria, won a government scholarship, and been informed that the university will not take him back in September.

Her story struck me as fantastic.

Was the fellow a thief, or had he committed a gross act of open immorality, or been caught cheating in his examinations?

Oh no, I was told. He was a decent boy and a hard worker. But four years ago, he had failed that same freshman year, and had been disqualified on those grounds.

Still fantastic. But I asked her to get me his name if she could. This she did, and here is the account he gave me.

His name is John Thomas, his age, 23. He is staying at 3635 Happy Valley Road with his bride of a few months.

He confirmed what I had heard about him, with corrections.

"I failed my freshman year twice," he said. "The first time was in 1963-64 when I was 18, and again the next year."

★

"What happened?" I asked him. Eighteen is pretty young; maybe he'd fooled his time away, as full many an 18-year-old has done and will no-doubt continue to do.

But it wasn't like that at all. John Thomas knew that if he was to get his chance at higher education, he must work for it.

And work he did, as a longshoreman on the spare board, which means that he was on call whenever one of the regulars happened to be off the job.

Overburdened, he lost those two years ... a failure that still disgusts him. John Thomas is not given to self-pity.

He thought things over, then hunted up work in the woods. One day, he promised himself, he would return with a good stake made, and renew his assault on education.

He signed on at Port Renfrew as a chokerman. He moved up from one job to another, and when he registered last year at Uvic to try the consequence again, he was a trained and useful man with money in the bank.

Unhampered by side-issues he did well, as his provincial government scholarship bears witness. You should know, too, that payment of the scholarship which would cover two-thirds of his second-year fees is conditional on attendence.

In the case of John Thomas —disqualified by a university rule designed to rid the campus of the perennial drone the provincial government award is reduced to a bad joke. His two failures of years ago outweigh his last year's success. He isn't to be allowed to continue.

★

Why, then, if the bars went up after two failures, had he been allowed to return last fall?

"Well, they tell me I should have re-registered. You see, I was ashamed of my past record, and I could see no reason for bringing it up this long after. So I simply registered as a new student."

By so doing, he falsified a record, or so the Uvic powers regard his act, and the two-failure rule is to be applied without regard for special circumstances surrounding the case.

It was pointed out to him, John Thomas told me, that all was not lost. He might gain his degree by the summer school route. If I remember correctly, three summer school courses equal one academic year on campus. At that rate, he might hope to graduate in nine years ... at the age of 32.

"What do you plan to do?" I asked him.

"Find a job in town," he said. "sign up for night courses, and go to summer school next year."

So there you have it, and if it smacks to you of bureaucracy, red tape and rigidmindedness, so does it to me. Neither does it jibe with my feeling of what a university should be.

I asked one more question, and drew a reply freighted with unintended irony.

"What do you want to be?"

"I want to teach," said the scholarship winner for whom our university has no place. "And eventually, a university professor."

Adults Fail Youths' Need Report Claims

By JOHN SLINGER

The mere existence of the youth-run Cool-Aid service signifies a failure of adult-run social agencies to deal with youth problems in Victoria, says a report prepared by four university volunteers who ran Cool-Aid for six weeks this summer.

The four, from universities in Nova Scotia, Ontario and Alberta, were working with Cool-Aid as part of a program called Summer of Service sponsored by major Canadian churches.

"Discriminating regulations and red tape" stop young people in trouble from approaching locally and provincially run social agencies, the report says.

Cool-Aid was established to supply needy transient and local youngsters with temporary housing, food, temporary or permanent employment and to put them in contact with medical and legal personnel.

AID ASKED

Because of its informal approach, "many young people, afraid of the social agencies' impersonal attitude, have sought the aid and advice of our young Cool-Aid staff."

"Young people identify with other young people, not with application forms."

The Roman Catholic Church-sponsored St. Vincent de Paul Society, "has been the only one truly interested and helpful in dealing with youth problems," says the report.

During their six weeks, the volunteer group found temporary billets for 100 young men and 10 young women.

The report says they lined up 20 temporary and five permanent jobs, put 10 persons in touch with legal aid and found medical and emergency dental help for five persons.

PROFESSIONALS

Its list of contacts includes two lawyers, three medical doctors, a psychiatrist and a dentist willing to do free work.

Nearly all of its work was done among hippie elements and three of the volunteers note a general apathy which made it difficult for the youngsters "to translate any ideas and criticisms into concrete action."

When they asked the group who frequent the Broad Street Youth Centre what they considered the needs of Victoria's youth, the majority answer was "more bands."

The report says the great need is not for physical facilities, but for "some spark which will initiate enthusiasm among the kids themselves.

This "demands a change in attitude from parents and city council — both of which, to date, have managed fairly effectively to put a damper on many youth-originated projects."

"We agree that a change in the adult attitude to youth is very much needed if further progress is to be made."

NDP Hits Chatterton Appointment

George Chatterton's appointment as a $12,900-a-year provincial civil servant was branded Thursday as "pork barrel politics."

The charge was made by the NDP's housing critic Robert Williams, MLA for Vancouver East, and a town planner after Premier Bennett announced the defeated Conservative MP's experience in housing administration was "a godsend" to the government.

"It's more of a godsend to Mr. Chatterton," snapped Mr. Williams. "His main qualification for this job seems to have been that he helped Peter Pollen in the Oak Bay byelection,

"TURNCOAT TORY"

"Mr. Chatterton is just another turncoat Tory."

(Mr. Chatterton, defeated in the June federal election by Liberal David Anderson for the Esquimalt-Saanich seat, appeared the following month on a platform with Premier Bennett at a Social Credit rally to campaign for Mr. Pollen in the Oak Bay provincial by-election. Mr. Pollen also was defeated by a Liberal, Allan Cox.)

Mr. Williams conceded that Mr. Chatterton "had a good background in municipal government and his experience in VLA has some significance" but he said many other persons in B.C. were available and better-qualified for the appointment.

Civil service appointments normally are made by the Civil Service Commission after advertising of the opening and examination of all the applicants but Mr. Bennett said Mr. Chatterton was appointed by the cabinet.

Replying to Mr. Williams' charge Mr. Chatterton said:

"I hope that my connection with Peter Pollen was irrelevant in my new appointment.

BETTER QUALIFICATIONS

"I have better qualifications than that."

He said he had been Vancouver Island administrator of the Veterans' Land Act for 16 years.

"That meant I was responsible for all veteran housing, both new and existing, in the area," said Mr. Chatterton.

He also recalled that he had been Conservative spokesman on housing in Ottawa and had been appointed chairman of a committee on housing.

"I have a fairly good understanding of the problems from a federal point of view and I think this will help me in in understanding the provincial problems," he said.

Criminal Record Worst Part Of the Penalty

Two young men who pleaded guilty today to steadling a few books were told the biggest penalty they were getting was a criminal record.

James Barrell and Garry Clark, both 22 and both of 1211 North Park, took two library books valued at less than $10 from a parked car on Courtenay Street Aug. 16.

They said they were both drunk at the time. The books were titled The History of East Africa and An Introduction to World Politics.

Magistrate William Ostler asked the accused if they planned to read the books, to which they said no.

"Perhaps a suitable punishment would be to make them sit down and read the books," he said.

At this point prosecutor John Macintyre suggested the punishment could be writing out the books.

"Or writing essays on them," said the magistrate.

"The best thing to do is to fine them for being drunk," he added.

"This is one of these cases where I wish I could give a complete discharge," which would save the men from bearing a criminal record for the rest of their lives.

The accused were each fined $25.

MILD AND DRY

Victorians can look forward to a mild, dry Labor Day weekend.

The weather office is forecasting temperatures in the 70s for Saturday and dropping to the mid-60s on Sunday and Monday.

There may be some fog Saturday and clouds are forecast for Sunday, with clearing again on Labor Day.

Convention Centre—Take It or Leave It

Council Won't Beg For Acceptance

By JIM HUME

Victoria city council will not adopt the "role of the postulant begging the citizens to accept a convention centre".

Mayor Hugh Stephen made the statement Thursday afternoon during a brief between-conferences interview.

Under heavy critical fire from some quarters of the community, Mayor Stephen said he felt city council had done all it could to accommodate old demands that the city get into the major convention business.

"We have done what we were requested to do, brought in a plan for a convention centre," he said. "I do not think we should now have to go down on our knees and beg acceptance of that plan.

"I think the people of this community who made the demands that we have a convention centre should now get out and sell it."

Wednesday morning the mayor, Ald. Hugh Ramsay, city manager Dennis Young and planner Geoff Greenhalgh met with members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to answer questions and spell out the proposal to build a convention centre on the site of the Empress parking lot.

The city officials said the meeting was informal but were cautious in their estimate of its success.

Mr. Young was more optimistic when describing the nature of recent talks with CPR officials.

'Discussions Are Continuing'

"Discussions are continuing and will continue for some time," he said. "It is too early to make any statements yet, but the tenor of the talks is most encouraging."

It was not until early August that Victorians got their first knowledge that a major project was in the works for the rear of the Empress.

Details at the time were skimpy, but it was made public that a convention centre, underground parking and highrise towers were in the planning stage.

Last Thursday Fred Joplin, special projects chief for the CPR, unveiled the detailed plan which would see the city build a $2.2 million convention centre "plugged in" to the Empress.

The land on which the centre would be built would be rented to the city for a nominal sum of $1 a year.

Included in the convention centre package was a proposal that the CPR purchase from the city for $500,000 the Crystal Garden site, raze the old building and erect two highrise buildings. A third highrise would be built on the site of the old CPR power plant.

Reaction to the proposal was swift and for the most part negative with critics claiming that the city was making too many concessions to the CPR and, in effect, handing them a gift package of a $2 million convention centre.

The charges were strongly denied by elected and paid officials of the city who claim that the CPR proposal will be difficult to beat.

In an earlier interview Mayor Stephen said that if the city was to have a convention centre of any kind it would have to be plugged-in to an existing hotel or a new hotel.

"It just is not economically feasible to build a free-standing convention centre," he said. "If it were proposed that the city build a convention centre well away from existing hotels, I would oppose the move strongly."

In answer to the challenge that a convention centre built by public funds would only benefit a small segment of the community Mr. Young noted that earlier studies did not support the charge.

Two independent surveys of sections of the city have stated that the business generated by large conventions reaches all segments of the community either in cash or improved services.

'Significant Contribution'

The first report prepared by the Portland firm of Lund, McCutcheon and McBride said the convention business would make a most significant contribution to the economy of the city at large.

It was presented to the city's convention centre committee in 1966.

Earlier this year a second report prepared by Akers Western, a Vancouver economic consultant firm, made a similar observation when it presented its Wharf Street urban renewal economic feasibility report to city council.

"We have been told that some members of the business community are not satisfied that a convention centre would profit the community," said Mr. Young.

"I really don't know what more we can do to show that while the centre itself might well operate at a loss, the business it generates in the downtown area would be a tremendous boost to the economy."

In May, 1967, the convention centre committee under the chairmanship of Ald. Cylde Savage, presented its report and recommendations to city council after a year of study.

It stated: "After consideration of all the data made available to it ... the committee enthusiastically endorses construction of a convention centre which wil make a significant contribution to the city's economy. This opinion has been confirmed by the approaches which have been made by many organizations wishing to make reservations for conventions to be held in 1969 and the committee urges council to proceed with all dispatch towards the construction of a suitable centre

Stephen, is what city council, after another year of detailed study has done: proceeded to find and present the most economic answer to the demands of the people.

Mayor Stephen also notes that although surprise is being expressed in some quarters over the proposed location of the centre, the Empress parking lot was one of two sites selected by the convention centre committee.

The committee suggested a Wharf Street waterfront site as the prime objective with the Crystal Garden and Empress parking lot site a strong second choice.

OUT OF THIS CONFUSION will come the Victoria branch of the Bank of British Columbia. New bank is being created out of building on southeast corner of Douglas and Johnson Streets which housed The Toggery Shop until recently. Completion date has been set for October 21, with occupancy before the end of October. Renovations are being carried out by Victoria builder G. H. Wheaton. (Times photo.)

Health Act Holds Key For Sewer Projects

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark today emphasized that both the spirit and the letter of the law will be enforced which requires all sewer projects and bylaws in the province to have his department's approval.

He made it plain he was referring to both Saanich's proposed sewer amalgamation bylaw and Maliview Estates Ltd.'s plan to dump septic tank effluent into Trincomali Channel.

And he pointedly added that neither Saanich council nor Maliview has yet asked for his approval as required by the provincial Health Act.

"The law is clear that these things cannot be done legally until they have my approval," he said.

Mr. Loffmark said Pollution Control Board permits—as given to Maliview Estates—do not affect the Health Act requirement in any way. And he indicated that a PCB permit will not carry any weight in the department's examination of potential health dangers.

'STILL OUR JOB'

"Our responsibility is to consider the public health aspect and that is in no way abrogated by a Pollution Control Board permit—it is still our responsibility to examine the matter and decide whether a certificate will be issued."

Mr. Loffmark said he held a meeting with health department sanitary engineers on the Maliview proposal Thursday but was informed there still has been no application from the company for a health certificate.

"We sent them a letter a few days ago pointing out the legal requirements and advising them they cannot go ahead until they apply for and obtain our certificate."

Asked if one was likely to be issued should an application come in, he replied:

"I cannot anticipate the result until we have had an application and have held a formal examination of the proposal."

When asked if Saanich municipality has applied yet for the certificate required before it can put a sewer bylaw to a vote, Mr. Loffmark said:

"The answer is no. It may be in the department but I haven't seen it yet."

Mr. Loffmark's personal signature is required under the Health Act. The statute also says that every sewer bylaw put to a vote must begin with a preamble that the health certificate has been obtained.

PRIVATE EYES DEAD ON LEVEL

By ALLAN WHITE

"My friends sometimes ask me why my eyes have taken the shape of keyholes. This makes me very angry.

"The image of the private detective is poor," British investigator John Tyrer said today in his Empress Hotel suite.

"In fact, the private detectives I know are first-class people."

Mr. Tyrer, owner of the investigating London firm of Burr and Wyatt, was in the city for a one-day holiday. His visit followed the week-long convention of the World Association of Detectives in Vancouver.

"The type of men at the convention are a credit to any organization," Mr. Tyrer said.

"Ours is a growing profession," Mr. Tyrer said. "And it is a profession ... like dentists, lawyers or doctors."

INTEGRITY VITAL

The Association of British Detectives, of which he is current president, is in the process of registering as a chartered profession.

"We have a check in the association ... we make sure a man has standards of integrity and he has to pass an examination," Mr. Tyrer said.

"I don't accept instructions from the general public. Our clients are lawyers, banks and the large industrial firms."

WORLD NET

The world association, which held its fifth annual meeting this year, brings investigating firms together in a professional relationship, he said.

Members discuss techniques from various parts of the world (with representatives from such places as Tel Aviv and Buenos Aires present this year) and get to know each others as professionals.

"If I have a problem which needs to be investigated, I would send it to a member of the association," Mr. Tyrer said.

"It is much more efficient and pleasant to write to someone who is a personal friend and whom you know and trust."

"At the conventions ... we discuss business methods to improve our standards," he said. His business is primarily investigation of insurance claims and factory larceny.

It's No. 100 At Saanichton On Weekend

Celebrations to mark the opening of the Saanichton fair celebrating its 100th anniversary will start at 1 p.m. Saturday.

A record crowd from all parts of Vancouver Island, and many visitors from the mainland, are expected to attend the three-day exhibition.

It will be the Victoria area's biggest attraction over the Labor Day weekend.

The fair will feature pageantry, a wide variety of special attractions, plus thousands of horticultural exhibits.

Opening ceremonies will be conducted by Gen. G. R. Pearkes, former lieutenant-governor, at a newly constructed bandshell on the grounds.

He will arrive at the fair in a horse-drawn carriage. The armed services band from Naden will be in attendance.

4-H OPENER

Actually the fair gates will be thrown open to the public at 9 a.m., when the junior horse show and 4-H Club competitions get under way.

But the main program of entertainment will begin in the afternoon with a band concert and two half-hour variety shows.

In the evening there will be cutting-horse competitons and square dancing by 4-H club members. A midway will be in operation throughout the day.

The fair will remain open on Sunday, except for the horticultural building.

Special attractions will include a horse show featuring western events and cutting-horse competitions, and a concert by the Silver Thread Choral Group in the afternoon.

On Monday the fair will be in full swing and will feature a horse show (English events), Highland dancing, and 4-H Club competitions.

Vancouver Island Indians are participating in the celebrations and will have on display a large exhibition of arts and crafts.

City Radio Pioneer Dies in 85th Year

Victoria has lost one of its radio pioneers.

Back in the early 20s, when there were not factory-made radios—John Thomas Ball produced hundreds of crystal and one-tube sets at his home on Harriet Road.

"He had difficulty keeping up with the orders," his son, George R. Ball, said today.

Mr. Ball died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday at the age of 84. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. T. H. McAllister, will be held in McCall Brothers chapel Saturday at noon.

In 1920, Mr. Ball opened Victoria's first electrical automotive business on Harriet Road. Soon after he began making radio sets and, when the first studio programs were broadcast in 1921, there was a brisk local demand.

"Dad's radios were noted for their quality," George Ball said, "and many of them lasted for years. When factory-made sets came on the market, he relaxed his efforts in this direction but still made sets to order.

"And he did a great deal of repair work."

During the Second World War, when factories ceased making luxury goods, Mr. Ball again turned out radios in some quantity. And his enthusiasm for radio continued long after he retired from his electrical automotive business in 1945.

Born in Cornwall, England, he migrated to Canada in 1905 and operated a small business at Napika, Man., before coming to Victoria.

He was a member of the Associated Radio Technicians of British Columbia.

Besides his son, Mr. Ball is survived by two daughters, Mrs. G. M. Butler, Portland, Oregon and Mrs. Harry Brawn, Victoria.

Ask The Times

Q. Can you tell me the name of Canada's Patron Saint?—B.B.

A. During the middle ages the practice of picking a Paint Saint arose. This saint would have special attributes for helping the group to which they belonged. According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica Canada's Patron Saint is St. Joseph. St. Joseph's Day falls on March 19.

Q. How do they make Pres-to-Logs?—B.B.

According to B.C. Forest Products, Pres-to-logs are made from plywood scraps which are subjected to 165,000 lbs. pressure in cylinders. Under this pressure (which generates a great deal of heat) a solid fuel log is formed which is more than three times as dense as wood. Each machine manufactures two Pres-to-logs per minute or about ten tons of the logs each day. No binding agents or chemicals are used.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps on antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

MARRIAGE OF JORDAN'S CROWN PRINCE

Jordan' Crown Prince Hassan Bin Talal, younger brother of King Hussein, smiles with his bride, Princess Sarvath Ikramullah of Pakistan, after their wedding in Karachi. DEAR ABBY . . .

The Bridegroom Was a Billboard

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a beautiful wedding ceremony that was marred by a "practical joke" perpetrated on the bridegroom by a "close friend." This idiot had printed "SAVE ME" on the soles of the bridegroom's shoes, so when the couple knelt for prayer. It could be seen by everyone.

I felt this was very poor taste, and would appreciate your comments.

DEAR M. D.: I agree with you. And I'm printing your letter knowing full well that it may give some other "idiots" ideas, but hoping that "ALL bridegrooms will look to their soles for the work of heels.

DEAR ABBY: I'm nearly 15 years old and have a brother who is 16. This is my problem.

I have my own room with twin beds. My brother has his own room, too, but he had only a fan in his room and I have an air-conditioner in mine. With the warm weather here, my brother complains that the fan doesn't help much, so he wants to sleep in my room because of the air-conditioner.

I don't want him in with me because I think I'm too old to be sleeping with an older brother, and I want my privacy.

My folks say I'm silly, and I should let him use the other twin bed. I would like your opinion.

BOILING

DEAR BOILING: It would help to know whether you are a boy or a girl. If you are a girl, I don't blame you. If you are a boy, and your "privacy" is that important to you, be a man and trade rooms (for the hot spell) with your brother. (Or would you rather fight than switch?)

DEAR ABBY: I was shocked and disgusted today when I took my 2½-year-old daughter shopping with me. As we approached a certain toothpaste display she pointed to it and shouted, "Oh look Mommy, SEX appeal!" I nearly fainted. This is just one example of how TV commercials influence young children. Another thing with regard to the boob tube:

What good does it do for parents to try to teach their children not to make personal, insulting remarks to people when they see it done day after day in television commercials?"

I have a friend whose little four-year-old boy tells people that they have "baaad breath, body odor and dandruff." Everyone laughs and thinks it's cute.

Well, I don't, so please print my letter with the following statement: I will NOT buy products whose commercials offend me, and I hope other mothers who feel the same will follow suit.

BOBBY'S MOM

Speechless With Delight

CHICAGO (AP) — Muriel Humphrey, 56, jumped from her convention seat with glee as her husband won the Democratic nomination for president Wednesday night.

"I'm really speechless for once in my life," she said at the moment of triumph.

Five miles away in his hotel suite, Vice-President Hubert Humphrey watched his wife watching the convention as the television cameras turned on her.

"Look at how pretty she looks," Humphrey said. "I'm going to give her a big kiss."

Mrs. Humphrey, silver-haired, motherly in appearance, left the convention hall beaming with happiness and said, "I've got to go congratulate my fella."

Partners in 32 years of marriage and seven other political campaigns, the Humphreys entered together at a jubilant pre-dawn victory appearance before supporters in a hotel banquet room.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Note to B.G.: Protruding ears can be corrected very successfully by plastic surgery. Yours may not be as unattractive as you think, but even if they aren't, I urge you to have this defect remedied since it is having a drastic effect on your happiness and personality.

Lowman

Ask your doctor to locate a well-qualified plastic surgeon for you or call an accredited hospital in your area and ask for the names of one or two of their staff.

When there is help for you, it would be too bad not to take advantage of it, if it is at all possible to do so. If there is not still time before school begins, maybe you could have the operation during Christmas vacation.

Q. Is it true that exercising does not show a loss of weight on the scales but shows up in inches on a person? If this is true, then won't you gain weight because exercising makes muscles that weigh more than fat?

A. Exercise helps you lose weight because it increases your energy output. The only way to lose weight is to spend more energy than the food you eat provides.

Exercise is the only way to spot reduce. It is true that it is possible to gain a few pounds while your measurements become smaller. This is due to an increase in muscle tone.

You would have to exercise very strenuously for a long time before this would become a problem. Anyway, it really doesn't matter how much you weigh if your measurements are lovely, and if they are, you are not apt to be overweight from deposits of fat.

Q. Is nail polish bad for the nails?

A. No. It is not damaging to the nails. Some women are allergic to this cosmetic aid. If you are having unexplained rashes, it would be wise to have patch tests made with the polish in order to discover whether or not you are sensitive to the polish.

Q. Is it possible that anger could cause one to break out in a rash or bumps?

A. Yes. Emotional upsets can be reflected in the complexion in this way.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Titivate Hot Toast With Yummy Spread

By PENNY SAVER

How quickly we fall back into wintery patterns! Give me a few days of rain and I am back in the groove of hot meals and warming drinks when the kids come home. I have papers spread at the door for wet shoes and an old towel at the ready to clean off the dog. How dull! And August isn't even over yet. With the long-range forecast promising a few more weeks of cloudy skies, I have decided I must do something to break this pattern. My family deserves something new and different.

I decided to begin with a new spread for the hot toast they like on a cool morning. This spread comes in a seven-ounce jar for 65 cents. It is a smooth chocolate spread blended with yummy hazelnut. It provides all the taste sensation of a hazelnut candy without the munch. This spread requires no refrigeration so can be kept handy on the breakfast table.

Come lunch I heated up a can of tripe. This is beef tripe in a tomato paste sauce that is completely ready to eat. All I had to do is warm it through. To make the sauce thinner, just add some water. While I haven't tried it yet, I imagine that this would fit well into quick-to-make recipes for soups or casseroles. A can is 95 cents.

Another lunch idea that was new to me was sliced beef in jelly. This is canned and ready to eat. Since it is already sliced, it is easy to slip into sandwiches or serve on the side of a salad. Again I am sure an imaginative cook could find ways to heat it and use it in some familiar recipe. A good sized can is 95 cents.

French Soup Mixes Add Extra Dash

Dried soup mixes are wonderful as far as this mother is concerned. They store so beautifully and compactly. And, they are easy to make. I found a whole shelf full of these soups. Made in France they give me a chance to practise towards bilingualism while preparing a meal. Among the soups available are green pea with ham, mushroom, watercress (I'm still too scared to try this one), onion, vichyssois (here my comprehension breaks down, I will have to try it to find out exactly what it is), fish, super beef, minestrone and chicken, both clear and, I would assume, creamed (again I haven't reached this one yet so I am not sure.) All these soups are 43 cents a package.

I must tell all my readers about the three specials I saw while shopping. One is on Italian salami. Regularly $1.50 a pound, this salami will be on sale for $1.35 a pound for around a week. Olive oil, regularly $5.50 a gallon, will be selling for $4.95 a gallon for the next couple of weeks while pure vegetable oil, which averaged $2.75 a gallon, will be on special at $2.49 a gallon while the present stock lasts.

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where to shop for the items in this column.

Eras Spanned By Princess

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

LONDON, Aug. 27 — The death this week of Princess Marina, Duchess of Kent, removes one of the most enchanting of the British royals from the public scene.

Not that she was particularly British. She came of that curious overworld of sovereigns and princelings and archdukes who had their homes in hilltop castles or baroque palaces in small cities where a band played Haydn indifferently after dinner and the court played endless games of picquet until the courtiers were reeling with exhaustion and boredom on their silk-hosed legs.

She rose above this stilted and stifling life, In fact she had known the hard times of a refugee. To give the details, which mean little now, she was the third daughter of Prince Nicholas of Greece. Her mother was the Grand-Duchess Helene of Russia. Her uncle was the King Constantine of Greece who was deposed from his precarious throne by the Allies during the First World War for his pro-German tendencies. He was a civilized but not a prudent German-Danish prince to whom the kingdom of Greece had been given, and the Greeks not by nature subservient tenants, had not been too enthusiastic about the arrangements made by the then firmly-crowned heads of Europe.

HOW TO SEW AND COOK

She was born in 1906. Her father, Prince Nicholas, and his family had to leave Greece with King Constantine. For a time they lived in Switzerland and were middle-class poor so that the princess had to learn to sew and to cook and to wear cheap clothes as if they were Parisian models.

Her father, in the manner of Greek royalty, was an imprudent prince and was thrown out of Greece again in 1923. They lived in London and Paris and the princess, as bright as a scholarship child, sharpened by adversity, learned perfect English and learned to love England and yet remain a completely international figure—like Peter Ustinov—but far more beautiful.

LEADER IN ELEGANCE

From out of her breeding and her catholic experience, she became one of the most elegant women in the world, not extravagant, not dripping in diamonds, not preoccupied by the splendors and eccentricities of her family, but a proud, upright, naturally commanding woman, with a smile to charm the snarl off a commissar and a manner that endeared her to even the most suspicious English.

In 1934 she married the Duke of Kent, Prince George, the youngest son of King George V. He was in the Royal Air Force and was killed in an air crash during the war on his way to Iceland. They seemed genuinely to have loved one another.

They had three children. There is the present Duke of Kent, an army officer in the cavalry (which means armored vehicles today); there is Princess Alexandra, who can charm the rice out of a Chinaman's bowl and is married to a successful and well-born businessman, Angus Ogilvy, son of the Scottish Earl of Airlie, and Prince Michael, who is dabbling in the diplomatic service on the commercial side.

WORKED AS A NURSE

Princess Marina worked as a nurse during the Second World War. She lived not in a palace but in the sort of comfortable house in the purlieus of Windsor that businessmen buy when they have made it. She represented the Queen at the independence celebrations of Ghana and splendidly opened the ball by dancing with ex-president Mjrumah. She went to Mexico, Peru, Chile, Brazil, Singapore and Malaya and took little notice of the various insurgencies that were going on at the time.

When the Russian premier, Alexei Koysgin, came to London and was entertained at Buckingham palace, she alone of the royals did not attend the state banquet. After all, she had known the squalidly-murdered Csar and his family.

She was no stuffed lay figure of a Royal Princess. she cared passionately and worked hard about lifeboats (inexplicably a voluntary organization in Britain), about sick children, about old people rotting in hospitals, and about tennis. She was each year the real queen of the Wimbledon tournament.

TOUCHED WITH TRAGEDY

She was a busy woman, touched with tragedy, killed early at the age of 61 by an inoperable tumor on the brain. She was never quite a fully paid-up member of the British royal family, but she was also witty and beautiful and elegant without being arrogant. Because of her qualities, not because of her birth or titles, she was a pop figure in Britain.

And, by any standards, she was a great beauty, a great lady and a woman informed by love.

Freighter Has Woman Cook

TORONTO (CP) — With one eye on the barometer and the other on her menu, Margaret Jackson plies the waters between Toronto and the Lakehead during the shipping season as cook aboard the Fort Chambly, a Canada Steamship Lines freighter.

She cooks for 20 men, and most of them "could eat if the boat was standing on end."

From early in April until late December she turns out 60 meals a day from her spotless galley with the assistance of two helpers, both women.

When the weather is rough, the menu is cut, she said, but regardless of the weather, it has to be varied.

"They (the crew) get fed up with each other and with their surroundings, so they must get variety with their meals."

Favorites with the crew are "the same as everybody else's" — steak, chicken, chops and roast beef.

Miss Jackson has been plying the Lakes for 10 years, and although she describes her work as "just a job," she says it allows her to fly home to Glasgow annually for three months of "just visiting" when the Lakes shipping season is closed.

Victoria Guide Tells of Holiday Spent at Jubilee Camp in Barbados

By PAT DUFOUR

Nobody could blame 17-year-old Jane Oliver if she has a faraway look in her eyes when she enters Grade 12 at Victoria Senior Secondary School on Tuesday morning. It isn't every teen-ager that's able to spend two weeks in Barbados during the summer holidays.

Jane, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Robertson, 304 Robertson Street, was one of six Canadian Guides who attended a camp at Oistin Bay on the West Indian Island, held to commemorate the island's golden jubilee in Guiding. The only other Guide from British Columbia to attend the camp was another Vancouver Islander, 16-year-old Marion Christmas, a Land Ranger who lives at Duncan.

Jane was the most surprised Guide in Canada when she heard that she'd been selected to attend the camp. Her record hints at the reason she was chosen. A member of the First Victoria Cadet Company (cadets are those in training to become Guide leaders), Jane belonged to the Third Victoria Guide Company for five years and earned the highest award in Guiding, the coveted gold cords, in May, 1967.

Although her cadet company meets only once a month, Jane explains that each cadet assists the leaders of local Brownie packs and Guide companies at least once a week.

Jane has a kaleidoscope of memories to remind her of her two-week stay in Barbados, chief of which is the friendliness of the island's people. "They were wonderful ... they just couldn't do enough for us."

She's also come back with the impression that the island is as British as the British ... almost. "They love to play cricket, they drive on the wrong side of the road, and even the horses at the race track race around the course the wrong way!"

The last observation was gleaned when Jane was taken to the local horse races. She describes the racing enthusiasm as infectious. "Even tots of two were jumping up and down, saying 'Go horsie go!'"

Guides from 20 countries gathered at the camp, wearing a variety of uniforms. The most unusual, says Jane, were worn by the contingent from Curacao. "They looked like airline stewardesses, dressed in grey suits and wedge caps."

Once the camp was over, the Guides were billetted in homes for a week. Jane found herself living with a former Toronto couple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heal, and their daughter Wendi. Like any average teen-ager, Jane thoroughly enjoyed the sightseeing and shopping tours her hosts arranged for her. She's brought back a variety of straw articles and jewelry for her family.

Her hosts being Canadian, Jane had little opportunity to compare native dishes with those of Canada but she has come back with one favorite item. "My mouth waters when I think of the lemonade they serve there. Made with limes, it's delicious."

Jane has no doubts about the career she intends to pursue. "I'd like to have one year of university and then become a student nurse at the Royal Jubilee Hospital."

She has three sisters. Fifteen-year-old Nancy and Cathy, 13, are both members of their sister's old Guide Company.

Young Susan, who will be five next week, also intends to keep up the family interest in Guiding. She's quick to tell you, "You have to be a Brownie first."

And just in case, Susan is making a thorough study of the tourist pamphlets which Jane brought back with her. After all, you never know your luck!

Canadian Given British Award

LONDON (CP) — Dr. Sylvia Sikes, a research scientist in Canada, has been awarded $5,200 in a competition designed to select the best idea for an expedition from entries submitted by explorers around the world.

The competition, first of an annual series, was sponsored by The Guardian and by the London publishing firm of Eyre and Spottiswoode.

Dr. Sikes is a researcher with the Canadian wildlife service in Edmonton.

Competition judges were unanimous in selecting her for the current award.

The money will help finance implementation of her idea for an expedition to what are called the Floating Islands of Lake Chad, on the border between the African countries of Nigeria and Chad.

The Guardian, in announcing the competition result today, describes Dr. Sikes as a participant in rowing activities during her student days at Cambridge University.

She also "lists big-game hunting among her hobbies," the newspaper says.

"Dr. Sikes plans to set out next summer to survey the aquatic and semi-aquatic mammals and to live with and study the inhabitants of the Floating Islands of Lake Chad.

"She will be sending reports to The Guardian during her expedition and will later write a book about it."

There were 50 applicants for the $5,200, referred to as a bursary.

The Guardian says:

"Among the ideas were a traverse down the east coast of Greenland, an examination of Buddhist monasteries in southwest Tibet, spelaeological cave-dweller expeditions, a study of mammals in Madagascar, an expedition through the mountains of Persia, an ascent of the Nile from delta to source, a motorized crossing of the Sahara, a documentary about Swaziland, diving for sunken treasure, and research into migration of wild life."

To Give Luncheon

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. John R. Nicholson will give a luncheon in Government House on Saturday. The affair has been arranged to honor the Hon. Sir Leslie Scarman, Judge of the Probate, Divorce and Admiralty Division of the High Court of Justice in England, and Lady Scarman, and Maitre Michel Villard, membre du conscil de l'Ordre des Avocats a la Cour de Paris, and Mme. Villard.

Returning to England

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lee will return to England Tuesday after spending a six-week holiday at the Vantreight Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Rory Finegan. Mrs. Finegan is Mrs. Lee's sister. Mr. and Mr. Lee also visited Mrs. Lee's brother, Mr. James Askew, in North Vancouver, and made a trip to Portland, Ore.

Honor Bride-Elect

Mrs. G. Huot entertained at a shower Tuesday in her home at 1134 Harrison Street for bride-elect Miss Susan Toone. A corsage of white carnations was presented to the honor guest while Mrs. G. Campbell, mother of the groom-elect, received red carnations. The gifts were hung from the mantel and concealed by a chair. The hostess presented Miss Toone with a spice rack and each guest brought a different spice to fill it. Among those attending were Mrs. A. Maguire, Mrs. D. Orser, Mrs. B. Gibson, Mrs. K. Hedenstrom, Mrs. C. Fisher, Mrs Meredith Wingate, Mrs. M. Lantz, Mrs. C. Tranton, Mrs. A. Wright, Mrs. L. Johaneson, Miss Marily Milley and Mrs. S. Greenwood. Mrs. A. W. Toone, the mother of the bride-to-be, arrived home from Europe on Wednesday.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

Show me a problem skin and in nine cases out of 10 I'll show you that imprudent health habits may well be the cause.

As Buddha would have philosophized in his cause and effect reasoning, violations of proper health habits during adolescence are cumulative and result in unhappy complexions. Although glandular changes trigger the problem, indiscretions, particularly careless eating, aggravate and acclerate the condition.

This was graphically illustrated recently when I happened into a teen-age haunt for a bracing cup of tea during an out-of-town trip. Several teens sat next to me for what was undoubtedly a typical midnight snack. Some snack! Seemingly dozens of hamburgers ensconced in big soft doughy buns, smothered in ketchup, mustard and fried onion (plus French fried potatoes on the side) disappeared in short order, as did gigantic bowls of spicy chili — all washed down with huge cokes, followed by chocolate cream pie, chocoate layer cake or hot fudge sundaes for dessert. These young complexions were univerally blemished ... perhaps they were drowning their sorrows in oodles of tasty, terrible food!

I silently wished I could pass on a little food-for-thought since a proper diet, coupled with several other equally important elements, will definitely improve any troubled complexion. If you're truly serious about solving your skin problems, get on the bandwagon and abide by these unbreakable rules:

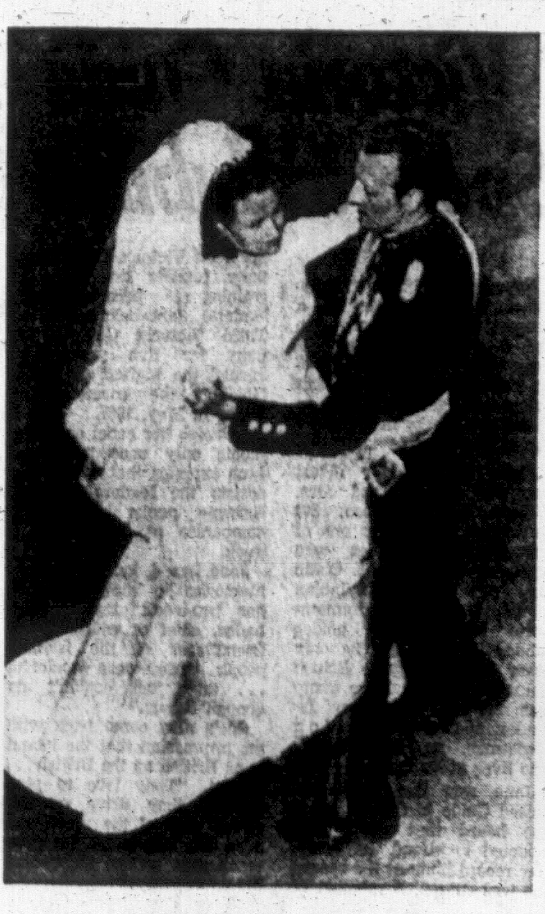
1. GOOD NUTRITION IS NECESSARY: Beware of greasy, spicy, white sugar, white flour or high carbohydrate foods, Regard as enemies fried food, chocolate nuts, ice cream delights, fatty meats, pork products, olives, shellfish, iodized salt. Put your money on fresh fruit (other than bananas), green leafy vegetables, lean meat and poultry, fresh water fish, skim milk and skim milk products. At least eight glasses of water daily between meals are always vital and healthful for proper elimination.

2. REST IS REQUIRED: Not enough sleep leads to tension and tension shows up in additional breakouts. Not just noticeable acne but those blind bumps which never come to the surface yet do their disfiguring work nonetheless behind the scenes. Get enough sleep for the sake of your face — the hours before midnight are the best.

3. EXERCISE IS ESSENTIAL: Exercise in the fresh air is invaluable for stimulating your circulation, which helps carry off impurities. An added fresh air plus: Sunshine provides Vitamins A and D, nature's healers.

4. CLEANSING IS CRUCIAL: Your skin must be absolutely clean even if it means washing your face several times a day, with emphasis on an ultra-clean scalp, too. After washing, restore the PH balance by sponging with a solution of one teaspoon of cider vinegar added to a basin of rinse water. At night, cap your cleansing with a bedtime application of calomine plus 5 per cent phenol lotion.

JUST FOR YOU: Two other indispensable rules to rembember, whatever course of treatment you follow are: HANDS OFF blemishes and make it a point never to use anyone else's personal soap.



WEDDING WALTZ

Looking like the principals out of a fairy tale, Norwegian Crown Prince Harald and his bride, the former Sonja Haraldsen, have the floor to themselves for the bridal waltz which opened their wedding ball in the Royal Castle in Oslo on Thursday evening. The marriage ceremony was held in the castle earlier in the day. (AP Wirephoto via cable from Oslo.)

They Waited Ten Years

OSLO (UPI) — The royal yacht Norge slipped from its Oslo fjord buoys today and insiders said it carried Crown Prince Harald of Norway and his bride to a Mediterranean honeymoon.

For 10 years, the government of Premier Einar Gerhardsen had vetoed Harald's wish to marry the brunette daughter of an Oslo clothier. Then the Social Democrat party was voted out of office and the engagement announced.

Official Norway made it clear the 63-year-old monarchy will depend on the ability of the future king and queen to win a place in the hearts of their countrymen.

It appeared they already had. Thousands of Norwegians gathered outside the palace during the wedding ball chanting "Harald, Harald, come outside. We will see you with your bride."

SEW SIMPLE

Substitute Lace for Georgette

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I have read your column and know how you try to help us solve our problems. Now I have a special favor to ask of you. I am making my own wedding dress and bridesmaids' dresses. The dresses are made of a combination taffeta and georgette. The sleeves of the dress I am copying are made of sheer, very close pleating. I have even seen this fabric used in formals, but when I try to purchase some, it is impossible to find. Please give me any helpful suggestions.—Miss G. B.

Dear Miss G. B.:

Unfortunately, there are times when we can't copy details used by designers and manufacturers. The kind of trimming you are referring to has been done for the manufacturer by a company that specializes in this particular detail. It is ordinarily never done in over-the-counter fabric.

If you live in a city that is fairly large, there is a chance you may find a listing for a "pleating company." They have special equipment and can do this kind of pleating on your fabric. If not, I would suggest you substitute by using sheer lace sleeves or the georgette without the pleats. The cuffs could be finished by using many tiny round buttons and loop buttonholes to add interest without the pleating.

Expo Lives at Drapeau's Fair

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Terre des Hommes! Man and his World!

To those who visited Expo 67 this name will not evoke too much interest. But to others like myself, who could not go to Montreal in 1967 and who have been there this year, it will always stand for something extra special in the way of spectacular entertainment coupled with a sincere effort to educate as well as entertain.

Forbes

As every Canadian must know Terre des Hommes was born with Expo 67. When the last named was over, Man and His World did not wish to come to an end.

Montreal and its dynamic Mayor Jean Drapeau accepted the challenge. With the result that many of last year's buildings remain and with them a number of new and exciting innovations that add color and interest.

This year's project is concentrated on two only of Expo's islands — Ile Notre-Dame and Ile Sainte-Helene. La Ronde is jumping and jiving just as it did in 1967. Minirail, express, trailer trains and pedi-cabs are all in motion and the metro spews up its share of sightseers by the minute on Ile Notre-Dame.

As popular this year as last as Walt Disney's wrap-around view of Canada. Presented in a round theatre (the Bell Telephone pavilion in 1967) this film gives you the feeling of being right in the centre of the action. It leaves you emotionally stirred and as a friend of mine suggested, "feeling nine feet, tall and filled with pride at being a Canadian."

* * *

The People of Canada tree is still drawing a full share of visitors. The spectacular Iranian building with its blue Persian tile facade and its Persian garden is still there. Also Thailand's Buddhist shrine with its vivid colorings, its intricate carvings and its replica of the Royal Barge.

Burma, Japan, Ethiopia, Mexico and West Germany will be remembered by last year's visitors. With Israel, Morocco, Algeria, the United Arab Republic, Korea and a host of others.

Western Canada's building still stands but there is nothing set up inside. A helicopter pad is on the site of the Russian pavilion. An attractive garden marks the spot where the Czechoslovakia building stood. Canada's Katamavik is now a memorial exhibit to Expo 67.

An outstanding change is found in the biosphere (last year's United States geodesic bubble). In this setting you now find a park with semi-exotic and renaissance-style gardens and a large aviary of more than 600 birds.

DRAPEAU
. . . new vision

* * *

A building near the Place des Nations (someone said the former Australian Pavilion) is now called the Humor Pavilion. Here you can spend a fun-filled hour (or more) looking at outstanding cartoons from around the world, caricatures of people, animated films or in a museum that traces the evolution of humor from the beginning until today.

Art is featured in the French pavilion on Ile Notre-Dame, adjourning the music belfry and Cars of Yesterday. The history of postal stamps is presented in a pavilion near the Indians of Canada. Adjourning the Flight Pavilion is the story of railways and a replica of the first Canadian Pacific locomotive.

Ireland is a new participant this year. This pavilion features a reproduction of Dublin's famous Abby tavern as well as the contribution Irish men and women have made to Canada.

Main difference between Expo 67 and Terre des Hommes, according to those who have visited both, is the leisurely pace of the present showing. Line-ups are fewer and not nearly as long. People move slowly. They take more time to look and remember.

With this new pace some of the excitement has gone, especially for those who visited the site in 1967.

To me, however, and to thousands like me, Ile Notre-Dame and Ile Sainte-Helene are still a never ending source of excitement, of color and of beauty.

Terre des Hommes is well worth visiting. In Mayor Drapeau's own words "it is a voyage to the land of the spirit . . . as long as one adds the words . . . and of the heart."

I doubt if anyone could spend time on these islands and not agree with this statement.

NO DOGS OR MEXICANS SIGNS USED TO READ

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—In the recent past, some Texas restaurants put up signs that read: "No dogs or Mexicans allowed."

Things have changed. "Now," says Angela Castrejon, restaurant cashier in El Paso, Tex., "we are allowed in as waitresses and dishwashers."

An exaggeration of existing conditions, this view reflects a measure of the bitterness and frustration helping nourish a relatively new civil rights militancy among the 4,500,000 Americans with Spanish surnames.

A byproduct of Negro civil rights agitation, the new movement still lacks precise form and central organization. But what is of social and political significance are the first hard signs of unity at all levels, from chili picker to doctor, dentist, priest.

Cradle of the new militancy is the United States southwest, lusty 19th century frontier, fountainhead of vast modern fortunes in cattle and oil. But to the impoverished Mexican-Americans of Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Colorado and California, the vast area could qualify for U.S. foreign aid—if it were a foreign country.

Of this five-state area, Texas, one of the richest states in the U.S., has the most backward Mexican-American population. Fifty-two per cent of the Spanish-surnamed population has been classified as "functionally illiterate," a term applied by sociologists to those who have not completed four years of schooling. Twenty per cent of persons over 25 years of age in this same ethnic category have not completed more than one year of schooling.

The living conditions of the Spanish-surnamed population in the Southwest and other areas aroused protest movements shortly after the Second World War. Deprived of incentive by a post-war boom that left little to protest about, they withered and lay dormant for more than a decade before surfacing anew in the early 1960s.

DEMAND EQUALITY

Affluent businessmen, professionals, college students, migrant laborers, white- and blue-collar workers make up the ranks of the new militants. They come from an ethnic group whose ancestors were irrigating lands in what now is New Mexico before the first pilgrims from the Old World reached Plymouth Rock.

Striving for the kind of unity that will provide the most effective political pressures at state and national level, they are demanding first of all an end to what they feel are discriminatory practices in classrooms and jobs. They regard these as the main causes of backwardness among Americans of Spanish surnames.

Some leaders despair of ever achieving national unity because of the diversity of issues confronting the various groups regionally. The availability of substantial federal and private funds has encouraged a real effort at unity, but many feel this may be the source of serious discord among groups with different views on militancy.

At the moment the scene is one of apparent passivity, but there are signs of ill-concealed hostility among Anglo-Americans toward Mexican-Americans in areas of extremist militancy.

There's also deep concern among the more conservative Mexican-Americans that extremist agitation may result in unpleasant reactions.

The Mexican-American movement is about where the Negro militancy was at the time of the Selma, Ala., march in 1964, says lawyer Albert A. Pena Jr., Behar man was telling the American people something, but they (San Antonio, Tex.) County commissioner.

"At that time, the black weren't listening and didn't act, the extremists moved in. I think that's the point at which we stand now."

HOME GARDEN

Threat of Frost Looms

By HILDA BEASTALL

With September around the very next corner, the home gardener must realize frost becomes more than a threat during the coming month. The first frosts in the Victoria area usually miss higher locations and those bordering salt water, but damage may be done to late summer plants in lower lying gardens.

Hilda

Any light protection provided in time, will pay dividends in satisfaction of harvesting a crop at maturity.

It is a peculier fact that we often enjoy a long frost-free period of excellent fall weather after the first nip, making it well worth the trouble of preparing some temporary protection.

In the case of squash, marrow, tomatoes, peppers and similar vegetables, light coverings of old curtains or sacking may be used. Have these ready for use in a hurry on some moonlight evening when you suddenly are aware that frost is in the air. Or it may be an early morning when you awaken to see it settling around the edges of house roofs.

Sometimes crops can be saved by spraying with the garden hose for 45 minutes when frost starts appearing before sunrise. This is cold work, but we have done it and I can still recall the glow of satisfaction which was not wholly due to the hot coffee which had been put on beforehand.

Keep beans, both tall and dwarf varieties, picked and used since they are quickly susceptible to the slightest touch of frost.

Another precaution necessary before frost is to have sufficient storage space prepared for receiving anything which must be brought indoors hurriedly.

A coldframe is fine for storing roots of perennials not quite hardy in your locality.

See that frame covers are intact and ready for use. In fact, this weekend go over the whole greenhouse to be sure that it is weatherproof before the bad weather sets in.

The wise home gardener is prepared for any eventuality and therefore suffers little from loss of plants, crops, or sleep.

YOUR HEALTH

Two Main Types Of Anemia

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A number of people have written to ask what the doctor meant when he spoke to them of their having a certain type of anemia.

Alvares

There are several types of anemia, but the two most important divisions are secondary and primary. A secondary anemia is one that is due to the loss of blood from some part of the body. The commonest form is that of the woman who "floods" so much each month that in 20 days or so her liver and bone marrow cannot build back all the blood she has lost. Or a person with bleeding hemorrhoids may become anemic. Rarely a person with a bleeding stomach ulcer will become anemic.

A severe anemia in a person past 40 must be well-studied as soon as it is found, because it could be due to a cancer of the stomach or the cecum (a section of the large bowel). Often a severe anemia, with only half a person's hemoglobin (red coloring matter of the blood) left, will not produce any symptoms.

* * *

I have told here before the story of a physician who one holiday at a picnic cut his finger while opening a can. Looking at the bleeding wound, he said, "That is the thinnest blood I ever saw." So next day he went to the laboratory, and sure enough, he had less than half of the normal amount of hemoglobin. Then he knew he must have a cancer in his cecum, and next day, that is what the X-ray man found. Two days later a surgeon removed it, and my friend has been well ever since.

Many a time, when a patient with a severe secondary anemia has asked me for some Vitamin B12, I have had to say, "No; in the first place, one gives iron for a secondary anemia, and not B12; and secondly, to treat you with medicine and not an operation to put a stop to your great loss of blood, is like trying to fill your bathtub with water while you leave the plug out."

The best known of the primary anemias is the so-called pernicious anemia, which is a hereditary and life-long disease. Often with one glance at a stained blood smear on a glass silde, or a glance at the figures for the red blood count and the hemoglobin, a physician knows what kind of anemia the person has, and what the treatment should be. Years ago, the people with pernicious anemia used to die, but today they do not die, because they can be kept alive with an occasional tiny dose of vitamin B12.

* * *

People ask me what can be done for cancer of the tongue. I just read a hopeful paper by Drs. Isadore Lampe and J. V. Fayos of the University of Michigan, who say that especially with modern high voltage radiation, about half of the patients, and even those who waited much too long can be helped. With smaller cancers and the new high voltage rays even 8 out of 10 persons can be greatly helped.

Anyone who gets a sore on the tongue which does not quickly heal and stay healed should hurry to an able X-ray man. Death from cancer of the lung is far from pleasant.

One way in which harmful insects may be controlled is by introducing parasites which attack and kill them. One example of this is the wasp-like Holocremnus which has been used successfully in parts of Manitoba to kill over 90 per cent of deadly larch sawflies attacking tamarack trees.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Cheryl Hayward, age 9, of Honeoye Falls, New York, for her question:

How did the xebra get his name?

This handsome fellow would look just fine among the gaily-colored horses on a carousel. But this would never do. The carousel horses are painted wood and the zebra is very much alive. That frisky fellow refuses to be ordered around and around.

The zebra's home is in Africa and the people who live there gave him his name long ages ago. They have forgotten who named him and how long he has been called a zebra. They have forgotten also what his name was supposed to mean. Word experts have tried to trace back the story and find out—but nobody has found the answer. The word experts, however, have discovered which African language supplied his name.

Africa is a whopping big continent of many different lands inhabited by many different peoples. Egypt, Lybia and Algeria are along the facing the Mediterranean Sea. These countries are very, very old and we know a lot about their ancient history. In the past, these people did not know much about the Africans who lived far down in the south. This is because nature created a wide barrier that stretches almost all the way across the centre of Africa. It is the vast, sandy Sahara desert. In olden days, very few travelers crossed the desert to visit the southlands.

But in Bible days, there was a well-known country south of Egypt. It was called the Land of Sheba and long ago its queen paid a stately visit to King David of Israel. Later this land was called Abyssinia. The ancient Greeks called it Ethiopia, meaning the "land of the people with sunburned faces." It is a lovely land of peaks and wood hills, deep lush valleys and stretches of sunny desert.

Roams Free

The scattered people of Ethiopia use about 40 different languages and many of them know English. Of course, they need one special language of their own so that all of them can understand each other. And they have one. This official language of Ethiopia is called Amharic. It is a lot like the language used in Bible Days by King David. The zebra was given an Amharic name, maybe long before this time. At any rate, it was too long ago for anyone to figure out what his name meant.

Parts of Ethiopia are still wide-open places where African animals roam free. There are lions and leopards, skyscraper giraffes and even herds of wild elephants. And there are herds of wild zebras. As you know, those frisky little horses are very attractive, and they were in ancient days, too. Naturally they had to be given a name and the people of Ethiopia called them zebras — but nobody knows why.

Herds of handsome zebras still gallop around Africa in parts of Ethiopia and far south of the big, sandy desert. But there were many more of them in ancient days. There are donkey-sized horses with stiff, short manes, frisky hooves and stringy tails. And as everybody knows, they wear eye-catching coats of dark and light stripes. Experts tell us that their ancestors had just a few dark stripes on their light buff coats. So the zebra is basically a light animal with dark stripes.

* * *

And sends a Word Book Atlas to Marilyn McMahon, age 10, of Peterboro, Ont., for her question:

Why do frogs croak?

Nature's animals sound off with a zillion different voices. But one of the first of them to have any voice at all was the frog. This was many millions of years ago, when the amphibian ancestors of the toads and frogs were the most important animals on earth. The frogs of those ancient days took in gobs of air and let it out to sound off, just as they do to this day. But there was nobody around to translate what they had to say. And after all this time, we still are unable to translate the croaks of our frogs or the various notes and chirps of the frog-and-toad glee club.

Modern experts tell us that the croaks of a frog can be understood by other frogs. They suspect that bull frogs croak serenades to impress lady frogs. Andy suspects that they also croak just for the fun of hearing their own voices. And if you have a tame or half-tame frog in your garden, he may do what Andy's pet frog does, croak a husky "Hello" when you go near him.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Today's hand was played somewhere in New Jersey and reported by Dick Budd in the Declarer, the bulletin of the New Jersey Bridge League. South's three-heart call was highly competitive but he played the dummy like an overbidder should and made his contract.

Opening lead—♦ Q

Diamonds were opened and continued. South ruffed the second and lost a spade finesse. A third diamond was ruffed also and South led a low trump in order to retain trump control. West rose with the queen and led his last diamond to force South to ruff the third time. South cashed his ace of trumps and led a spade to dummy's ace. Then he made the unusual play of dummy's last trump to throw East in lead. East got out with his last spade and South was finally down to the problem which had worried him from trick one. Where was the queen of clubs?

It had worried South at trick one but it wasn't worrying him now. East had already shown up with 14 high card points and a balanced hand for his opening bid. If he also held the queen of clubs, he would have held a perfect 16 point no-trump and East was not a man to miss the chance to bid no-trump.

As a further check on the situation West had shown two queens and a jack for his spade bid. Even another queen wouldn't give him much of a hand but without that queen it was very doubtful that he would have opened his mouth at all.

Therefore South played his king of clubs and led a low club. He would have finessed if necessary but West produced the queen and saved South the bother.

WONDERFUL WORKING CONDITIONS FOR MAN AND WIFE
IN FAST-GROWING AREA
Exciting Business

This is one of Victoria's cleanest retail outlets. Just over three years old, it is in a very distinctive shopping centre. With good management, it is possible to make about $9-$10,000 this year in profit and wages with one partner only working full time. Hours are from 9-6 p.m. daily and Friday til 9 p.m. Closed Sundays and holidays. It is just like operating a nice drug store but without a dispensary. The volume is growing about 20 per cent a year but expenses remain very constant. All the growing pains are gone!! The owners reluctantly must go to their family in Vancouver. Asking only $9,500 for business and fixtures on an audited statement plus stock of about $21,000. We will gladly arrange the trade of any property or business you may wish to use for dollars. Call CROWN, and ask for F. WILLS, Crown Realty, G. D. Peaker Holdings Ltd., 1405 Douglas St.

SECLUDED CHARMING DIFFERENT QUAINT

Many years ago there was a man who wanted to build something different. The only way that he could satisfy this urge was by building a house that is different and that is how it happened that this house was built.
A garden lover, he designed a towering glass penthouse that one enters from a spiral stairway that originates in the centre of the entrance hall. Can you imagine such a thing? Then there is the semi-circular living room and the little artist's studio with en suite plumbing.
Definitely not suitable for a conformist. But if you are a real individualist, then call Don Bacon, 385-2458. Price $28,900.

A KING'S RANSOM Worth Every Penny

You will agree with this gorgeous 3 or 4-bedroom, 1600 sq. ft. gem. Did you say 1600 sq. ft.? THAT'S RIGHT, 1600 sq. ft. and different too. BRIGHT, roomy dining room with sliding glass doors to one of two sundecks. DE LUXE kitchen with built-in oven and range, cupboards galore, lots of extras, doorway to other sundeck. GRACIOUS living room, wall-to-wall carpet, more sliding glass doors to the huge sundeck. 2 bathrooms on main and third in full high basement with 4th bedroom or den with fireplace. All kinds of room for development. I should mention that the upstairs is so planned that there is a dandy in-law suite layout with separate entrance. Now surround this immaculate home with circular drive, almost a ½ acre of parklike grounds, room for boats, trailers etc. and you won't believe the asking price is only $33,500. Clear title so we can really offer terms to suit, also QUICK POSSESSION. Call 385-8731 and HURRY.

. . . WORK

"We have individuals who came from welfare to winter works to permanent employment in the municipality and they are good men. The program has been most useful in park work, in rehabilitation of certain areas and in various parts of the construction field—road and building, drainage ditches, creek clearance."

There will be a higher direct cost to local taxpayers to have this work done without winter works cost sharing by the senior governments.

He said winter works was a "magnificent" program and it was "basically right to do work and provide jobs."

The shared program last winter created 198,570 man days of work on B.C. projects worth a total of $14.8 million.

The dollar value of the projects included a payroll of $5.1 million of which the federal government provided $2.5 million in grants and B.C. $583,000. The balance came from municipalities.

Mayor Wing said he doubts it will cause a great deal of disruption because most municipalities have been hesitant this year in planning projects in the absence of an assurance the program would continue.

CONFERENCE

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said at the provincial ministers conference in Edmonton last month there was a joint request by all provinces that any decision be held over until the provincial premiers meet the federal government at a forthcoming fiscal conference.

"That was a reasonable request and I don't think the federal action is indicative of co-operative federalism," he said.

"I can only say I view this decision by the federal government with alarm and complete wonderment."

He also criticized the timing of the announcement as unnecessarily disruptive because it was made so late they leave municipal projects in jeopardy.

Oak Bay Mayor Hawes said it is "most unfortunate" the announcement came only two months before the year's program was to start.

PLANNED WORK

The municipality has winter works valued at $185,070 planned including roads, sidewalks, boulevards and parks.

Esquimalt Mayor Bryant said last year the UBCM conference was advised municipalities could not expect winter works to continue indefinitely.

The cancellation was "unfortunate from a local point of view. It was of great benefit to the municipality."

The federal subsidy last year cost about $48 million, it was reported in Ottawa.

Mr. Trudeau said the amount of useful and constructive work available to be carried out has been decreasing.

The tendency for the program to involve "make work" activities always created problems and it has proven increasingly difficult to control this feature of the program.

Assassination Probe

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—Police today questioned three men in connection with the daylight assassination of U.S. Ambassador John Gordon Mein two days ago.

MP Makes Bid To Preserve Old Garrison

Victoria MP David Groos today called Ottawa to investigate the possibility of saving the old brick garrison buildings on Signal Hill.

Mr. Groos said he would consult David Anderson, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

News that the historic buildings are to be demolished did not reach Mr. Groos until he returned from the country late Thursday.

He said he would do all possible to investigate the situation.

Donald I. Lewis, a principal of D. and B., said he would be glad to talk to anyone interested in "buying the buildings complete, in order to save them."

"I appreciate things of historical interest, too," he said.

Mr. Lewis said he already has orders for almost every part of the buildings. But he is arranging for his firm to donate one of the small fireplaces to the B.C. Maritime Museum.

The museum was housed in the old garrison buildings until it moved to new quarters in 1965.

The surf rolls in at Long Beach.

Neither Rain Nor Wind Dims Its Beauty

By TERRANCE RITCHIE

UCLUELET — Even with a solid overcast and intermittent showers sweeping in off the Pacific, Long Beach pulls the visitor from his shelter.

Waves rolling in along a twelve-mile stretch of sand cannot be eclipsed by clouds. And the spectacle of waves surging off the open ocean, curling and breaking to meet land for the first time in some 4,000 miles is made more powerful whipped by winds and swelling tides.

It's a world for the surfer—and the surf-watcher.

That's why families walk, unprtected, along the edge of the tide—even in showers. That's why they come from Florida and California and Washington, from Alberta and Quebec and Ontario, dragging their supplies and tents or campers over the last 43 miles of rugged, twisting, climbing, potholed road.

The east coast of Vancouver Island is far more accessible, and the water is a great deal warmer—at least, it is warm enough for swimming, a claim no one makes for Long Beach. But no eastern beach compares in attraction.

PRIMEVAL CALL?

Darwin said that man originally came from the seas. He has been returning ever since, scientists say, perhaps to answer some primeval call deep within him.

Long Beach presents the sea in all its powerful beauty. Moreover, like the villages of Ucluelet and Tofino that sandwich it, it is virtually isolated. Freighters call occasionally; the mail boat "Lady Rose" runs out from Port Alberni and back three times a week; and trucks and buses make daily runs.

But still the mountains and hills of the Mackenzie range and the rough road over them cut the area off from the rest of the province—from "civilization"—and the exaggerated stories of how bad the road is discourages most people from ever attempting the trip.

It is one of the few perfect places to get away from it all.

LOOSE MISTS

Loose-hung with mists, the secluding mountains, jagged and primitive, are themselves beautiful. And they leave the twin, small fishing vilages on the Estevan plane to face only the yawning Pacific.

They are picturesque little villages, even though they don't—and cannot—pretend to be quaint: They are getting to be too modern for that.

They are quiet villages. Which is also deceptive, since most of their activity is down by the water where some three dozen trollers may be moored, and boats refuelling or unloading constantly.

Exclusion out there is not a novelty to the inhabitants; it is an everyday fact. That Pacific for all its splendor, and however populated with fishes and boats, must seem just a bit too empty at times.

"When you live here," said Larry Lowry, 20, of Nanaimo, who "lived here" in Tofino three years, "You learn to make your own fun. . . ."

"Most of the young guys I knew here have left—gone away to college or joined the navy."

Rain splashes down around us, and a car crammed with teen-agers wanders by again and again.

Just down the street about two dozen people sit in a cafe and eat—most of them just drinking coffee. "That's where you'll find most of the kids," he says. "There's not much else to do."

Frisky Killer Whale Outwitting Fishermen

SECHELT (CP) — A cat and mouse game is going on at Porpoise Bay, 35 miles north of Vancouver but the participants are wary fishermen and a frisky killer whale.

Star of the drama is Skookum Cecil the four-ton killer whale owned by the Vancouver Aquarium, who escaped his net pond Monday at Pender Harbor, 50 miles north of Vancouver, after four months of captivity.

He was seen here Tuesday and has been chased by fishermen ever since, but their hopes that the majestic mammal can be recaptured are growing slimmer as Cecil grows accustomed to his old environment.

Three fishboats took part in the game Thursday. Time after time the fishermen thought they had him cornered and lowered their nets only to see him poke his head out of the water 1,000 feet away.

11 FATHOMS

The fishermen said the depth of the bay reaches 11 fathoms, leaving the whale plenty of room to slip beneath their nets.

"It could be caught all right if somebody had put up the money," said one of the fishermen. "Take four herring seiners with 10 guys in each and you'd catch him. It's just a question of expense."

Aquarium officials said the chances of recapturing Cecil are not as good as they would have been if one of the other whales penned at Pender Harbor had escaped.

They said Cecil was as tame as the others but not as highly trained and does not respond to signals as the others do. In non-technical talk, he's kind of dumb—dumb like a fox.

Breakwater Asked —For Third Time

CHEMAINUS — The Chamber of Commerce has sent a brief to Ottawa asking for a two-wing breakwater in the harbor.

The chamber has previously made unsuccessful applications to the Diefenbaker and Pearson governments.

The new brief proposes a breakwater running north from Maple street for approximately 600 feet with the second wing running east from the end of the first. The length of the second wing would be approximately 1,000 feet.

Copies of the brief have been sent to transport minister Paul Hellyer and Public Works Minister Arthur Laing.

The brief containing 15 pages of evidence argument maps and letter of endorsement represents the work of many months by the committe of the Chamber.

Chamber president Mrs. Betty Deacon said Thursday that space would be provided within the right-angled breakwater for the government wharf.

She said, "The government wharf would be moved from its present crowded location.

Space will also be provided for a boat launching ramp and a marina.

Mrs. Deacon said the chamber has indications that private operators would be willing to construct a marina. Main point of the brief is that shelter is needed for the portion of Chemainus harbor which is already used. The proposed breakwater would not only provide this shelter but greatly enlarge the area of sheltered water.

ISLAND COWS IN TOP SIX

The lists of average production of Jersey herds in Canada just issued by the Jersey Cattle Club show that of the top six herds in the country, five are in B.C. and three of these are on Vancouver Island.

Those with over 280 per cent of breed class average for milk and butterfat combined were R. A. Anerlini, Aldergrove, B.C. 322 per cent with 21 completed records; University of B.C., Vancouver, 312 per cent on six records; J. A. Wright, Saanichton, 302 per cent on 34 records; Wick Bros., Grand Valley, Ont., 286 per cent on 102 records; P. B. Hoole and Sons, Victoria, B.C. 286 per cent on 18 records; and Koksilah Farms Ltd., Koksilah, B.C., 283 per cent on 23 records.

Other Vancouver Island herds over 260 per cent were T. R. Youell and Sons, Victoria; R. L. Mutrie, Saanichton; and A. W. Aylard and Sons, Sidney.

$25,000 Airplane Sinks Into Ocean

POWELL RIVER (CP) — A pilot and three passengers escaped unhurt Thursday when a wheel-equipped light plane made an emergency landing in Georgia Strait, about one mile offshore from here.

Pilot Ken Chattell of Powell River Airlines and his passengers were rescued by a fishing boat.

Officials said the twin-engined Apache aircraft had engine trouble shortly before it hit the water.

The $25,000 plane, which was bound for Texada Island, sank soon after its occupants escaped.

COURTENAY — The Comox Valley fair opened this afternoon after judging of exhibits, for the 77th time.

Highlights of the fair are a rodeo and a three-hour loggers' sports program Sunday.

The rodeo—under rules of the Interior Amateur Rodeo Association—will allow competitors to ride for points towards the British Columbia championships. It will also run Monday.

The logging program will include tree climbing and the British Columbia axe-throwing championships. It starts at 3 p.m.

Today and Saturday the fair is running the largest horse show to be held north of Victoria.

Other events include a battle of local rock and roll bands each night, competing for an appearance on a television show, a baby show and 4-H exhibits.

DUNCAN — World champion cutting horse "Pepie Sam" from the Douglas Lake cattle ranch in Alberta will be on display here tonight.

Ridden either by owner Chunky Woodward or ranch hand Dave Batty, the cutting champion will take part in this district's first cutting horse contests.

The contests are scheduled for the Cowichan exhibition grounds at 6 p.m.

Dave Batty is the son of Duncan truck driver and driving riding enthusiast Bob Batty, who is organizing tonight's event.

Mr. Batty was responsible for the recent formation of the Cowichan Cutting Horse Association. He says the association has horses entered from Alberta, the United States and B.C.

Chairman Defends Rule Against Press

COURTENAY — Though they may be excluded at any time, press reporters have wider privileges at school board than in the past.

School Board chairman T. G. Ryan made the above statement in a defence this week of the board's right to exclude the press from meetings of the committee of the whole.

The situation arose when former trustee Mrs. Muriel Pedersen moved to allow press members to the meetings. The move was passed.

The following week the draft of a procedural bylaw was proposed by Mr. Ryan, reversing the board's original decision.

After several weeks discussion the bylaw was approved. Mrs. Pederson subsequently resigned.

In his statment, Mr. Ryan charged the press with presenting a "continual series" of pronouncements apparently aimed at "discrediting" members of the board of trustees.

He termed Mrs. Pederson's resignation "regretable" but said there were times during which it is "imperative" members be allowed to deliberate "free from the restrictive influence of an attentive press."

Police Seek Vandals As Signs Disappear

COURTENAY — Worried police and highways department officials here are facing an epidemic of wandering road signs.

R. G. Mulcaster, district highway engineer, said this week fifty highway signs have been moved in the area between Kelsey Bay and Roberts Lake during a one-week period. He said they had been moved, post and all, to the centre line of the highway.

As the disease spread eight signs disappeared from the highway between Oyster River and Courtenay. They were later found in the water near Union Bay wharf.

Crown Zellerbach office in Courtenay reported the company has also had trouble with signs. Theirs had been removed and thrown into a ditch.

Courtenay RCMP have asked the public for help in locating the culprits. Names of informants will be kept confidential if desired.

Police have also received complaints from the fire department about motorists following fire trucks too closely. Police warn vehicles not to follow fire apparatus closer than 500 feet or park within 500 feet of an engine on the same highway when it is answering an alarm.

'No One Safe:' Cernik

PRAGUE (AP) — Premier Oldrich Cernik today warned Czechoslovakia's intellectuals to "get out while they can."

The premier told a private briefing he could not vouch for his own safety let alone the safety of the thousands who backed the country's liberalization program.

He was quoted by Reuters news agency as saying that Soviet occupation commanders threatened to take over the country "with brutal force if necessary."

It was not immediately clear whether this was a new threat or one made during the first days of the occupation. However, similar threats were made to Czechoslovak leaders during their gruelling four days of talks with the Kremlin's leaders in Moscow.

Cernik called on the officials to "go away and urge the best brains of the country to get out while they can."

He said the Russians compiled a list of thousands of names of people to be picked up and transported from the country.

Cernik was asked at the meeting about the personal safety of members of the state government and party.

He replied: "No one now can guarantee this. I am not sure of my own safety."

Canada earlier this week brought a resolution before the UN Security Council calling on Secretary-General U Thant to send a representative to Czechoslovakia to seek the safety and release of detained officials. But Czechoslovakia asked that the council stop all debate on the crisis after the signing of agreements with Moscow on the Czech capitulation.

CERNIK WAS ARRESTED

The premier was one of the leaders of the Czechoslovak government who were arrested on the first day of the invasion and later flown to Moscow for negotiations with the Kremlin.

The negotiations were reported to be gruelling. The Russians threatened to divide Czechoslovakia, placing the Czech area under military rule and making Slovakia part of the Soviet Union.

Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda resisted this plan and refused to negotiate until Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek, Cernik and other government leaders were present in the talks. They were then brought under military guard to Moscow.

Czechoslovak sources said Cernik disclosed more details about pressures to which the Prague leaders were subjected after the occupation when they were taken to Moscow.

They were told nothing about the situation in Czecsoslovakia. The first time they heard that people were killed was at Prague airport when they returned earlier this week.

There was no physical violence agains the Czechoslovaks in Moscow itself. Svoboda displayed great courage at the Moscow negotiations and it was he who saved the country from utter disaster.

At one point during the talks the Russians said that they would destroy the country if need be, and they were entitled to occupy it up to the Western border.

SPARK THAT IGNITED tears and singing at Democratic national convention was film tribute to assassinated Sen. Robert Kennedy introduced by closed circuit TV by his widow, Ethel, and brother Edward.

Tribute to R. Kennedy Becomes Battle Hymn

Times Washington Bureau

CHICAGO — There had to be a moment during the sad and miserable national convention of the Democratic Party when the emotions seething below its surface — and often bubbling above it — would be given a brief free rein.

It came unexpectedly Thursday evening at the end of a showing to the convention of a powerful film of tribute the the late Sen Robert Kennedy.

Delegates, many of whom were crying openly by the time the film ended. Burst into extended applause and chanting in the name of their dead hero, and then into the noblest of American songs of arousal, The Battle Hymn of the Republic.

The spontaneous demonstration proved unstoppable despite the efforts of the convention's inneffectual chairman, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma.

It soon became evident that it was something more than an expression of tribute. The demonstration became a gesture of defiance against the whole party establishment epitomized by Rep. Albert and represented here by such outmoded party factotums as Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago and Gov. John Connally of Texas.

Those who represented what the dead senator stood for — the Kennedy constituency, as it was called during his last days, the constituency of the political, social and economic have-nots in American society—were on their feet singing and clapping and they stayed on their feet.

They were making noise in opposition to the old forces which, probably for the last time, dominated this convention: and the two leading representatives of the old forces showed that they knew what was happening. Only the delegations of Illionois and Texas sat in stony silence as the Kennedy tribute moved into its second phase.

Muskie May Quiet Anti-War Critics

By RICHARD S. LYONS
The Washington Post

CHICAGO — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey's choice, was nominated for vice-president by the Democratic national convention Thursday night, despite a final symbolic effort by peace delegates to put up Negro Julian Bond.

Bond, who promptly withdrew because at 28 he falls seven years below the constitutional age requirement, was nominated by the McCarthy delegation from Wisconsin.

Before he withdrew, the convention fell into another hassle over a request to make a seconding speech which the chair ruled came too late.

Muskie, 54, is a quiet, able 10-year senator and a very mild dove whose "inclination to actively pursue the possibility of a bombing halt" if there were a lull in Vietnam fighting might help quiet the criticism of Humphrey as an advocate of administration war policy. Sen. George McGovern (D.—S. Dak.), who had tried to pick up the banner of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, said he was pleased with Muskie's selection. Humphrey said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D—Mass.) was also very high on Muskie.

SECOND SPOT

Muskie won second spot on the ticket with 1,944½ votes. Bond received 48½ votes and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who lost the presidential nomination to Humphrey, won three.

Muskie's name was placed in nomination by Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma and seconded by New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, both of whom were also considered for the position.

Alabama, which Wednesday cast a couple of votes for football coach Bear Bryant for president, cast 3½ vice-presidential votes for Chicago's embattled mayor, Richard J. Daley. The mayor, who has been booed for his policemen's strongarm tactics downtown, was cheered by a claque of placard-waving faithful. But on the convention floor, the votes for Daley brought more boos.

McCarthy Defiantly Fights On

The Washington Post

CHICAGO — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy called on his dispirited supporters Thursday to continue working for reform within the Democratic party and then ruled out support for Hubert H. Humphrey this fall.

In a poignant speech to his sad-eyed followers,, McCarthy promised to support senate candidates who share his views, but then in an unusually defiant declaration said: "We've forgotten the convention. We've forgotten the vice-president. We've forgotten the platform."

After that speech in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, McCarthy crossed Michigan Avenue to Grant Park, where he addressed a more radical gathering where Wednesday night's battle with police was fought.

In a reference to both Humphrey and the Republican nominee, McCarthy said flatly, "I do not endorse either of them."

He told them he had set out last year to encourage people to "make a judgment" against the war in Vietnam.

"We did accomplish that," he said. "It's only that the judgment could not be put through the procedures of politics in 1968."

Kidnapper Caught After Gun Battle; Child Safe

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — FBI agents rescued four-year-old Stanley Stalford Jr. from a kidnapper today after the abductor tried to use the boy as a shield following a gun battle during a high-speed car chase. The ransom money was reported recovered.

Curly-haired Stanley and his abductor, identified by the FBI as Robert L. Dacy of Lakewood, Calif., were taken to hospital.

One report said the boy, son of a banker, was treated for a gash in his leg.

The FBI in Washington said, however, that the boy escaped injury. Agents said Dacy, 39, was wounded in the right arm, and the ransom money—$250,000 had been requested—was recovered.

FBI agents chased Dacy at breakneck speed through city streets, exchanging shots.

One of the agents rammed Dacy's auto with his pursuit car.

Dacy was trapped, agents said, as they converged on the area to corner him.

They said he tried to shield himself with the youngster, but they were able to make the arrest.

Agents didn't immediately say how.

The boy was rescued two days after he was taken from the family's $90,000 home in a secluded area of Beverly Hills by a man posing as an electrician.

HIT BY BULLET

One of the agents involved in the rescue was reported to have suffered a minor bullet wound.

One report said Dacy might have suffered a broken leg when his bullet-riddled car was rammed by the pursuit vehicle.

Stalford, 49, is chairman of the board of the $100,000,000 Fidelity Bank of Beverly Hills.

He and his wife spent anguished hours after the abduction waiting for a promised call from the kidnapper—and making what police said were earnest efforts to pay the ransom

"The parents can well afford to pay," said Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson.

Youth Pelt Guards

CHICAGO (AP)—Youths throwing bottles and glasses down on Illinois National Guard troops patrolling the street in front of the Conrad Hilton Hotel today brought police to the 15th floor, where they quickly ordered 50 of the young people to the lobby.

The guardsmen were stationed on Michigan Ave. guarding the Democratic national convention headquarters hotel against singing, chanting antiwar demonstrators across the street.

Thursday night they fired tear gas on some 3,000 anti-war demonstrators and a number of convention delegates, and 79 persons, including eight convention delegates or alternates and two reporters, were arrested several blocks south of the Conrad Hilton.

Today, helmeted police swept through Hilton rooms facing Michigan Ave.—many adorned with the blue and white flower symbol of Senator Eugene McCarthy—and ordered about 50 youthful occupants downstairs to the main lobby.

The youths filed into elevators, some pushed by police, and the hallway of the 15th floor was cleared within minutes.

Down in the lobby area, some 30 of the youths sat on the floor in an elevator area singing, We Shall Overcome.

There were no arrests.

Police said the majority of those ordered to the lobby were not hotel occupants.

PROTEST WAR POLICIES

In the confrontation Thursday night, the demonstrators—from varied backgrounds—protested administration war policies, the conduct of the convention and alleged police brutality.

The demonstrators, many wearing delegate identification tags and buttons supporting the candidacy of McCarthy, were stopped in their attempt to march to the International Amphitheatre, site of the security-tightened convention five miles away.

Mass arrests came later in a confrontation between Guardsmen and a mile-long line of marchers, led by Dick Gregory, Negro civil rights activist who had invited the demonstrators to his South Side home.

The marchers were told at 18th Street and South Michigan Ave. that any further advance would be met with arrests.

Gregory and Thomas Day Frasier, a paraplegic and a Democratic county chairman from Tulsa, Okla., ignored the order and were immediately arrested. Frasier was in a wheel chair.

Rock-throwing followed as guardsmen fired tear gas and used rifle butts to disperse the crowd. More tear gas cannisters were fired and the crowd dispersed to regroup at Grant Park, across from the Conrad Hilton Hotel, hub of downtown convention activity.

There the demonstrators sat peacefully on the littered grass of Chicago's lakefront as the odor of the gas lingered in the night-time air. Convention delegates returned to the Hilton under the armed security of 1,400 guardsmen, six lines deep in front of the hotel.

Protests By B.C. Leaders

The federal government announced today it has killed the winter works program to save money.

The decision was immediately protested by provincial and municipal leaders in British Columbia and Greater Victoria.

These were the first reactions:

"I'm most disappointed"—Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

"A great disappointment"—Oak Bay Mayor Fred Hawes.

"Alarm and complete wonderment"—Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

"Very bad news for our municipalities"—Union of B.C. Municipalities president Mayor Peter Wing of Kamloops.

"Not unexpected"—Esquimalt Mayor Ray Bryant.

Premier Bennett just shook his head.

Victoria city manager Dennis Young responded differently.

"From a local point of view, or rather from a parochial local point of view, the loss of revenue will naturally be felt," he said.

INEFFICIENT

"But from the point of view of the federal and provincial governments the winter works program as a way of stabilizing employment was a most costly and inefficient way of spending public funds.

"It is hoped that before too long the senior governments will come up with a more satisfactory method, a better approach to the problem."

Prime Minister Trudeau said because of the need for "the greatest possible restraint with respect to expenditures by all levels of government ... the government has decided not to provide incentives for municipal works in the winter of 1968-69."

He said the government has been re-examining its expenditure program. Financial and budgetary circumstances were such that it was essential to cut spending.

WORKED WELL

Mayor Curtis said while the winter works program has created difficulties and possibly has been misused in some parts of the country, it worked very well here and particularly in municipalities like Saanich "where we have not simply thrown anything into winter works.

"It is unfortunate the prime minister and his advisers haven't recognized the social implications of killing this program.

"We have succeeded in Saanich in taking men off welfare, given them work, they have done it well and it has given them faith to do a job and do it well.

"To say that winter works must be dropped because it uses federal and provincial dollars is short-sighted in the extreme. Those same government dollars will be paid through increased welfare costs with no useful work being accomplished.

'War Policy Can Change'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

CHICAGO (AP)—Presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey, moving swiftly to unify a sorely-split Democratic party. said Thursday night Vietnam policy can be changed if he is elected and pleaded openly for support from disgruntled anti-war factions.

He lashed out at both "mob violence" and "police brutality" but also warned that "rioting, burning, looting, mugging . . . are the advance guard of anarchy and must and will be stopped."

Humphrey closed the four-day national convention with his acceptance speech—a convention that featured tumult and dissent within the tightly-guarded convention hall and bitter, bloody clashes between police and thousands of anti-war demonstrators outside.

President Johnson decided at the last minute not to attend the final session of the convention. At the Texas White House his press secretary restated Johnson's distaste for violence.

A brave show of unity was displayed at the finale but the party faces an uphill struggle in the next 10 weeks to retain power.

MORE MACE IN FACE THIS TIME U.K. MP

WINNIPEG (CP) — A British woman Labor member of Parliament said today she was sprayed with Mace, roughed up by police and thrown in jail Wednesday night during demonstrations in Chicago.

"The whole thing was a nightmare," said Mrs. Anne Kerr, 43.

Speaking in an interview from her hotel room bed, Mrs. Kerr said she is demanding a personal apology from Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, the man she said was responsible for "the whole wretched situation" in Chicago during the Democratic convention.

She and her MP husband Russell, stopped here during a Western Canada visit.

Mrs. Kerr, her eyes swollen almost shut, described the experience and the "atmosphere of tension" in in Chicago.

She said she had been staying at the Hilton Hotel and was talking to some young people outside during the disturbances when police told them to move along.

"The next thing I knew I was thrown into a van," she said.

"I joined in singing "We Shall Overcome" and the next thing . . . I was sprayed in the face. I thought I had been blinded."

●

Mrs. Kerr said she was taken to a police station but couldn't recall all that was said.

"I don't know exactly what was said . . . . somebody grabbed me and threw me into a cell."

She said she asked to see a lawyer or the British consul without success and was kept in the cell for "about five hours".

She said she showed her identification card to the police before she was thrown in the cell and later was told she could go after paying a $25 fine.

"I still don't know what the charge was. I was in a pretty shocked condition."

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures declined 2 cents, setting seasonal lows in all six contracts on the Board of Trade.

Other grain futures and soybeans also closed on a mostly lower tone. Trade was fairly active and mixed.

Liquidation in all pits started shortly after the opening. There was a lack of buying incentive and as prices declined more longs sought to get out.

MARKET SUMMARIES

N.Y. Holds Advance

Toronto was fractionally lower in moderate trade near the close of business today while New York showed small gains in late trade.

In Montreal, industrials led the market higher and in Vancouver, the industrials were stronger.

AT TORONTO final volume was 3,286,000 shares compared with 3,410,000 Thursday.

In industrials, Canadian Goldale fell 1⅜ to 28¼, Falconbridge 1¼ to 98¾, Canada Steamship Lines ⅝ to 29¼, Inland Natural Gas ½ to 12½. Seagrams ½ to 46 and Tru-Wall Concrete 60 cents to $2.70.

Emco gained 3⅝ to 25⅝, Consolidated Textile 2¼ to 14¼. Great Northern Capital 2⅛ to 10, Massey-Ferguson 1¾ to 17¾ and Galt Malleable Iron 1¾ to 10¼.

Canadian Homestead was up 40 cents to $8.40 and Triad Oil 15 cents to $3.45. Numac lost 15 cents to $7.35.

AT NEW YORK gains outnumbered losses by a little less than 200 issue.

A variety of blue chips and more speculative issues provided the backbone for the rise. Wall Street was cautious, but there apparently was no pessissism about the course of the market after the Labor Day milestone. Exchanges will close on Monday.

Among active issues, City Investing and Handleman rose about 2 points.

Less active, Phelps Dodge spurted 5 or 6 points. IBM sank 4.

Gains of a point or so were made by Uniroyal, Sperry Rand, Polaroid, Xerox, Lorillard and Southern Pacific.

In Canadians, Massey gained ⅝, Alcan ½, Walker Gooderham ¼, Canadian Pacific ⅛ and Dome Mines ⅛. International Nickel dropped ⅛ and Hudson Bay Mining ⅛.

AT MONTREAL Consolidated Textiles climbed 2 to 14½, Radio Engineering 1⅞ to 39¼, Levy 1⅞ to 29½, Canadian Foundation 1¾ to 8¼, Placer 1½ to 29¾ and United Auto Parts A 1¼ to 25¾.

Massey-Ferguson added 1¼ to 17¼ on 12,030 shares despite a decline in third quarter earnings to 20 cents a share from 41 cents in the corresponding period a year earlier.

In senior mines, Denison fell 2 to 74, Falconbridge 1 to 98½ and Cominco ½ to 26½. Noranda edged up ⅝ to 52 and Inco ⅛ to 41⅝.

Val-Mar picked up 1⅞ to 12⅝ in Canadian Stock Exchange industrials as Canadore added 1 cent to 51 cents on 52,500 shares among speculative mines and oils.

AT LONDON the market generally firmed today, although gilt-edged issues were sasier in reflection of the further foreign exchange weakness of sterling.

Dollar stocks made a good showing, despite a slightly easier investment premium, and gains of a point or two were widespread. In Canadians Dome Pete added five points.

Canadian banks also improved, with Bank of Montreal a very firm market.

AT VANCOUVER Great National Lands, a new industrial traded 39,000 shares to noon with late sales at $2.

In the industrial market, B.C. Sugar was up $1 to $44, Field Stores up .37 to $14 and Western Heritage up .40 to $5. Canadian Allied dipped .87 to $11.12.

Mines were fractionally stronger with Copper Ridge up .02 to .49 on 197,900 shares. Calta advanced .25 to $5.25, Highmont .11 to $2.10, Magnum .25 to $3.85 and Oro .10 to $1.05.

Lornex was off .20 to $8.55 and Pacific Asbestos off .12 to $2.18.

In the oil section, Stampede gained .10 to $2.30.

American Motors Halts Loss

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp., has reported a total net loss of $2,561,000 in its third quarter but asserted the firm no longer is losing money on its automotive operations.

AMC, smallest of the four major U.S. automakers, said its third-quarter loss, equalling 14 cents a share, resulted chiefly from absorbing a loss on its books from the recent sale of the Kelvinator appliance division.

The division had a book value of $31,250,000, officials of the firm said. Kelvinator was sold for $24,000,000 to White Consolidated Industries of Cleveland.

The company reported a total profit during the first nine months of its fiscal year of $17,773,000, or 93 cents a share, compared with a net loss in the same period a year ago of $47,986,000, or $2.52 a share.

B.C. Sales Up In Implements

British Columbia and Quebec were the only provinces with increased farm implement sales during the first half of 1968, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Total sales in Canada dropped 20 per cent to $156,346,000 from $195,426,000 during the first six months of 1967.

B.C. sales increased 3 per cent to $4,748,000 from $4,611,000, while Quebec sales were up 8.8 per cent to $19,809,000 from $18,210,000.

Sales on the prairie provinces were down the most: Manitoba 22.8 per cent to $17,594,000, Saskatchewan 34.3 per cent to $37,655,000 and Alberta 26.6 per cent to $32,564,000.

Ontario sales were down 8.5 per cent to $39,600,000 and the Atlantic provinces 9.1 per cent to $4,379,000.

Arthur Mayse

One day this week, a caller told me about a young man — she didn't know his name—who has completed his freshman year at the University of Victoria, won a government scholarship, and been informed that the university will not take him back in September.

Her story struck me as fantastic.

Was the fellow a thief, or had he committed a gross act of open immorality, or been caught cheating in his examinations?

Oh no, I was told. He was a decent boy and a hard worker. But four years ago, he had failed that same freshman year, and had been disqualified on those grounds.

Still fantastic. But I asked her to get me his name if she could. This she did, and here is the account he gave me.

His name is John Thomas, his age, 23. He is staying at 3635 Happy Valley Road with his bride of a few months.

He confirmed what I had heard about him, with corrections.

"I failed my freshman year twice," he said. "The first time was in 1963-64 when I was 18, and again the next year."

★

"What happened?" I asked him. Eighteen is pretty young; maybe he'd fooled his time away, as full many an 18-year-old has done and will no-doubt continue to do.

But it wasn't like that at all. John Thomas knew that if he was to get his chance at higher education, he must work for it.

And work he did, as a longshoreman on the spare board, which means that he was on call whenever one of the regulars happened to be off the job.

Overburdened, he lost those two years ... a failure that still disgusts him. John Thomas is not given to self-pity.

He thought things over, then hunted up work in the woods. One day, he promised himself, he would return with a good stake made, and renew his assault on education.

He signed on at Port Renfrew as a chokerman. He moved up from one job to another, and when he registered last year at Uvic to try the consequence again, he was a trained and useful man with money in the bank.

Unhampered by side-issues he did well, as his provincial government scholarship bears witness. You should know, too, that payment of the scholarship which would cover two-thirds of his second-year fees is conditional on attendence.

In the case of John Thomas—disqualified by a university rule designed to rid the campus of the perennial drone the provincial government award is reduced to a bad joke. His two failures of years ago outweigh his last year's success. He isn't to be allowed to continue.

★

Why, then, if the bars went up after two failures, had he been allowed to return last fall?

"Well, they tell me I should have re-registered. You see, I was ashamed of my past record, and I could see no reason for bringing it up this long after. So I simply registered as a new student."

By so doing, he falsified a record, or so the Uvic powers regard his act, and the two-failure rule is to be applied without regard for special circumstances surrounding the case.

It was pointed out to him, John Thomas told me, that all was not lost. He might gain his degree by the summer school route. If I remember correctly, three summer school courses equal one academic year on campus. At that rate, he might hope to graduate in nine years ... at the age of 32.

"What do you plan to do?" I asked him.

"Find a job in town," he said. "sign up for night courses, and go to summer school next year."

So there you have it, and if it smacks to you of bureaucracy, red tape and rigid-mindedness, so does it to me. Neither does it jibe with my feeling of what a university should be.

I asked one more question, and drew a reply freighted with unintended irony.

"What do you want to be?"

"I want to teach," said the scholarship winner for whom our university has no place. "And eventually, a university professor."

Adults Fail Youths' Need Report Claims

By JOHN SLINGER

The mere existence of the youth-run Cool-Aid service signifies a failure of adult-run social agencies to deal with youth problems in Victoria, says a report prepared by four university volunteers who ran Cool-Aid for six weeks this summer.

The four, from universities in Nova Scotia, Ontario and Alberta, were working with Cool-Aid as part of a program called Summer of Service sponsored by major Canadian churches.

"Discriminating regulations and red tape" stop young people in trouble from approaching locally and provincially run social agencies, the report says.

Cool-Aid was established to supply needy transient and local youngsters with temporary housing, food, temporary or permanent employment and to put them in contact with medical and legal personnel.

AID ASKED

Because of its informal approach, "many young people, afraid of the social agencies' impersonal attitude, have sought the aid and advice of our young Cool-Aid staff."

"Young people identify with other young people, not with application forms."

The Roman Catholic Church-sponsored St. Vincent de Paul Society, "has been the only one truly interested and helpful in dealing with youth problems," says the report.

During their six weeks, the volunteer group found temporary billets for 100 young men and 10 young women.

The report says they lined up 20 temporary and five permanent jobs, put 10 persons in touch with legal aid and found medical and emergency dental help for five persons.

PROFESSIONALS

Its list of contacts includes two lawyers, three medical doctors, a psychiatrist and a dentist willing to do free work.

Nearly all of its work was done among hippie elements and three of the volunteers note a general apathy which made it difficult for the youngsters "to translate any ideas and criticisms into concrete action."

When they asked the group who frequent the Broad Street Youth Centre what they considered the needs of Victoria's youth, the majority answer was "more bands."

The report says the great need is not for physical facilities, but for "some spark which will initiate enthusiasm among the kids themselves.

This "demands a change in attitude from parents and city coujcil — both of which, to date, have managed fairly effectively to put a damper on many youth-originated projects."

"We agree that a change in the adult attitude to youth is very much needed if further progress is to be made."

NDP Hits Chatterton Appointment

George Chatterton's appointment as a $12,900-a-year provincial civil servant was branded Thursday as "pork barrel politics."

The charge was made by the NDP's housing critic Robert Williams, MLA for Vancouver East, and a town planner after Premier Bennett announced the defeated Conservative MP's experience in housing administration was "a godsend" to the government.

"It's more of a godsend to Mr. Chatterton," snapped Mr. Williams. "His main qualification for this job seems to have been that he helped Peter Pollen in the Oak Bay byelection.

"TURNCOAT TORY"

"Mr. Chatterton is just another turncoat Tory."

(Mr. Chatterton, defeated in the June federal election by Liberal David Anderson for the Esquimalt-Saanich seat, appeared the following month on a platform with Premier Bennett at a Social Credit rally to campaign for Mr. Pollen in the Oak Bay provincial by-election. Mr. Pollen also was defeated by a Liberal, Allan Cox.)

Mr. Williams conceded that Mr. Chatterton "had a good background in municipal government and his experience in VLA has some significance" but he said many other persons in B.C. were available and better-qualified for the appointment.

Civil service appointments normally are made by the Civil Service Commission after advertising of the opening and examination of all the applicants but Mr. Bennett said Mr. Chatterton was appointed by the cabinet.

Replying to Mr. Williams' charge Mr. Chatterton said:

"I hope that my connection with Peter Pollen was irrelevant in my new appointment.

BETTER QUALIFICATIONS

"I have better qualifications than that."

He said he had been Vancouver Island administrator of the Veterans' Land Act for 16 years.

"That meant I was responsible for all veteran housing, both new and existing, in the area," said Mr. Chatterton.

He also recalled that he had been Conservative spokesman on housing in Ottawa and had been appointed chairman of a committee on housing.

"I have a fairly good understanding of the problems from a federal point of view and I think this will help me in in understanding the provincial problems," he said.

Criminal Record Worst Part Of the Penalty

Two young men who pleaded guilty today to steadling a few books were told the biggest penalty they were getting was a criminal record.

James Barrell and Garry Clark, both 22 and both of 1211 North Park, took two library books valued at less than $10 from a parked car on Courtenay Street Aug. 16.

They said they were both drunk at the time. The books were titled The History of East Africa and An Introduction to World Politics.

Magistrate William Ostler asked the accused if they planned to read the books, to which they said no..

"Perhaps a suitable punishment would be to make them sit down and read the books," he said.

At this point prosecutor John Macintyre suggested the punishment could be writing out the books.

"Or writing essays on them," said the magistrate.

"The best thing to do is to fine them for being drunk," he added.

"This is one of these cases where I wish I could give a complete discharge," which would save the men from bearing a criminal record for the rest of their lives.

The accused were each fined $25.

MILD AND DRY

Victorians can look forward to a mild, dry Labor Day weekend.

The weather office is forecasting temperatures in the 70s for Saturday and dropping to the mid-60s on Sunday and Monday.

There may be some fog Saturday and clouds are forecast for Sunday, with clearing again on Labor Day.

Convention Centre—Take It or Leave It

OUT OF THIS CONFUSION will come the Victoria branch of the Bank of British Columbia. New bank is being created out of building on southeast corner of Douglas and Johnson Streets which housed The Toggery Shop until recently. Completion date has been set for October 21, with occupancy before the end of October. Renovations are being carried out by Victoria builder G. H. Wheaton. (Times photo.)

Council Won't Beg For Acceptance

By JIM HUME

Victoria city council will not adopt the "role of the postulant begging the citizens to accept a convention centre".

Mayor Hugh Stephen made the statement Thursday afternoon during a brief between-conferences interview.

Under heavy critical fire from some quarters of the community, Mayor Stephen said he felt city council had done all it could to accommodate old demands that the city get into the major convention business.

"We have done what we were requested to do, brought in a plan for a convention centre," he said. "I do not think we should now have to go down on our knees and beg acceptance of that plan.

"I think the people of this community who made the demands that we have a convention centre should now get out and sell it."

Wednesday morning the mayor, Ald. Hugh Ramsay, city manager Dennis Young and planner Geoff Greenhalgh met with members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to answer questions and spell out the proposal to build a convention centre on the site of the Empress parking lot.

The city officials said the meeting was informal but were cautious in their estimate of its success.

Mr. Young was more optimistic when describing the nature of recent talks with CPR officials.

'Discussions Are Continuing'

"Discussions are continuing and will continue for some time," he said. "It is too early to make any statements yet, but the tenor of the talks is most encouraging."

It was not until early August that Victorians got their first knowledge that a major project was in the works for the rear of the Empress.

Details at the time were skimpy, but it was made public that a convention centre, underground parking and highrise towers were in the planning stage.

Last Thursday Fred Joplin, special projects chief for the CPR, unveiled the detailed plan which would see the city build a $2.2 million convention centre "plugged in" to the Empress.

The land on which the centre would be built would be rented to the city for a nominal sum of $1 a year.

Included in the convention centre package was a proposal that the CPR purchase from the city for $500,000 the Crystal Garden site, raze the old building and erect two highrise buildings. A third highrise would be built on the site of the old CPR power plant.

Reaction to the proposal was swift and for the most part negative with critics claiming that the city was making too many concessions to the CPR and, in effect, handing them a gift package of a $2 million convention centre.

The charges were strongly denied by elected and paid officials of the city who claim that the CPR proposal will be difficult to beat.

In an earlier interview Mayor Stephen said that if the city was to have a convention centre of any kind it would have to be plugged-in to an existing hotel or a new hotel.

"It just is not economically feasible to build a free-standing convention centre," he said. "If it were proposed that the city build a convention centre well away from existing hotels, I would oppose the move strongly."

In answer to the challenge that a convention centre built by public funds would only benefit a small segment of the community Mr. Young noted that earlier studies did not support the charge.

Two independent surveys of sections of the city have stated that the business generated by large conventions reaches all segments of the community either in cash or improved services.

'Significant Contribution'

The first report prepared by the Portland firm of Lund, McCutcheon and McBride said the convention business would make a most significant contribution to the economy of the city at large.

It was presented to the city's convention centre committee in 1966.

Earlier this year a second report prepared by Akers Western, a Vancouver economic consultant firm, made a similar observation when it presented its Wharf Street urban renewal economic feasibility report to city council.

"We have been told that some members of the business community are not satisfied that a convention centre would profit the community," said Mr. Young.

"I really don't know what more we can do to show that while the centre itself might well operate at a loss, the business it generates in the downtown area would be a tremendous boost to the economy."

In May, 1967, the convention centre committee under the chairmanship of Ald. Cylde Savage, presented its report and recommendations to city council after a year of study.

It stated: "After consideration of all the data made available to it ... the committee enthusiastically endorses construction of a convention centre which wil make a significant contribution to the city's economy. This opinion has been confirmed by the approaches which have been made by many organizations wishing to make reservations for conventions to be held in 1969 and the committee urges council to proceed with all dispatch towards the construction of a suitable centre Stephen, is what city council, after another year of detailed study has done: proceeded to find and present the most economic answer to the demands of the people.

Mayor Stephen also notes that although surprise is being expressed in some quarters over the proposed location of the centre, the Empress parking lot was one of two sites selected by the convention centre committee.

The committee suggested a Wharf Street waterfront site as the prime objective with the Crystal Garden and Empress parking lot site a strong second choice.

Health Act Holds Key For Sewer Projects

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark today emphasized that both the spirit and the letter of the law will be enforced which requires all sewer projects and bylaws in the province to have his department's approval.

He made it plain he was referring to both Saanich's proposed sewer amalgamation bylaw and Maliview Estates Ltd.'s plan to dump septic tank effluent into Trincomali Channel.

And he pointedly added that neither Saanich council nor Maliview has yet asked for his approval as required by the provincial Health Act.

"The law is clear that these things cannot be done legally until they have my approval," he said.

Mr. Loffmark said Pollution Control Board permits—as given to Maliview Estates—do not affect the Health Act requirement in any way. And he indicated that a PCB permit will not carry any weight in the department's examination of potential health dangers.

'STILL OUR JOB'

"Our responsibility is to consider the public health aspect and that is in no way abrogated by a Pollution Control Board permit—it is still our responsibility to examine the matter and decide whether a certificate will be issued."

Mr. Loffmark said he held a meeting with health department sanitary engineers on the Maliview proposal Thursday but was informed there still has been no application from the company for a health certificate.

"We sent them a letter a few days ago pointing out the legal requirements and advising them they cannot go ahead until they apply for and obtain our certificate."

Asked if one was likely to be issued should an application come in, he replied:

"I cannot anticipate the result until we have had an application and have held a formal examination of the proposal."

When asked if Saanich municipality has applied yet for the certificate required before it can put a sewer bylaw to a vote, Mr. Loffmark said:

"The answer is no. It may be in the department but I haven't seen it yet."

Mr. Loffmark's personal signature is required under the Health Act. The statute also says that every sewer bylaw put to a vote must begin with a preamble that the health certificate has been obtained.

PRIVATE EYES DEAD ON LEVEL

By ALLAN WHITE

"My friends sometimes ask me why my eyes have taken the shape of keyholes. This makes me very angry.

detective is poor," British indtective is poor," British investigator John Tyrer said today in his Empress Hotel suite.

"In fact, the private detectives I know are first-class people."

Mr. Tyrer, owner of the investigating London firm of Burr and Wyatt, was in the city for a one-day holiday. His visit followed the week-long convention of the World Association of Detectives in Vancouver.

"The type of men at the convention are a credit to any organization," Mr. Tyrer said.

"Ours is a growing profession," Mr. Tyrer said. "And it is a profession ... like dentists, lawyers or doctors."

INTEGRITY VITAL

The Association of British Detectives, of which he is current president, is in the process of registering as a chartered profession.

"We have a check in the association ... we make sure a man has standards of integrity and he has to pass an examination," Mr. Tyrer said.

"I don't accept instructions from the general public. Our clients are lawyers, banks and the large industrial firms."

WORLD NET

The world association, which held its fifth annual meeting this year, brings investigating firms together in a professional relationship, he said.

Members discuss techniques from various parts of the world (with representatives from such places as Tel Aviv and Buenos Aires present this year) and get to know each others as professionals.

"If I have a problem which needs to be investigated, I would send it to a member of the association," Mr. Tyrer said.

"It is much more efficient and pleasant to write to someone who is a personal friend and whom you know and trust."

"At the conventions ... we discuss business methods to improve our standards," he said. His business is primarily investigation of insurance claims and factory larceny.

City Radio Pioneer Dies in 85th Year

Victoria has lost one of its radio pioneers.

Back in the early 20s, when there were not factory-made radios—John Thomas Ball produced hundreds of crystal and one-tube sets at his home on Harriet Road.

"He had difficulty keeping up with the orders," his son, George R. Ball, said today.

Mr. Ball died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday at the age of 84. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. T. H. McAllister, will be held in McCall Brothers chapel Saturday at noon.

In 1920, Mr. Ball opened Victoria's first electrical automotive business on Harriet Road. Soon after he began making radio sets and, when the first studio programs were broadcast in 1921, there was a brisk local demand.

"Dad's radios were noted for their quality," George Ball said, "and many of them lasted for years. When factory-made sets came on the market, he relaxed his efforts in this direction but still made sets to order.

"And he did a great deal of repair work."

During the Second World War, when factories ceased making luxury goods, Mr. Ball again turned out radios in some quantity. And his enthusiasm for radio continued long after he retired from his electrical automotive business in 1945.

Born in Cornwell, England, he migrated to Canada in 1905 and operated a small business at Napika, Man., before coming to Victoria.

He was a member of the Associated Radio Technicians of British Columbia.

Besides his son, Mr. Ball is survived by two daughters, Mrs. G. M. Butler, Portland, Oregon and Mrs. Harry Brawn, Victoria.

It's No. 100 At Saanichton On Weekend

Celebrations to mark the opening of the Saanichton fair celebrating its 100th anniversary will start at 1 p.m. Saturday.

A record crowd from all parts of Vancouver Island, and many visitors from the mainland, are expected to attend the three-day exhibition.

It will be the Victoria area's biggest attraction over the Labor Day weekend.

The fair will feature pagenatry, a wide variety of special attractions, plus thousands of horticultural exhibits.

Opening ceremonies will be conducted by Gen. G. R. Pearkes, former lieutenant-governor, at a newly constructed bandshell on the grounds.

He will arrive at the fair in a horse-drawn carriage. The armed services band from Naden will be in attendance.

4-H OPENER

Actually the fair gates will be thrown open to the public at 9 a.m., when the junior horse show and 4-H Club competitions get under way.

But the main program of entertainment will begin in the afternoon with a band concert and two half-hour variety shows.

In the evening there will be cutting-horse competitons and square dancing by 4-H club members. A midway will be in operation throughout the day.

The fair will remain open on Sunday, except for the horticultural building.

Special attractions will include a horse show featuring western events and cutting-horse competitions, and a concert by the Silver Thread Choral Group in the afternoon.

On Monday the fair will be in full swing and will feature a horse show (English events), Highland dancing, and 4-H Club competitions.

Vancouver Island Indians are participating in the celebrations and will have on display a large exhibition of arts and crafts.

Ask The Times

Q. Can you tell me the name of Canada's Patron Saint?—B.B.

A. During the middle ages the practice of picking a Paint Saint arose. This saint would have special attributes for helping the group to which they belonged. According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica Canada's Patron Saint is St. Joseph. St. Joseph's Day falls on March 19.

Q. How do they make Pres-to-Logs?—B.B.

According to B.C. Forest Products, Pres-to-logs are made from plywood scraps which are subjected to 165,000 lbs. pressure in cylinders. Under this pressure (which generates a great deal of heat) a solid fuel log is formed which is more than three times as dense as wood. Each machine manufactures two Pres-to-logs per minute or about ten tons of the logs each day. No binding agents or chemicals are used.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Opening lead—♦ Q

Today's hand was played somewhere in New Jersey and reported by Dick Budd in the Declarer, the bulletin of the New Jersey Bridge League. South's three-heart call was highly competitive but he played the dummy like an overbidder should and made his contract.

Diamonds were opened and continued. South ruffed the second and lost a spade finesse. A third diamond was ruffed also and South led a low trump in order to retain trump control. West rose with the queen and led his last diamond to force South to ruff the third time. South cashed his ace of trumps and led a spade to dummy's ace. Then he made the unusual play of dummy's last trump to throw East in lead. East got out with his last spade and South was finally down to the problem which had worried him from trick one. Where was the queen of clubs?

It had worried South at trick one but it wasn't worrying him now. East had already shown up with 14 high card points and a balanced hand for his opening bid. If he also held the queen of clubs, he would have held a perfect 16 point no-trump and East was not a man to miss the chance to bid no-trump.

As a further check on the situation West had shown two queens and a jack for his spade bid. Even another queen wouldn't give him much of a hand but without that queen it was very doubtful that he would have opened his mouth at all.

Therefore South played his king of clubs and led a low club. He would have finessed if necessary but West produced the queen and saved South the bother.

WONDERFUL WORKING CONDITIONS FOR MAN AND WIFE

IN FAST-GROWING AREA

Exciting Business

This is one of Victoria's cleanest retail outlets. Just over three years old, it is in a very distinctive shopping centre. With good management, it is possible to make about $9-$10,000 this year in profit and wages with one partner only working full time. Hours are from 9-6 p.m. daily and Friday til 9 p.m. Closed Sundays and holidays. It is just like operating a nice drug store but without a dispensary. The volume is growing about 20 per cent a year but expenses remain very constant. All the growing pains are gone!! The owners reluctantly must go to their family in Vancouver. Asking only $9,500 for business and fixtures on an audited statement plus stock of about $21,000. We will gladly arrange the trade of any property or business you may wish to use for dollars. Call CROWN and ask for F. WILLS, Crown Realty, G. D. Peaker Holdings Ltd., 1405 Douglas St.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was dull through the close today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Flax trading was mixed and light. The October future was holding an 18-cent premium over deferred futures.

Curtailed exporter buying kept rapeseed prices steady to fractionally stronger. Rye gained fractionally on some miller buying.

Oats and barley were steady on limited shipper buying.

The only export business reported was sale of 40,000 bushels of rapeseed to Formosa.

Export clearances of Canadian wheat Tuesday and Wednesday included: Congo 36,500 bushels; Germany 96,320; Italy 111,000; The Netherlands 3,733; Switzerland 37,333; Turkey 32,517; Britain 517,000; Japan 513,000.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures declined 2 cents, setting seasonal lows in all six contracts on the Board of Trade.

Other grain futures and soybeans also closed on a mostly lower tone. Trade was fairly active and mixed.

Liquidation in all pits started shortly after the opening. There was a lack of buying incentive and as prices declined more longs sought to get out.

The principal factor in the decline of wheat was a lack of export business and a technical consideration involving intentions to deliver against September contracts.

Soybeans also came under heavy liquidation, especially in the September contract.

Soybean meal and soybean oil also came under selling pressure but oil prices rallied at the close. Meal futures declined some 85 points at one time.

MARKET SUMMARIES

N.Y. Holds Advance

Toronto was fractionally lower in moderate trade near the close of business today while New York showed small gains in late trade.

In Montreal, industrials led the market higher and in Vancouver, the industrials were stronger.

AT TORONTO final volume was 3,286,000 shares compared with 3,410,000 Thursday.

In industrials, Canadian Goldale fell 1⅜ to 28¼; Falconbridge 1¼ to 98⅝, Canada Steamship Lines ⅝ to 29¼, Inland Natural Gas ½ to 12½. Seagrams ½ to 46 and Tru-Wall Concrete 60 cents to $2.70.

Emco gained 3⅝ to 25⅝, Consolidated Textile 2¼ to 14¼, Great Northern Capital 2⅛ to 10, Massey-Ferguson 1¾ to 17¾ and Galt Malleable Iron 1¾ to 10¼.

Canadian Homestead was up 40 cents to $8.40 and Triad Oil 15 cents to $3.45. Numac lost 15 cents to $7.35.

AT NEW YORK gains outnumbered losses by a little less than 200 issue.

A variety of blue chips and more speculative issues provided the backbone for the rise. Wall Street was cautious, but there apparently was no pessissism about the course of the market after the Labor Day milestone. Exchanges will close on Monday.

Among active issues, City Investing and Handleman rose about 2 points.

Less active, Phelps Dodge spurted 5 or 6 points. IBM sank 4.

Gains of a point or so were made by Uniroyal, Sperry Rand, Polaroid, Xerox, Lorillard and Southern Pacific.

In Canadians, Massey gained ⅝, Alcan ½, Walker Gooderham ¼, Canadian Pacific ⅛ and Dome Mines ⅛. International Nickel dropped ⅛ and Hudson Bay Mining ⅛.

AT MONTREAL Consolidated Textiles climbed 2 to 14½, Radio Engineering 1⅞ to 39¼, Levy 1⅞ to 29½, Canadian Foundation 1¾ to 8¼, Placer 1½ to 29¾ and United Auto Parts A 1¼ to 25¾.

Massey-Ferguson added 1¼ to 17¼ on 12,030 shares despite a decline in third quarter earnings to 20 cents a share from 41 cents in the corresponding period a year earlier.

In senior mines, Denison fell 2 to 74, Falconbridge 1 to 98½ and Cominco ½ to 26½. Noranda edged up ⅝ to 52 and Inco ⅛ to 41⅝.

Val-Mar picked up 1⅞ to 12⅝ in Canadian Stock Exchange industrials as Canadore added 1 cent to 51 cents on 52,500 shares among speculative mines and oils.

AT LONDON the market generally firmed today, although gilt-edged issues were sasier in reflection of the further foreign exchange weakness of sterling.

Dollar stocks made a good showing, despite a slightly easier investment premium, and gains of a point or two were widespread. In Canadians Dome Pete added five points.

Canadian banks also improved, with Bank of Montreal a very firm market.

AT VANCOUVER Great National Lands, a new industrial traded 39,000 shares to noon with late sales at $2.

In the industrial market, B.C. Sugar was up $1 to $44, Field Stores up .37 to $14 and Western Heritage up .40 to $5. Canadian Allied dipped .87 to $11.12.

Mines were fractionally stronger with Copper Ridge up .02 to .49 on 197,900 shares. Calta advanced .25 to $5.25, Highmont .11 to $2.10, Magnum .25 to $3.85 and Oro .10 to $1.05.

Lornex was off .20 to $8.55 and Pacific Asbestos off .12 to $2.18.

In the oil section, Stampede gained .10 to $2.30.

American Motors Halts Loss

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp., has reported a total net loss of $2,561,000 in its third quarter but asserted the firm no longer is losing money on its automotive operations.

AMC, smallest of the four major U.S. automakers, said its third-quarter loss, equalling 14 cents a share, resulted chiefly from absorbing a loss on its books from the recent sale of the Kelvinator appliance division.

The division had a book value of $31,250,000, officials of the firm said. Kelvinator was sold for $24,000,000 to White Consolidated Industries of Cleveland.

The company reported a total profit during the first nine months of its fiscal year of $17,773,000, or 93 cents a share, compared with a net loss in the same period a year ago of $47,986,000, or $2.52 a share.
